LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

Washington, April 23.—Gen. Cabell, Chief Clerk of the Land Office and Richard Mackall of the 4th Auditor's Office have been dismissed. Senator Borland of Ark., is to be Minister to Central America.

Mr. Buchanan has offered the position of Secretary of Legation at London to Hon. Wm. Appleton of Maine, formerly Member of Congress.

Baltimore, April 22.—FROM MEXCIO.—New Orleans papers of Saturday are received, with dates from the City of Mexico of the 2d inst.

Mr. Falconnet had been arrested on demand of the ex-delegates of the last Congress.

The conduct of Martinez, Governor of Oajaca, had caused a sensation in Mexico by acting independently of the general government. He had united to invite Santa Anna to return to Mexico, and has distributed among the Indians 5000 muskets belonging to the State.

The press had called on President Lombardini to send a sufficient force to Oajaca to prevent a war of castes.

The Marquis Rivera, the new Spanish Minister, arrived at Vera Cruz in the same steamer with Santa Anaa.

Providence, April 21.—Samuel Wood, manufacturer at Central Falls, was instantly killed by being caught in the gearing of his water wheel, this evening. He was about 30 years old, and leaves a wife and two children.

DEATH FROM ROPE JUMPING.—A girl, about fourteen years of age, who was at Sunday school last Sunday, in good health, undertook the next day to jump the rope 200 times without stopping. She did so, but the unnatural exertion threw her into an illness, which proved mortal. She was buried on Tuesday.—N. Y. Tribune.

Father Baden, said to have been the first Roman Catholic Priest ordained in the United States, died at Cincinnati on Tuesday last, aged ninety eight years; he had been a priest over sixty years.

Five vagrant prisoners were confined in the New York City Tombs, on Sunday night, and on Monday morning three of them were found dead, as is supposed from inhaling impure air.

Lady Suffolk's 2:26 in a 2d heat, Tacony's 2:26 in a 3d heat, under the saddle, and Pelham's 2:28 in harness, is the best time made by trotting horses.—Spirit of the Times.

UNDERGROUND RAILROAD.—The N. Y. Tribune says:—

"The New York branch of the underground Railroad has just elected a new Board of Directors, and, as we understand, is doing an extensive business in the forwarding line. It is said that since the 1st of January, 1853, that no less than sixty five passengers have been transported over this branch of the road, and that thirteen took passage for the North in one train last week."

CUBA—COOLIES.—The New York Herald says:

According to the accounts of a returned merchant, from Havana, an interesting experiment was making in the Island of Cuba, with Cooley laborers. It appeared that they were being introduced from English vessels, and that there existed a good demand for them. Planters paid vessels $160 a head for adults—the cost of their passage—and then had them bound to service for eight years, at $4 per month, and found in food, but clothed at their own expense.

It was believed that very few would ever regain their former homes. That those whom hard work, cholera, and the yellow fever spared, would be too poor at the end of the eight years to leave. In other words, it was slavery of the worst kind, in disguise. That while English fleets were vigilant in abolishing the African slave trade, and in preventing the introduction of Africans into Cuba, who were better adapted by nature for the cultivation of sugar, they were tolerating a much more cruel trade in coolies. Their own ships were allowed to transport inoffensive Coolies, and virtually sell them and doom them to slavery for life, and to the worst of all taskmasters, the Spaniards, whose system of servitude was alike successful in exterminating Indians, negroes, and coolies. In Demarara large numbers had been introduced, but they were prohibited in the British colony from laboring in the towns, because their services came in competition with those of free blacks, to whom they were said to be superior in such places. The result, as far as English policy or English philanthropy has gone, has been to abolish black slavery, and reduce another race, less adapted for such labor, to a barbarous servitude in its place, more intolerable than that of the African race.

Perhaps this may all be true:—but the facts stated in the first paragraph, by no means bear out the conclusions of the last.

SUDDEN DEATH.—It becomes our melancholy duty, says the Portland Advertiser, to state that Mr. Joseph Chaney, of the firm of J. Chaney & Son, ships wheels and capstan makers, was instantly killed at their factory, foot of Cedar street, Portland, on Thursday afternoon, about 5 o'clock. He was engaged in sawing a piece of lath with a circular saw, when the lath caught on the outer rim of the saw, and was thrown forward with the velocity of a musket ball, striking him endwise in the chest, breaking one rib, and probably disrupturing some blood vessel—killing him instantly. The lath was but three feet long, one quarter of an inch thick, and seven inches wide, and weighed but little more than half a pound.

Mr. Chaney removed from this city to Portland about eighteen months since. He was highly prized both for his social virtues, and his superior skill as a mechanic; and his loss will be seriously felt in the community. He was 57 years of age.

MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during childhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S

Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,

PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.

[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]

First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and cause of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriages, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be Ignorant.

☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding,) "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (mailed free) to any part of the United States. All letters must be post-paid, and addressed to Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Box 1294, New York City, Publishing Office, No. 129 Liberty Street, New York.

From the Dublin University Magazine.

THE STARS SINK ONE BY ONE FROM SIGHT.

The stars sink one by one from sight,
No trace of them we find;
They vanish from the brow of night,
And none is left behind
Alone,
And none is left behind.

The sun goes to his ocean bed,
In all his rays enshrined;
He wraps them round his crimson head,
And leaveth none behind
To mourn,
And leaveth none behind.

The beautiful and gifted dead,
The noblest of our kind,
Have cast their work aside and fled,
And we are left behind,
Alone,
And we are left behind.

The old dear friends of early time,
Hearts round our hearts entwined,
Have faded from us in their prime,
And we are left behind
To mourn,
And we are left behind.

Pale stars, red sun, ye come again,
For whom no hearts have pined,
We call our darlings back in vain,
Still we are left behind
Alone,
Still we are left behind.

Oh! dear ones, teach us so to run
Our race, in sun and wind,
That we may win where ye have won,
Though we were left behind
Awhile,
Though were left behind.

GENTLE HAND.

BY T. S. ARTHUR.

(Concluded.)

Still, there was not the slightest movement to obey; and the little fellow looked the very image of rebellion. At this crisis in the affair, when a storm seemed inevitable, the sister as I supposed her to be, glided across the room, and stooping down, took the child's hand in hers. Not a word was said, but the young rebel was instantly subdued. Rising, he passed out by her side, and I saw no more of him during the evening.

Soon after I had finished my supper, a neighbor came in, and it was not long before he and the man of the house were involved in a warm political discussion, in which were many more assertions than reasons. My host was not a very clear-headed man, while his antagonist was wordy and specious. The former, as might be supposed, very naturally became excited, and, now and then, indulged himself in rather strong expressions towards his neighbor, who, in turn, dealt back wordy blows that were quite as heavy as he had received, and a good deal more irritating.

And now I marked again the power of that maiden's gentle hand. I did not notice her movement to her father's side. She was there when I first observed her, with one hand laid upon his temple; and lightly smoothing the hair with a caressing motion. Gradually the high tone of the disputant subsided, and his words had in them less of personal rancor.—Still the discussion went on; and I noticed the maiden's hand, which rested on the temple when unimpassioned words were spoken, resumed its caressing motion the instant there was the smallest perceptible tone of anger in the father's voice. It was a beautiful sight; and I could but look on and wonder at the power of that touch, so light, so unobtrusive, yet possessing a spell over the hearts of all around her. As she stood there, she looked like an angel of peace, sent to still the turbulent waters of human passion. Sadly out of place, I could but think her, amid the rough and rude; and yet, why more than they need the softening and humanizing influences of one like the Gentle Hand.

Many times more, during that evening, did I observe the magic power of her hand and voice—the one gentle, yet potent as the other.

On the next morning, breakfast being over, I was preparing to take my departure, when my host informed me that if I would wait for half an hour, he would give me a ride in his wagon to G——, as business required him to go there. I was very well pleased to accept of the invitation. In due time, the farmer's wagon was driven into the road before the house, and I was invited to get in. I noticed the horse as a rough looking Canadian pony, with a certain air of stubborn endurance. As the farmer took his seat by my side the family came to the door to see us off.

"Dick!" said the farmer, in a peremptory voice, giving the rein a quick jerk as he spoke.

But Dick moved not a step.

"Dick! you vagabond! get up." And the farmer's whip cracked sharply by the pony's ear.

It availed not, however, this second appeal, Dick stood firmly disobedient. Next the whip was brought down upon him, with an impatient hand; but the pony only reared up a little. Fast and sharp the strokes were next dealt, to the number of half a dozen. The man might as well have beaten his wagon, for all he gained.

A stout lad now came out into the road, and catching Dick by the bridle, jerked him forward, using, at the time, the customary language on such occasions, but Dick met this new ally with increased stubbornness, planting his forefeet more firmly, and at a sharper angle with the ground. The impatient boy now struck the pony on the side of his head, with his clenched hand, and jerked cruelly at his bridle. It availed nothing, however, Dick was not to be wrought upon by any such arguments.

"Don't do so, John!" I turned my head as the maiden's sweet voice reached my ear.—She was passing through the gate into the road, and, in the next moment, had taken hold of the lad and drawn him away from the animal. No strength was exerted in this; she took hold of his arm, and he obeyed her as readily as if he had no thought beyond her gratification.

And now that soft hand was laid gently on the pony's neck, and a single low word spoken. How instantly were the tense muscles relaxed how quickly the stubborn air vanished.

"Poor Dick!" said the maiden, as she stroked his neck lightly, or softly patted it with her childlike hand.

"Now, go along, you provoking fellow!" she added, in a half chiding, yet affectionate voice, as she drew upon the bridle. The pony turned towards her, and rubbed his head against her arm for an instant or two; then pricking up his ears he started off at a light cheerful trot, and went on his way as freely as if no silly crotchet had ever entered his stubborn brain.

"What a wonderful power that hand possessed!" said I, speaking to my companion, as we rode away.

He looked at me for a moment, as if my remark had occasioned surprise. Then a light came into his countenance, and he said briefly:

"She's good! Everybody and everything loves her."

Was that, indeed, the secret power? Was the quality of her soul perceived in the impression of her hand, even by brute beasts?—The father's explanation was, doubtless, the true one. Yet have I ever since wondered, and still do wonder, at the potency which lay in that maiden's magic touch. I have seen something of the same power, showing itself in the loving and the good but never to the extent as instanced in her, whom, for a better name, I must still call "Gentle Hand."

A gentle touch, a soft word. Ah! but few of us, when the will is strong with its purpose, can believe in the power of agencies so apparently insignificant. And yet all great influences effect their ends silently, unobtrusively, with a force that seems at first glance to be altogether inadequate. Is there not a lesson for us all in this?—Illustrated News.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
TUESDAY, APRIL 26, 1853.

CUBAN SLAVE TRADE.

Under this head the Boston Courier and New York Times give accounts of the capture of a cargo of African slaves, by one Don Capo, and of their landing at Guazima, a small port in the island of Cuba. These accounts are derived from two letters from Matanzas, received in New York. The writer states that the British consul obtained knowledge of the fact through some of the slaves, and with the American and Belgian consuls went to the Governor and laid the information before him. The writer says that the Governor attempted to shuffle them off, but did not succeed, and adds:—

In consequence of this interview, the Brigadier Morales Rada was sent to this city by the Captain General, as a commissioner to examine the case. He forthwith caused the several "armadores," or owners of the ship, to be arrested. I send you some of their names: Dr. Aguabella; Antonio Muxua, an attorney, who recently married the widow of Vegay Carceres, and so became a party interested; Aramabe, an iron founder; N. Aguirre, a merchant; Bartolome Caranas, an apothecary, and Don Francisco Vinageras, brother of the Alcalde, and the only Creole implicated.—Each of these was interested to the extent of $12,000, and was held to bail, notwithstanding the law prohibits bail in criminal cases, to answer the charge. Don Jose Baro, another partner, succeeded in eluding the officers.

The examination brought out the atrocity of the affair in the broadest light. Capo directed his course to a Portugese (negro) colony, on the Coast of Caffraria, and finding they had no negroes to sell, he determined to fill his ship without being at the expense of a purchase. He therefore took every possible means to ingratiate himself with the inhabitants, and secure their confidence, awaiting an opportunity for a coup de main. When the time struck him as favorable, the whole population was bidden to a splendid feast on board ship, and plied with drugged rum until the great mass of them were completely stupefied with their potations.

Orders were then signalized to the crew to make all sail, and when the unfortunate wretches recovered their senses, they found themselves out of sight of shore, and those of their company who had been more moderate in their cups already secured in irons. Naturally enough, they attempted the first thing to release themselves by rising on their kidnappers.

But they possessed no weapons, while the crew was large, and armed at all points; so that notwithstanding repeated efforts to liberate themselves, they were uniformly overmastered. These encounters were murderous. Large numbers were thrown overboard or cut to pieces with knife and sabre; so that the loss of life during the trip was at least two hundred persons. Of those who survived, and whom the agents of government have received since the landing, a hundred are at this moment in our hospital, undergoing surgical treatment for sabre-cuts, stabs, and other wounds of greater or less severity, received from the kidnapping ruffians who captured them. Many of the negroes are Portuguese, and all of them are intelligent and above the ordinary level of native Africans.

The writer further complains that the whole commission has ended in a fraud, and that nothing will be done about the matter. Several of the New York papers, however, think that the whole matter is the production of fillibusters, is to be viewed with caution and mistrust, as calculated to produce prejudice against the Spanish government of the island.

We think that almost all West India news requires sifting to make it eatable or digestible. But this is not more unlikely than many other stories which prove to be true.

SPIRITUAL TELEGRAPH.

This elegant paper, devoted to the illustration of spiritual intercourse, has commenced its second volume, enlarged and improved. It is filled to the brim with original matter, involving a great expenditure of time and talent in the preparation of every number. No expense is spared, as to paper and printing. This paper enumerates eight spiritual papers and periodicals in the regular course of publication in this country.

We mention these things to show that spiritualists, their paper organs, their talents and their purses, are not so few, weak or small, as to be "whistled down in the wind" by any sneers, or imputations of "humbug" or cheat—or to be disregarded by any man who wishes to make a true estimate of the moral strength or weakness of our land.

Rev. Charles Beecher sets down the "spiritual manifestations" as the work of devils like those Jesus cast out. And an Adventist in this city, lately pronounced them to be one of the "three unclean spirits, like frogs," which John the Revelator "saw come out of the mouth of the dragon and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the prophet," which he characterizes as "the spirits of devils, working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth, and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty."

The publishers of the Telegraph are Partridge & Brittan, New York city.

☞ Mr. Anderson, the tragedian, calls Poet Bunn "the cholera of the dramatic world," and says "his approach is fatal to it."

COMMON COUNCIL AGAIN.

As the editors of the Chronicle, influenced by the opinion of some gentleman learned in the law, have grave doubts as to the lawfulnesss of the ruling of the President of the Common Council, excluding the votes of the late sitting members from ward No. 2, upon the question of their own right to seats in the Council, permit a reader of your paper to refer you to the following extracts from Jefferson's Manual, ed. of 1820, pp. 58 and 59.

"No member may be present when a bill or any business concerning himself is debating; nor is any member to speak to the merits of it till he withdraws. The rule is, that if a charge against a member arise out of a report of a committee, or examination of witnesses, in the house, as the member knows from that, to what points he is to direct his exculpation, he may be heard to those points, before any question is moved or stated against him. He is then to be heard, and withdraw before any question is moved."

"Where the private interests of a member are concerned in a bill or question, he is to withdraw. And where such an interest has appeared, his voice has been disallowed, even after a division. In a case so contrary, not only to the laws of decency, but to the fundamental principle of the social compact, which denies to any man to be a judge in his own cause, it is for the honor of the house that this rule, of immemorial observance, should be strictly adhered to."

Mr. Jefferson quotes as his authority both Hatsell and Grey, and the passage cited is strongly re-affirmed by Judge Cushing in his work on parliamentary practice.

The suggestion that Legislatures permit members to vote on questions relating to their own contested seats, is unfounded; and it is believed that no case can be cited in which the right has ever before been claimed by the sitting member.

In the present case it was probably regarded as immaterial how the question was taken, as most of the members from Ward 2 must have been satisfied that their election was illegal; but it was undoubtedly the right of any member of the Council to have called for a division of the question, and so have caused the vote to have been taken separately on the right of each claimant. Of course it can never be in the power of a minority to exclude any member from his seat. B.

THE CAROLERS.

We are to have a first-rate Concert at the Temple this evening. Mr. Henry S. Thompson, the leader and instructor of the band, will be remembered as having sung here with Mr. Hector and others, several years since; and also as the giver of the splendid vocal entertainment at the Temple more recently, with his "Trio Class" from Newburyport—where he is and has for several years been a resident teacher of music. His frequent entertainments at home are always fully attended—showing that he knows how to please "the crowd."

The music Mr. T. usually selects for a popular entertainment, is not the kind commonly designated as "of the highest order,"—which means, very intricate and difficult to perform, and when executed, pleasing to but a very few highly cultivated or practised ears—leaving the majority of hearers in the same predicament with Mrs. Partington at the opera, when she "could'nt catch the malady;"—but of the description of harmony embracing the sweet and popular melodies of his own compositions, "Lilla Dale," "Willie's on the dark blue sea," &c. We would not be understood as saying that he is not a thorough musician—but only that he knows well the public taste and governs himself accordingly. As a concert-giver, his superior is not often seen; and he is himself a singer of fine natural abilities, well cultivated.

We have never heard this new troupe, and so can't speak particularly for the Carolers; but a friend from Newburyport well qualified to judge, assures us they "can't be beat," either as vocal or instrumental performers.—Ethiopian delineators have rarely if ever met with good success in Portsmouth. Even that inimitable band, the original Harmoneons, we believe never had a full house here—though harmony so sweet as they discoursed is seldom heard among us. They also also appeared "both as blacks and whites."

However, with Mr. Thompson's musical reputation at home and in this city, we have no doubt "He'll get, as he deserves," a full house to-night. The Newburyport Herald says of

"THOMPSON'S CAROLERS.—We are glad to learn that this popular band of performers design giving a series of concerts in this neighborhood. They may depend on a successful career, not only in this vicinity, but throughout the country."

SUDDEN DEATH.—Daniel Vaughan, Esq. of this city, died in his shop yesterday, about two o'clock, without any previous warning of approaching dissolution. A neighbor on stepping in, found him expiring in his chair, doubtless of a complaint of the heart. He was Naval Officer of this port under Mr. Polk's administration. His age was about 46.

FUNERAL HONORS.—Agreeable to a General order from the Navy Department, the death of Vice President Wm. Rufus King was noticed here on Monday, by the firing of thirteen guns from the Navy Yard at day-break, seventeen minute guns at noon, and the National Salute, of thirty-one guns, at sunset. The Yard flag was worn at half mast. The officers of the navy and marine corps will wear crape on the left arm for three months.

☞ A very pleasant gathering that, at the L. E. Society's quarterly meeting, last week. A cheerful assemblage—endless chatting—social singing of good old-fashioned tunes—and an admirable supper for three roomsful: every thing perfectly satisfactory, except the amount of work done (or rather the amount undone)—this being, by the way, the sole object of the organization. The matrons were of opinion that "to get their work done in season," there must be meetings of the sewers alone, without their gentlemen friends—which proposition didn't seem to meet with much favor. Strange!

☞ A friend suggests that the votes in Ward Two were declared before the adjournment, whereas we stated that they were declared afterward. They were indeed declared in part, and the moderator's belief expressed as to the election, but re-declared and corrected next morning.

☞ Albert A. Hayes, Esq., has received the appointment of Post Master at Navy Yard Village, Kittery, Me., vice A. W. Walker, removed. Mr. Walker has been a very attentive and popular officer—his successor, we hope, will be not less so.

OBJECT OF EDUCATION.—A correspondent from his sick room sends the following:

Sitting unwell in my chamber, unable to go out of doors, and weary of doing nothing, I have within reach no book to employ and thereby amuse myself with, except an Almanac, and as I look over its pages I find much that is new to me, though the annual almanac does not pretend to give the news, as does the daily paper. One paragraph, on the Education of Children, interested me so much that I transcribe it, in the hope it may interest some others, perhaps in similar circumstances.

"The real object of Education is to give Children resources that will endure as long as life; habits that time will ameliorate but not destroy; and occupations that will render sickness tolerable, solitude pleasant, age venerable, life more dignified and useful, and death less terrible."

THAT CHAISE.—There is a good deal of joking about that chaise "INTENDED for the President." If the chaise is "intended" for the President, why don't he get it? Rumor says that some folks have n't got offices, and so it is doubtful whether the President will get the chaise.—Portland Advertiser.

Precisely. Those of us who are compelled by adverse circumstances to go on foot through life, cannot buy chaises. Besides, a chaise is useless without a horse, and a horse is "no go" without a harness. The cabin passengers on board the ship of State will please call up to the Captain's office, a-n-d s-e-t-t-l-e!—Argus.

In order to understand the above paragraphs, the reader must know that there was a talk as if the President intended to make the editor of the Argus Surveyor of the port of Portland: but he did not do it.

MURDER OF A TEACHER BY A PUPIL.—We learn from the Munroe Democrat, that a most atrocious murder was committed in Okolna, Miss., on Friday, the 1st inst., on the person of Newton Noles, by a young man named Gill. The particulars are said to be these:—Noles was a school teacher, and Gill walked into the room during school hours with his hat on his head, and when requested to take it off, he replied insolently, or in a manner quite unbecoming a pupil. Noles demanded an explanation, which brought on the difficulty that resulted in Gill stabbing him, which produced his death in about three minutes. Gill immediately fled, and is still at large. A reward of two hundred dollars is offered for his apprehension. He is a youth, we learn, of considerable property.

We presume such a thing never happened in this part of the country. The name Knowles (pronounced Noles) is common in Rye and Hampton, N. H.

PRESIDENT PIERCE'S PERSONAL HABITS.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Courier says of Gen. Pierce, "that he drinks no wine, and those who enjoy an intimate personal acquaintance with him, say that the bereavements and afflictions of his later years and the pressure of onerous public duties since his election, have impressed him with a deep sense of religious responsibility, and given a tinge of gravity to his character which forms an observable contrast with the ardor and vivacity of his temperament at earlier periods of his life.

To whistle in the streets of Milan exposes the whistler to arrest. The tyranny under which Southern Europe now groans is unparalleled in the history of mankind.—Portland Advertiser.

The citizens of Cleveland, Ohio, have by a majority of more than six hundred, authorized the construction of water-works, at a cost, it is said, of $4,000,000.

FIRE.—We learn that a wooden school house at the south end in Newburyport, was destroyed by fire on Monday afternoon.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

FOREIGN APPOINTMENTS—THE TEHUANTEPEC TREATY.—New York, April 25.—The Washington correspondent of the Courier and Enquirer stated last evening, by telegraph, that the following appointments have been agreed upon, to take effect on the 18th of July: Ex-Governor Wood, of Ohio, Minister to Brazil.

Ex-Governor Truesdell, of Tennessee, Minister to Russia.

Mr. Wise, or R. K. Meade, of Virginia, Minister to Chili.

John A. Dix, Minister to France.

Hon. Mr. Appleton, of Maine, Secretary of the Legation to London.

Mr. Helm, of Kentucky, will receive the Governorship of New Mexico.

The Tehuantepec treaty, as ratified by President Lombardini and his associates, is stated to have been submitted to Santa Anna, and acquiesced in by him.

A PRACTICAL IMPROVEMENT.—They are attaching stables to all the fire engine houses in Cincinnati, for the accommodation of the quadrupedal members of the fire department whose duty it will be to drag the "machines" to and from fires. The pay system just adopted in that city goes into operations soon. In London horses are always kept harnessed and ready for an alarm. The engines are so constructed that the men ride upon them to where the fire may be raging. Thus they arrive in excellent time for their work, and when it is over, and they are tired with their labors, enjoy a comfortable ride to their head quarters. —Boston Mail.

2 WEEKS LATER FROM CALIFORNIA.

Dreadful Disaster—Loss of the Steamer Independence. NEW ORLEANS, April 23.

The steamer United States from Aspinwall, arrived here to-day, with dates from California to the 1st of April.

The steamer Independence from Panama for San Francisco, was lost on the 16th of February, having run ashore on the shoals off Margaretta Island, where she took fire and burnt. Five hundred passengers were on board, all of whom leaped into the water and tried to swim ashore, of whom one hundred and forty were lost. Margaretta Island is upon the coast of lower California. After striking, the Independence backed off, but finding eight feet of water in her hold, Capt. Sampson ordered the pilot to run her ashore on the beach, at a spot 300 yards from land; there the ship took fire from the intense heat of the furnaces; the flames spreading rapidly and creating the most frightful consternation among the passengers, a heavy surf running at the time. All the boats were swamped in trying to make the first trip ashore. To add to the horror of the scene, the fire reached the powder magazine, which exploded, scattering the fragments in every direction; many of the passengers were blown into the sea, and others jumped in and were immediately carried off by the strong current that was sweeping from the shore. Many who had previously reached the shore were unable to render any assistance and were obliged to remain passive spectators of hundreds of men, women and children perishing by fire and in the sea.

The number lost has been variously estimated at from 150 to 200. The ship finally swung round broadside to the beach, where her coal also took fire, and she was totally destroyed.

The who were saved found themselves on an uninhabited island without water, where they remained 46 hours in a state of intense suffering; finally, by firing a cannon they were enabled to attract the attention of some whaling vessels lying in Madalen Bay, a few miles off, which came to their assistance, with provisions, and finally took them off.

The following are the names, as far as ascertained, of those from the Eastern states, who were lost:—

John Morris, J. Jones, George E. Light, —— Harlman, Wm. Doyle, R. Mosher, J. Myers, Mrs. Muffin, T. O. Neal, T. O. Berlee, Charles A Ward, all of New York; —— Welsh of Boston; O. Hale and W. S. Moulton of Massachusetts. There were other New Englanders whose names have not been ascertained.

CALIFORNIA NEWS.—The city of Marysville has been again inundated by a rise of the Feather and Yuba rivers, and much loss of property had occurred.

The steamer California, which left San Francisco on the 1st of April for Panama, took down $2,232,000 in gold dust, of which $800,000 was to Page, Bacon & Co., and $530,000 to Adams & Co.

The markets at San Francisco were quiet, in expectation of a great change, owing to a large number of marine arrivals. Flour was at $12 to $13, with small sales; mess pork $40, and clear do. $44; hams 24 a 25c; butter 43 a 45c., and rice 6 a 6 1-2c.

Business at the mines is improving, and the miners generally enjoy good health.

Indian outrages continue, in one of which Lt. Russell was killed.

The town of Weaversville, recently burnt, had been nearly rebuilt, and was resuming its former business-like appearance.

MUSICAL CONVENTION AT CONCORD.—The members of the Suncook Musical Association will hold a semi-annual meeting, at the Baptist Meeting House, in Concord, commencing on Wednesday, April 27th, at 10 o'clock, A. CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of his wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,
PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.

[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]

First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriages, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and the beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be Ignorant.

☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding,) "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (mailed free) to any part of the United States. All letters must be post-paid, and addressed to Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Box 1294, New York City. Publishing Office, No. 129 Liberty Street, New York.

THE OLD TURNPIKE.

We hear no more of the clanging hoof,
And the stage-coach rattling by,
For the Steam-King rules the traveled world,
The grass creeps o'er the flinty path,
And the stealthy chickies steal
Where once the stage-horse, day by day,
Lifted his iron heel.

No more the weary stager dreads
The toil of the coming morn;
No more the bustling landlord runs
At the sound of the echoing horn;
For the dust lies still upon the road,
And the bright-eyed children play
Where once the clattering hoof and wheel
Rattled along the way.

No more do we hear the cracking whip,
Or the strong wheels' rumbling sound;
And ah! the water dries on us,
And an iron horse is found!
The coach stands rusting in the yard,
And the horse has sought the plow;
We have spanned the world with an iron rail,
And the Steam-King rules us now!

The old turn-pike is a pike no more,
Wide open stands the gate;
We have made a road for our horses to stride,
Which we ride at a flying rate.
We have filled the valleys and leveled the hills,
And tunneled the mountain side;
And round the rough crag's dizzy verge,
Fearlessly now we ride!

On-on-on with a haughty front!
A puff, a shriek, and a bound;
While the tardy echoes wake too late,
To babble back the sound;
And the old pike is left alone,
And the stagers seek the plow;
We have circled the earth with an iron rail,
And the Steam-King rules us now.

NELLIE.

They did not mark that her full blue eyes became more dreamy, that they often beamed with unnatural radiancy, or the flush upon her cheek was not the flush of health. Her step grew lighter, and her face more thoughtful; a shade of sadness hung upon her lip, like the twilight stealing on the summer clouds—the night was to come. Day by day, as her face waxed paler, the hectic glare of her cheek became more distinct. Still her slight form—so very slight—glided about the house; she fed her bird or tended her favorite flowers.

It was fall—the green leaves turned sere, and the wind piled them in heaps. She could no longer work in the garden, for it 'tired' her. As she arranged the last boquet her flower-beds yielded, she held it up to me, saying:—'This is all, Ned—the cruel winds have swept them away.' I noticed her slender, transparent fingers, as they entwined the flowers, and a sad foreboding crept on my heart; I felt that the cruel 'winds' would soon sweep Nelly from us—our Nell, whom we all so loved.

It was winter—the white snow was on the earth, and the icicle glistened on the eaves; the wind whistled in the huge chimney place; the little plum tree brushed against the gable of the house, and the hail played a merry tattoo on the window glass. Nell did not leave her room now. Her fairy footsteps were never heard tripping, nor her voice vibrating through the entry in some wild song. The joyous laugh of yore was gone—she only smiled; but it was the smile of an angel.—She scarcely ever looked out at the window; all was drear there, and she fancied the cold air came in the crevices. It was in her arm chair by the fireside that she was more comfortable; there she would set for hours with her delicate hands crossed on her lap, while I read to her—sometimes she would fix her big eyes on the embers, and I don't think she heard me reading.

She was wandering in the 'Dream Land.'

She had her meals on a small table by herself. It seemed so strange, sometimes comical, to see her demurely pouring out her tea like an old woman—she so young and beautiful. I see her now as I beheld her then, though twenty years have rolled away since. Twenty years! I look back and it seems yesterday.

Ah, Nell, you never saw these cheecks with the stamp of time upon them; nor these locks all silvery, which you used to part from my smooth forehead with your gentle hand.

Sometimes I dined with her, and she would pick out all the tit-bits for me; latterly she had taken her meals in bed, for she was weaker each day. It seemed natural for her to be sick, she was so contented, so cheerful and patient. It was seldom I thought it possible she might leave us at any time. When I compared her to the lively Nell of a few months before, it was then my heart sank within me. I had imagined she might thus always be with us, the same patient invalid. I dared not dream of our Nell dying—our Nell.

I often sat by her bed with her hand in mine, and thought of pleasant things to tell her—not that she was ever sad, but I. Once she laughed, the old laugh of happy times; it was mockery, and echoed with mournful cadence in my bosom.

They placed pillows around her that she might sit up, and see the sunrise or sunset; but she remained lying a greater part of the day. A sweet smile was throned on her lips, and kindness beamed from the depths of her quiet eye; a kindly word lingered on her tongue, but not an accent of complaint. When they raised her from the bed, or placed a shawl over her shoulders, she would say: "What eastern princess could be more indolent than I?" and smiled; so we all smiled, our hearts bursting the while; and we wept when she was not looking.

One night my mother's voice awakened me; she bade me come and listen at Nelly's door. It was partially open, and Nell was leaning upon her elbow and singing—singing in a firm voice. The notes burst forth full and melodious; the words and the rich air were wholly unknown to us; the song was of heaven, of God, of the angels. After she had finished, she sank back exhausted, falling into a sound sleep. The next morning she was brighter than she had been for weeks. No mention was made concerning the previous night; we feared it might pain her.

* * * * * * *

One morning the blinds were turned down, the room darkened, and a solemn stillness stole about the house. The windows were open; no ray of sun fell through them, but the spicy air.

Nellie was dead.

I stood in the entry with my hand on the knob of the parlor door; it creaked on its hinges and opened. I hardly dared to look toward the back parlor, for I knew that she was there. I saw her books on the table, and a hundred things she had loved—the bouquet upon the mantlepiece she had arranged months before; it was withered. Why should not all things fair decay? Nelly was beautiful, yet she died.

I dreaded to approach that coffin. Was I afraid of my dear playmate Nell? Would her heaven-born spirit, if it yet hovered near its earthly throne, harm any one who loved her so truly, fondly, deeply? No. I bent down and kissed her—those silent lips. I gazed on those long eye lashes which shaded her cold orbs; on the light tresses of hair, and her marble forehead. And I worshipped her as she laid there in her shroud. Her hands were crossed as I had seen them a thousand times; I took one of them in mine—it returned no warm pressure. I gazed upon her placid face, and I felt my first woe, and how frail and perishing the things of earth.

I was led away. People thronged the room. There were sobs and stifled sighs. I could not weep nor sigh.

I heard the rumbling train of carriages; then the dirt with a dull sound falling on the box.

As the petals of the flowers swelled; as the tender grass sprung forth; as the silken bands then, even then, in the fragrant spring time, they buried Nell—our Nell, whom we all so loved.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 27, 1853.

AN INDEPENDENT IRISHMAN.

A respectable and intelligent reader of the Chronicle, by nativity the citizen of a country where little or no civil liberty exists, but now one of our own attached citizens, has handed us some published letters from "An Independent Irishman," addressed to Bishop Fitzpatrick of Boston. We have room only for a few extracts.

Now I hold that there can be no such thing as Republicanism without Religious Liberty, or, as I might term it, the freedom of the mind; and therefore, to object to the latter and endeavor to destroy it or prevent it, is in fact to give the death-blow to the former, since it is nothing else but an act of despotism—yes, the very worst kind of despotism, for there is no slavery so galling as the slavery of the mind.

I proceed, then, to give Catholic evidence to prove that the Catholic Religion denies Religious Liberty or the freedom of thought and expression; and the first quotation or proof that I offer is found in the Catholic Review of January, 1852, and is in these words:

"Protestantism of every form, has not, and never can have any rights, where Catholicity is triumphant. * * * * *
And therefore we lose all the breath we expend in declaiming against bigotry and intolerance, and in favor of religious liberty, or the right of any man to be of religion, or no religion, as best pleases him, which some two or three of our journalists would fain persuade the world is Catholic doctrine."

Says Bishop Kenrick, "No faith with heretics;" and says Bishop O'Connor, of Pittsburgh—"Religious Liberty is merely endured until the opposite can be carried into execution without peril to the Catholic world." This bigoted sentiment is the same in kind with that quoted from the Catholic Review—no rights for Protestants or anybody else except Catholics. Fine doctrine for a Republic! Of precisely the same nature, was the sentiment lately uttered by the Bishop of St. Louis:—"Catholicity will one day rule America, and then religious liberty is at an end."

The following paragraph, which appeared recently in a Catholic paper in England called the Rambler, was republished in a Catholic paper at St. Louis entitled the Shepherd of the Valley, which endorses its views:—

"Religious liberty, in the sense of a liberty possessed by every man to choose his own religion, is one of the most wicked delusions ever foisted upon this age by the father of all deceit. The very name of liberty—except in the sense of a permission to do certain definite acts—ought to be banished from the domain of religion. It is neither more than less than falsehood. No man has a right to choose his religion. Shall I therefore fall in with this abominable delusion? Shall I foster the damnable doctrine that Socinianism, and Calvinism, and Anglicanism, and Judaism, are not every one of them mortal sins like murder and adultery? Shall I hold out hopes to my erring Protestant brother, that I will not meddle with his creed, if he will not meddle with mine? Shall I tempt him to forget that he has no more right to his religious views than he has to my purse, or my house, or my life-blood! No. Catholicism is the most intolerant of creeds. It is intolerance itself, for it is the truth itself. We might as rationally maintain that a sane man has a right to believe that two and two do not make four, as this theory of religious liberty. Its impiety is only equalled by its absurdity."

SOMETHING LIKE REBELLION. — Father Fitzsimmons, who was Cathlic priest of South Boston for thirteen years, having somehow offended the Bishop, the latter deposed him and suspended him from preaching for a season, sending over Father Linden from Charlestown to fill the vacancy thus created. Father Linden went accordingly on Sunday morning, and began his administration by reading the Bishop's letter. When he came to this sentence,—"I have appointed Father P. F. Linden as Priest over the Church of St. Peter and St. Paul,"—several of the audience shouted "No, no!" others cried "We don't want you—we won't have you—you shall not come here!" A number rushed for the door, and for some time the greatest excitement prevailed. The disturbance was finally quelled, and the services continued. After vespers a meeting of the church was held, and a committee of twelve was chosen to confer with the Bishop on the subject. They immediately repaired to the city, but could not find the Bishop at home, and returned without having an interview.

POSTMASTERS APPOINTED.

Joseph Wentworth at Sandwich Centre, in place of Wm. A. Heard, removed.

Alfred Prescott at Gilmanton, vice Cyrus Gilman, removed.

J. P. Emerson at Salmon Falls, in place of Mr. Wentworth, removed.

Mr. Walker was only the acting Post Master at Navy Yard Village in Kittery. The commissioned post master, was Mr. James Philbrick.

MISS WHEELOCK.—The Portlanders gave Miss Julia Wheelock an overflowing house on Saturday night, at her farewell benefit concert—many who wished being unable to gain admittance. The Advertiser says she was in fine voice, and sang "magnificently."

☞ The Portland Advertiser contains a list of twenty-three new light-keepers in Maine appointed, and as many removed.

LOCAL.

AGRICULTURE & HORTICLTURE.

All interested in these matters should not fail to improve the opportunity offered at the Temple this evening, to gain information respecting the condition and prospects of the farmer and gardener in this county, and also much that is new and interesting concerning the art and science of agriculture generally. The speakers announced are abundantly able to entertain any audience, aside from the additional interest given from the fact that in this instance they are working for the public good—the improvement of farming, and thus the elevation of the husbandman, particularly in this vicinity.

Mr. French has always taken deep interest in these matters, and is untiring in his efforts, public and private, to establish a higher standard of farming, especially about home. Both he and Mr. Hoyt are doing all in their power for the County Agricultural Society,—and it is certainly for the benefit of all farmers to co-operate with them in this project. We are glad the yeomanry of old Rockingham are arousing themselves, and the Society's prospects are so promising. Let each one "do what he can" for the Fair next autumn at Exeter. Let us show our friends in the upper part of the county, what Portsmouth and vicinity can do,—and as the most efficient means of good in this respect, fill up the list of members as fast as possible. Capt. Towle is the Agent in this city.

For the Chronicle.

ICE TRADE—SHIP BUILDING.

The northern portion of our good city has been recently quickened into something like a state of activity, which, with ship-building, rail-road crossing, timber discharging, ice unloading from the freight-cars to be re-loaded into vessels, interspersed with the cargoes of Bangor lumber vessels being discharged and piled, and coal-drogers discharging and wheeling—presents altogether an increasing animation, which it is exceedingly pleasant to look upon, and equally profitable, I doubt not, to be engaged in.

The export of Ice from this place this season has given employment to many small, and some vessels of the larger class. The ship Serampore of Boston is now loading with this delicate chrystal, intended for the cooling of our southern brethren of the Crescent city, where she is bound hence. It comes from Knight's Pond in the vicinity of South Berwick, and is brought here over the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth Railroad, at an expense of about 50 cents per ton freight to the ship's side. Our economical Boston friends find their advantage in sending their ships here to load, rather than to take the ice over the road, —the loading is attended with less expense.—Another ship is expected to "lay in" for a cargo in a few days, and there yet several thousand tons to come over the road for shipment.

This cold subject suggests that if the Portsmouth & Concord Railroad could disentangle itself of the various snarls that have encompassed it, and extend the rails to the river and around the wharves, it would be one good hit for the road, and be attended with a great increase of business enterprise. In anticipation of this, let some "lucky fellow that is to be," go right up to Jones's Pond near Raymond, and buy it for future use; it would prove a better speculation than some of the eastern land "under water" spec's of 1837.

Ice must be had; it has become "constitutionally" necessary to our southern brethren, and the solid blocks of New Hampshire's frigid lakes, will give a compound coolness and a "lengthened sweetness" to a southern julep.

The beautiful ship Wild Duck, (as now called, though we learn her name is to be changed) is lying at the wharf of Mr. Raynes, the builder. She is worthy of an examination of every one who can appreciate the union of beauty and strength. She will ride over the billows as gaily as the water-fowl whose name she bears—which, by the way would be a capital model for craft combining sailing and propelling qualities. Mr. Raynes has a busy scene at his yard; one ship rigging at his wharf, and another all framed and ready for planking.

There is some stir in the new ship yard of Messrs. Toby & Littlefield, on Noble's Island. This once quiet retreat of wooers, lovers, swimmers and anglers, has yielded to the advance of other "arts;" the broad axe is being plied to the hardy oak timber that now strews the once grass-covered ground, and a beautiful ship—the first ever built upon the island—has already raised its over-looking brow, that shall ere long cleave a path around the world. She should be called the "Noble."

May this activity at the north part of our town speedily increase and move southward, until we shall see something of the renewal of the times of our forefathers. Think of it; a hundred years ago, in the good old town of Portsmouth there were 121 clearances and 73 entries, foreign—besides 200 coasting vessels in regular employment, within one year. Let it reach that point again. *

MR. C. F. GERRY having just closed his last class in this city, is about removing to Exeter. His success here has been unprecedented for this city, his closing term being the most fully attended. From a long and somewhat intimate acquaintance, we can cheerfully recommend him to the citizens of Exeter, as an accomplished artist and most agreeable teacher, as well as "a gentleman and a scholar." His lady is well known as an authoress, chiefly we believe through the columns of the popular miscellaneous and literary papers of the day. We understand Mr. G. may make us another professional visit by-and-by.—"Verily his works do follow him"—we never had a tenth so many amateur artists before.

GRAND SACRED CONCERT.

We understand that Mr. Chas. E. Kingsbury, being, as we regret to learn, about to leave our city for New York State, will give a farewell concert at the Cameneum on Sunday evening next. He will be assisted by Mr. T. P. Moses, the choir under Mr. K.'s charge at the Stone Church, and other able vocal performers. The programme embraces compositions of the most celebrated writers, and will be a rich treat to all lovers of sacred harmony.

EXETER.—We perceive by the News Letter, that the town of Exeter, at an adjourned meeting, held April 19, accepted a plan of a new Town House and Court House, and authorized its construction by a loan of $12,000, on certain conditions.

☞ The "Golden Era," a fine-looking weekly newspaper published at San Francisco, speaks as follows of one of our former fellow citizens:

Mr. J. Frank Winkley, the gentleman who furnishes the Pacific Mail Steamship Company with all their stores, is indefatigable in his efforts to fit out the steamers with their sea stores in the best manner. The Co. are fortunate in making so judicious a selection of a person so well qualified for the important task.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The Teachers' Institute, in session at New Market, opened Monday afternoon, with about 40 members, and the number is increasing.

This and to-morrow evenings, there will be Lectures by Dr. Cutler, on Anatomy and Physiology. Thursday evening, Prof. Colburn, or W. D. Northend, Esq., Supt. of Schools in Danvers, will lecture. On Friday evening, Prof. Colburn, of the Mass. Institute, and teacher of Mathematics and Geography at this Institute, will lecture.

For the Chronicle.

CURIOSITY.—It is admitted that Messrs. Brewster, Tucker and Dame were elected members of the Common Council, before the meeting was adjourned to the 2nd day—that is, they had a majority of the votes, which were counted and declared in open meeting. The statute does not make it necessary to declare who is elected, although it is very proper to be done. Were not their cases overlooked in vacating the seats of all the members of Ward 2? *

☞ Guns were fired at dawn of day, noon, and sunset, at Fort Constitution, on Tuesday, in honor of the late Vice President King.

☞ A reply to "B." in yesterday's Chronicle, regarding the Common Council, was received too late for to-day's paper.

FIRE!—The school house in Adelphi street, Ward 1, Newburyport, was destroyed by fire, about half past 2 o'clock, Monday. The building was old, not worth more than $150, and was soon to be replaced by a new one. A carpenter and glazier were making some repairs at the time the fire broke out.

LOSS OF THE INDEPENDENCE.

The intelligence from San Francisco fully confirms the loss of the Independence, and the immense loss of life; 120 passengers are known to have been lost, and it was the opinion of many of those saved that the loss of life exceeded 150, exclusive of children.

Among the long list of passengers, lost by fire or by water from this ill fated steamer we notice the names of Jas. Pearson, John Sparhawk, and Simon T. Taylor, of N Hampshire.

Captain Sampson, in his statement of the disaster, makes no mention of the explosion of a powder magazine. He says the first boat launched was swamped, but the second reached the shore with a line. Two other boats were then launched. The passengers were being taken ashore, when the flames got such a headway that those on bord became wild with terror, and jumped overboard by dozens.—Spars, hatches, tables, and everything that would float, were then thrown to those struggling in the sea, and by this means many others reached the shore. In one hour after the ship struck the beach, she was one entire sheet of flame, and the only persons on board were the captain and one of the coal-passers. A boat from the shore then reached her, into which the captain got, and succeeded in rescuing three boat-loads from the waves. Captain Sampson then took the boat and pulled round to Magdalene Bay, where he found the schooner A. Emery, Captain Gordon. The latter immediately got under way and proceeded to the island. In the meantime, however, the passengers had gone across the south side of the island, where they found the boats of the whaling ships Omega, Maury, Meteor, and Clements.

The passengers were all taken on board these ships, where their sufferings were relieved. The Meteor was finally chartered to take them to San Francisco, where she arrived on 31st March.

Capt. Sampson states that if the steamer had not taken fire, not a soul would have been lost. He also states that the reef on which she struck is not laid down on any of the charts.

The passengers of the Independence censure the captain for the manner in which the steamer was permitted to strike upon the reef; they say that the morning was perfectly calm, and that the captain was warned of the danger; to which he replied—"Go to—mind your own business." Afterwards, however, he behaved with great courage and humanity.

The passengers rescued from the wreck of the Independence had arrived safely at San Francisco.

New Orleans, April 25.—The steamer Albatross, from New York for Vera Cruz, was wrecked on the 16th inst. The passengers and crew were saved; the boat is a total loss. The vessel was valued at $60,000, and insured at Wall street. We have no further particulars.

ARRIVAL OF THE "STAR OF THE WEST" FROM CALIFORNIA.

NEW YORK, April 25.

The steamer Star of the West, from San Juan, Nicaragua, arrived at her wharf at 8 o'clock this evening, with California dates to April 1st inclusive, and over 500 passengers.

The steamer Sierra Nevada, for San Juan, took down over seven hundred passengers.—The California for Panama took over 400, and the Cortes about 300, and $160,000 in gold.

The intelligence from San Juan is of a peaceful and satisfactory character, and the utmost cordiality of feeling is said to exist between the officers of the American and British war vessels.

The people of San Juan held an election for city officers on the 15th instant, when Mr. Martin was re-elected Mayor without opposition; the British Consul having notified the British residents that if they voted at the election they could not expect any protection from his government, as they would be considered citizens of Greytown.

The Alta California says that, considering the enormous stock of most articles on hand, and the heavy imports known to be on the way, it is not expected that prices will reach, to a point that will leave the cost even to the shipper. Flour had further declined, with sales of American brands as low as $9 50 per brl. The supply of clothing was good, and the demand only moderate. Coffee had been sold at easier rates. Provisions generally lower. Mess pork had declined $2 per brl. Butter was also from 5 to 8c lower. Rice is in large supply and market dull. Boots and shoes—A fair inquiry. Dry goods in steady request. Tea quiet and a trifle easier. Money in ample abundance and easy at rates previously quoted.

Heavy rains had fallen in San Francisco for almost a month, during the prevalence of which business was entirely suspended, and consignments of merchandise continue to be made to Australia, while the demand for goods from the interior was very limited. Importations from the Atlantic ports were not so heavy as during the fortnight ending the 15th ult., but from European ports they had considerably increased.

The steamer Page, running between Sacramento and San Francisco, exploded her boiler on the Sacramento river, killing four persons and seriously injuring a number of others. Four persons were known to have been killed by the explosion of the steamer R. K. Page; these were:—D. W. Moore, the captain; Lieut. Henry Moore, and his brother; Gilman Fellows, and the clerk—all of Waterville, Me.; and Daniel Kirby of ———.—They were the principal owners of the boat. Lieut Moore leaves a wife and four children at Sacramento. Their bodies han not been recovered. The boat was racing.

The mining news from all parts of the country was of the most cheering character.

The inundation at Marysville and Sacramento had done considerable damage, but at last accounts all was pleasant, and the waters very rapidly subsiding.

The people of Sonora are emigrating to the banks of the Gila, to escape the attacks of the Apache Indians.

An extensive mine of native sulphur had been discovered near Diamond Spring, Sacramento.

A man named Ashburne was killed by Indians, near Vallecito, on the 13th of March.

The new clipper ship Tinqua had sailed for China, with three hundred Chinese passengers.

The miners near Marysville are doing better than at any time since the settlement.

The great Chinese Dramatic Company left in the steamer Cortes for New York. Mr. Aubrey and his party, from Santa Fe, reached Los Angelos on 24th March with a drove of mules and sheep; they left Santa Fe, Nov. 15, and had no rain till they reached California. They came upon a deserted camp, on the Gila river, around which were strewn the bones of 8 or 10 human beings, supposed to be the remains of some party murdered by the Indians.

From Lower California the accounts are far from cheering, as anarchy and rebellion reign to a great extent.

The steamer Thomas McKenney burst her boiler on the Rio Grande, April 12, killing or wounding five or six persons.

MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence,

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled,

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S

Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,

PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition. 18mo, pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.

[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]

First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be Ignorant.

☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding,) "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (mailed free) to any part of the United States. All letters must be post-paid, and addressed to Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Box 1924, New York City. Publishing Office, No. 129 Liberty Street, New York.

GOD'S PROVIDENCE IN AFFLICTION.

The following lines were written by a clergyman in Hanover, Mass., on reading the memoir of Rev. John E. Emerson, by Rev. Rufus W. Clark, now published by the American Tract Society.

How deep the ocean's sounding waves,
Beyond our longest line!
So deep God's ways, when only graves
Enclose such worth as thine.
But ocean's waves obey his laws
In all their depths profound;
Their rolling crests promote his cause,
Though shipwrecks may abound.

Tho' the deep darkness round the throne,
Hath veiled his wondrous way;
His Providence hath clearly shown
That Justice held the sway,
Nor Justice only, but his love,
His covenant love to thee;
And angels took the hence, to prove
How great his mercies be.

Admiring Friends who loved thee here,
Shall hear thy voice no more;
But dead thou fill'st a wider sphere
Than e'en thou hadst before.
For thousands now delighted, learn
Christ's love to thee, dear youth;
Thou'lt plead with millions yet unborn
In earnest love of truth.

Though dark the scene of Providence
That marked thy early doom;
The light of God's benevolence
Doth now the scene illume.
How wonderful the works of God;
Who in our grief profound,
Can make affliction's barren rod
With fruits of peace abound.

DOMESTIC OPERA.

Since the commencement of the Sontag operas, an enthusiastic friend of ours and his wife have become so carried away with the furor awakened by attendance two nights at the opera, that it is the hardest thing in the world for them to restrain their disposition to sing everything—the more so because they are both proficients in music. The other morning, while ordering his dinner, the butcher—a sedate man—was surprised to hear our friend shout out, with most emphatic enunciation—

"What will you take
For that 'ere steak?"

The butcher winked at his partner, and answered, with an air of composure, "A shillin', sir;" but it was evident that our friend was down in the day-book of his estimation as a lunatic. Making his purchase and going out of the door, he met with his neighbor Jones. Extending his hands frantically, he sung—

"Ah, friend Jones, and is it you?
How do you do, Jones, how do you do?
Long time since we've met together;
Is n't this delightful weather?"

Jones was astonished, as well he might be. Passing into a bakery to procure some bread for breakfast, he sung, to a very plaintive air—

"Bakers! bakers! bless your souls!
Let us have a dozen rolls!"

and rolled the word "rolls" out so tenderly that the baker's wife burst into tears. The rolls were taken down by the baker's wife, when, finding his voice again, he sang, with great feeling—

"Dearest one, with fingers taper, Tie the bread up in a paper!"

which she did, and he went home humming, and beating time on the paper parcels he held in his arms. His wife met him at the door, wringing her hands. The fit was on her, and she commenced singing—

"My dearest Charles what do you think?
The coffee's all as black as ink!
I'm so provoked that I can cry"—

Charles—

"Stop my dear, it's all in your eye!
When misfortune comes, why, bear it;
I, your loving spouse, will share it.
Come, now, let us sit at table,
Do the best that we are able,
Let the coffee go to grass,
We will have some tea, my lass."

Wife—

"O, my Charles, you happy make me."

Charles—

"If I don't the deuce may take me!
Hear the word that now I utter,—
My love is strong, and—so's the butter—
Trust me it will ne'er be weary—
Pass the toast and cheese, my deary."

Both—

"Now good bye, my dearest treasure."

Charles—

"Cook the steak just to your pleasure,
But see that it's not overdone,
And I will be at home by one."

Both—

"Good bye, farewell,
Tis hard to part;
I cannot tell
How dear thou art."

How this will end it is hard to foresee, but "friends of the family" shake their heads, and point to their foreheads significantly, as much as to say there's something wrong about our unfortunate friend's phrenology.—Bos. Post.

"It is an ill wind that blows nobody good." The railroads, at least, make something out of the army of office seekers. Thus the receipts on the Baltimore and Washington road for March, exceeded the for same month last year, by the sum of $22,000. The increase over 1849, the period of Gen. Taylor's inauguration, was $11,000.

A WISE STEWARD.—The late Amos Lawrence, it is said, gave away, during his life, more than $500,000. On his pocketbook was inscribed, "what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul."

Panama Papers state that Soldam, the new appointed Minister from Peru to Begotia, was robbed at the Gorgona Hotel of $13,000.—The police had arrested the keeper of the hotel and closed the doors.

MRS. STOWE'S KEY.

We publish the following critique on Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's last work, by request. We have not read the "Key," and can't say how correct the author is in his statements and inferences. The article appears in the Newburyport Herald, and is from the pen of an able literary critic:—

The Key to Uncle Tom's Cabin, we could not possibly read, though we made several unsuccessful attempts to do so. It is a mere re-print of old advertisements from southern papers and a re-hash of the contents of anti-slavery almanacs and periodicals. It may pay, but all the cash that its publication brings, will be earned at the expense of the beauty and effectiveness of the romance. Artistically, the "Key" is a blunder. The very idea of analyzing a novel, and showing the process of its manufacture, is repulsive; all the beauty vanishes as the raw material is produced, out of which the fabric was wrought. "Uncle Tom," is one of the most fascinating books published since our remembrance, but the Key is decidedly a—bore.

We should as soon think of dissecting the live face of a beautiful child to prove that it was a human face;—stripping off the skin from the rosy cheek, to show that in very deed, arterial blood flowed beneath; that it was an actual frame work of bone, muscle and lymph, which formed the pleasing contour; scalping the head and holding up the beautiful Eva's locks, that we might be certain her last mementos did not come from the hair-dressers; cutting out the loving blue eyes, separating the membranes, humors and nerves, to prove they were not of glass; extracting one by one the maxillary products, to demonstrate to the world that they were not of porcelain. This would be in about as good taste as the Key to Uncle Tom's Cabin; and withal we do not believe it will convince any one of the truthfulness of the story, who did not recognize, intuitively, where the real stood as basis for the ideal; for who that was not thoroughly Beecherized could or would wade through the 262 pages of the Key. E. V. S.

VERDICT AGAINST A PHYSICIAN.—In the Supreme Court, at Lowell, on Saturday morning, a verdict was rendered against Dr. Joseph Kittredge of Andover, of sixteen hundred and seventy-five dollars, for mal-practice. It appears that a lad named Ashworth had his arm badly injured by the machinery of a mill. Dr. Kittredge dressed and bandaged the arm. On the third day, the boy complained of considerable pain; no examination was made until the fourth day when it was found that mortification had commenced, and the arm came off.

PORTSMOUTH:
THURSDAY, APRIL 28, 1853.

AN IMPORTANT CASE.

The law of South Carolina, relative to imprisoning colored seamen, is coming up some day in the U. S. Supreme Court.

The case of Reuben Roberts vs. Sheriff of Charleston, S. C., was brought before Judge Gilchrist, on the 21st April, by consent, as in a special term of the United States Circuit Court. Roberts is a black man, 24 years of age, a native of Nassau, in New Providence, an island of the Bahama group, and was lately a cook on board a British schooner, the Clyde, Captain Bethel, which vessel arrived at Charleston from Baracoa on the 19th May, 1852. On that day the Sheriff of Charleston boarded the vessel, arrested the cook Roberts, and confined him in jail, where he was detained until the vessel was ready for sea, on the 26th of May, on which day Roberts was replaced on board by the sheriff, making the period of imprisonment eight days, and for this his suit was brought in the form of an action in trespass for assault, battery, and false imprisonment, the damages being laid at $4000.

The defence was, the laws of South Carolina, which were quoted.

The facts and references having been submitted without argument, Judge Gilchrist briefly charged the jury that the position of the case called upon him only to give his opinion without argument or reasons. He considered the acts of the state, under which the defendant justified, as valid and constitutional, and under this direction, the jury brought in a general verdict for the defendant. The plaintiff submitted in due form a bill of exceptions to the Judge's charge, and the case will accordingly go up to the Supreme Court of the United States.

It would not astonish us at all, if that court should decide the law in question, constitutional and wholesome.

PRESTO—CHANGE!—Not long ago, a little scrap went round among the papers, stating that "John W. Foster, a Quaker, and a leading Rhode Island Abolitionist, has recently renounced his abolitionism, and in doing so says that those who make up the Abolition party are quacks—that they are sincere only in their desire to humbug the public, and that they have injured the slave to an extent that cannot be repaired in a quarter of a century."

But, unfortunately for the story, Mr. Foster has expressly contradicted this statement, in a letter which has appeared in one of the Providence papers.

The reader will please to observe that this does not alter the case of the abolitionists at all—but it does make quite a difference about Mr. Foster.

EXCITEMENT AND DISAPPOINTMENT.—An excitement was created in the quiet village of Danielsonville, Conn., by the following incident: A Mr. William Candler was to lead to the altar a Miss Helen Cady. The cards were out, and the numerous friends invited. The happy young man came, and the guests were assembled, but the bride came not. She had taken the early train with a Mr. Coller, and left for parts unknown. She took with her all her dresses, &c. but left the presents she had received from her intended. The bride was seen in the morning hanging on the arm of the triumphant Coller.

EASTERN WOOD.—A correspondent, from Digby, N. S. writes to the Newburyport Herald, that owing to the very mild weather the past winter, not sufficient snow fell to enable them to draw their wood to the beaches, where it is shipped to our markets.—In consequence of this, wood had materially advanced, and most of the fleet who were engaged in this trade last year, had sailed for St. John and Pictou, to load with lumber, plaster and coal, at much better rates than could be made in the wood trade. Last year nearly a hundred cargoes came into Newburyport; this season not half the quantity can be expected, according to this account.

AN AMERICAN PRIMA DONNA IN ITALY.—A correspondent of the Courier and Enquirer, writing from Naples, says that Mrs. Escott, formerly of Springfield, Mass., has made a successful debut as prima donna in Mercadante's new opera Violetta, at the Teatro Nuovo in Naples. The writer says that on the night of her debut, Mercadante led her before the curtain, and insisted upon dividing the honors of his own success with Mrs. Escott, to whose exertions he warmly acknowledged his indebtedness.

☞ The Fire Department of Fitchburg are on a strike, threatening to disband unless the town pays them each a shilling an hour while in actual service, and five dollars a year in any event.

BUTTER.—An essay published in the transactions of the Rhode Island Society for the encouragement of Domestic Industry, charges much of the miserable butter in the market to the use of impure salt from Liverpool and Onondaga. Good salt can be had at Syracuse, but no small quantities of it are contaminated with epsom and glauber salts, sulphate of lime, and the chlorides of calcium and magnesia. The best salt for butter is the West India "Rock Salt," washed, dried, and finely pulverized.

KEY TO UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.—Two editions of this book were printed in London; one at $2.50, the other at 84 cts. More than ten thousand of the cheap edition were taken by the London booksellers alone, on the first day of its publication. And it is mentioned as a significant fact, that her most gracious Majesty the Queen despatched a messenger to Messrs. Low & Son, on the morning of its publication, with a special request for the first copy issued, without regard to the style of binding.

THE BANK OF MISSOURI.—The late Legislature of Missouri passed an act for the sale of the State's stock in the Bank of Missouri, the only bank in the State, if the private stockholders assented to it. On trial it was found there were 243 shares in favor and 1720 shares against the proposal.

A GOOD EXCHANGE.—It is stated that in the arrangements for the great public dinner to John P. Hale, in Boston, to come off next Thursday, it was unanimously agreed to exclude wines from the bill of fare, and include ladies as guests.

CONCERT OF THE "OLD FOLKS."—A novel concert came off in the Centre Church, at New Haven, on Monday evening, the 11th, at "early candle light." It was suggested by singing a few of the old tunes in a private parlor. The idea of calling out the singers who occupied the seats in the churches of that city 30 and 40 years ago, and arranging them in a row round the galleries from one side of the pulpit to the other, to sing such tunes as Jerusalem, Coronation, Ocean, and other tunes of by-gone days, was certainly a novelty well calculated to awaken much enthusiasm. The number of old singers who were found willing to engage in it was very large, embracing some of the staunchest citizens of New Haven. The tunes were familiar to most of them, and a few rehearsals perfected the singing. Twelve hundred tickets for the concert were issued at 25 cents each, and sold in a few hours; the avails to be given to the Orphan Asylum. The house was filled at the hour, and the audience was so much delighted with the performance that a request was made to have the concert repeated. The effect is said to have been exceedingly happy.—N. Y. Evangelist.

Such a concert in the North Church in this city, would call out an audience, if the old singers would take hold of it as they did in New Haven.

BABCOCK'S BATTERY.

The Charlestown City Advertiser tells the following good story of a gunsmith's ruse in the late anti-catholic fuss in that city. During the recent excitement in our city, it happened that a large crowd of our adopted fellow citizens were collected in front of the Marshal's office, awaiting the latest news.—Mr. Babcock's shop being just opposite, his windows command a petition to rake the sidewalk. He being something of a wag, and thinking that his friend the Marshal might be in danger, ran out a brass two pounder from his third story window, and with high ed mach in hand he levelled it upon the crowd, and then with the voice of a Stentor commanded them to quietly disperse to their homes, or he would blow them to atoms. The determined look of the gunsmith, and the frowning mouth of his brass bull-dog, had the desired effect, and a general stampede took place immediately. None felt safe till far out the range of the two pounder. In a moment the smiling face of the Marshal passed out the door of his office, beaming with wonder at the sudden clearance of his premises, and it was not till his eye caught sight of his protector and his bull-dog, that his eye-brows relaxed from their wide open position. Some hours afterwards you might have seen the heads of some of the affrighted crowd peering around the corners of the streets leading to the Square, to see if the forces had been called off by that indomitable spirit.

ONE OF THE "STRONG-MINDED" G'HALS.—A correspondent at Lawrence mentions having seen at the Station House in that city, waiting for the cars, a young, handsome, lady-like and elegantly dressed girl, who passed the time away in this fashion. She took from her pocket a pipe, filled it with tobacco, lit it with a match (she carried a lot in her pocket wrapped in oiled silk) and smoked for ten minutes. She then replaced the pipe in her pocket, and took out a box filled with tobacco cut in small pieces. One of these she put into her mouth, and commenced chewing—"I could forgive the smoking, but to see her eat tobacco in that way was perfectly horrible. She left soon after in the Boston train."—Boston Mail.

UNCLE SAM'S MAINE LAW.—The Louisville Courier of the 18th inst. says, the steamer P. H. White was seized, about three weeks ago, near Fort Gibson, Ark., by a detachment of the troops there, for violating the "intercourse law between the United States and the Indian tribes." The boat was loaded with whiskey designed for sale to the Indians.—The cargo was seized, and the officers arrested and put in the guard house at Fort Gibson.

Knowledge may slumber in the memory, but it never dies: it is like the dormouse in the ivied tower, that sleeps while winter lasts, but awakes with the warm breath of spring.

LOCAL.

CITY GOVERNMENT.—This institution, with all others of mundane origin, is far from perfect; and sometimes moves with considerable friction. There has been much noise and confusion about it for the past week or two, and the re-echo of it is to be heard through our columns from day to day.

For the Chronicle.

CITY MATTERS.

Having been quite interested in the subject, and having attended the last meeting of the Common Council, I will state my impressions, if possible, without any party bias. I gather that the moderator violated no law on elections, nor is accused of any fraud in the premises, but that he has deviated from the usual method of conducting elections. It was certainly improper to take the ballots from the Hall before they were properly counted and declared; but several reasons are given for the procedure in the minority report; still they were not satisfactory to the majority; and the decision of the president not to receive the votes of the returned members of No. 2, can be defended on the common practice in such cases, and as a matter of delicacy should not have been objected to by them. The subject is now settled so far as to oust the members from No. 2. The next question to be settled is, is it a failure to elect, or is it a vacancy? If the former, it seems by sec. 6 of the charter, that the Councillors of the last year from No. 2 are entitled to their seats; but if it is a vacancy, as it appears to be, then a new election should be immediately called according to sec. 14. The president of the Council should request the Mayor to call them together for the purpose of ordering an election to fill the vacancies in District No. 2. By this measure all difficulties would be adjusted, the appropriations be made, and the offices filled as required by the charter.

ONE OF THE OLD BOARD.

For the Chronicle.

THE COMMON COUNCIL AGAIN.

"B.'s" extract from Jefferson's Manual has no application to the case decided by the President of our Common Council, but relates to a member's "own cause" or "business concerning himself" in a legislative body, or where he has incurred personal disabilities, for which he is liable to expulsion, such as bribery, corruption, or contempt of the House. In such cases he is, and ought to be debarred from voting in his own cause. Legislative bodies may and often do establish rules applicable to cases that may arise, and such rules have the force of law in respect to such bodies adopting them, but they are not obligatory upon any other corporate bodies. For instance, our Common Council have adopted certain rules for their government, which their President should enforce, but he has no authority to enforce rules adopted by any other body. In the absence of any adopted rule in respect to the right of any sitting member to vote, he has no authority whatever to exclude him; no more than any other member of the board. The Council might, perhaps, have adopted rules which would have applied to the cases which have arisen—but after they do arise, they are prohibited from making ex post facto laws. Upon a resolution to vacate the seats of the members, they should vindicate the cause of their constituents, rather than any interest of their own in the office; and they can exercise all the rights pertaining to the office until their seats shall be legally vacated. We have heard of no rule of any legislative body prohibiting the sitting member from voting when his right to his seat is contested, but we have often read the speeches of such members in Congress in defence of their rights to the seat, and to prevent their constituents from being disfranchised. ☞

A PRESENT.—We learn that on Monday evening last a basket containing a male infant a week old and two changes of baby clothes was left in the entry of a childless couple in Liberty street in this city, with a note stating the age of the child and requesting for it their protection and adoption. We do not learn whether the request will be complied with.—Messenger.

NEW COLLECTOR.—Hon. Zenas Clement entered upon the duties of his office as Collector of this port, on Wednesday.

DOVER.—At a town meeting on Saturday April 23,—the town indefinitely postponed the consideration of an article appropriating money for celebrating the Fourth of July,—and also an article to establish a Village Precinct.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT AND ROBBERY OF THE MAIL.—Chicago, April 27.—Fifteen dead bodies from the scene of the late railroad accident, were brought into this city last night. During the confusion succeeding the accident, the Galena mail was robbed of the bags for Boston and Albany, which are supposed to have contained packages of value.

AMUSEMENTS.—Music, Dancing, &c. at the Temple this evening—see advertisement. Also Panorama at Cameneum.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

FROM CALIFORNIA.

The steamship Uncle Sam from Aspinwall, arrived at New York on Wednesday morning, with 450 passengers, and $650,000 in specie, of which $250,000 is in the hands of passengers.

The passengers by the United States, came down from San Francisco on the steamer Cortes, and arrived at Panama on the 14th of April. Among her passengers is the celebrated Chinese Dramatic Company.

The isthmus is healthy, and the crossing is remarkably good.

The Uncle Sam left Kingston, Jamaica, on the 21st. The yellow fever is raging to some extent in the latter port. Many shipmasters had recently died of it.

The steamer Georgia with over two millions and a quarter of Gold dust, left Kingston on the morning of the 21st, and was coming up to New York, on Wednesday P. M.

Chicago, April 26.—A terrible accident occurred on the Central Railroad last evening, by the collision of the express train out from this place with an emigrant train, at the crossing, eight miles from Chicago. The scene that presented itself was most shocking, and it is supposed that from 15 to 20 persons were killed, besides 15 severely wounded. The killed and wounded were those upon the emigrant train.

Latest.—A gentleman just arrived from the scene of last night's disaster reports that 20 dead bodies had been removed when he left, and the injured were dying most every minute. Conductor Whiting, of the express train was seriously injured.

FROM BUENOS AYRES.—By the bark Peacock, Capt. Upton, which arrived at Salem on Monday night, the Salem Gazette has dates from Montevideo to March 14th, and from Buenos Ayres to the 11th. Affairs remain in a very unsettled condition at Buenos Ayres and in the interior provinces. Urquiza was expected soon to come down, and it was rumored, with conciliatory intentions. During the armistice, a skirmish had taken place outside the city of Buenos Ayres, in which about a dozen persons were killed—among them an American named Bond.

Com. McKeever, in the U. S. sloop-of-war Jamestown, was at Buenos Ayres, with a strong complement of marines and seamen, determined to protect American property.—He has openly avowed his determination not to permit Urquiza to endanger American property by bombarding the city; and has himself remained faithfully at his post, for many months, in all respects setting a good example to those who may follow him.

MASSACHUSETTS.—In the House of Representatives, on Tuesday, Mr. Emerson, in behalf of a joint special committee on the subject, reported resolutions in relation to the deaths of Calhoun, Clay, Webster, Thompson Fowler and Rantoul. It appears that the committee bring forth a proposition for a state statue of Mr. Webster, and for that purpose recommend the passage of a resolve appropriating $10,000.

The House passed to third readings, bills to loan $2,000,000 to the Troy and Greenfield Railroad Company for the purpose of tunneling the Hoosac Mountain, and to establish the hours of labor in corporations.

It is expected that the legislature will be able to adjourn on Tuesday.

SPORT AT CAMBRIDGE.—Tuesday afternoon gave us some fine trotting weather, and we witnessed a fine wagon match, mile heats, best 2 in 3, with the following result:—

Mr. Goodwin's b. m. Charmer,	1	1
Mr. White's s. h. Columbus,	2	2

Time—2:45 1-2—2:44.

The track was in good condition, the attendance large, the race well contested, and the time very good for wagons. The last heat was very exciting, and it was "anybody's race," until Columbus made a bad break on the last turn. He was thrown "off his foot" altogether, and White could not bring him down to a trot again. Mr. Goodwin thinks he can drive Charmer in "forty" before this season is over.—Times.

FLAGRANT RASCALITY.—On the 14th inst., a butcher named William String was brought before the Police Court in Cincinnati, upon the charge of selling unwholesome meat. It appeared in evidence that String had killed a dog and dressed it after the manner of dressing mutton, for the pupose of selling it in the market. Evidence was also produced that the defendant had sold diseased hogs and other unwholesome meats in the markets. The Judge sentenced String to pay a fine of $20 and costs of prosecution, to forfeit his stall in the market, and forbade his appearing in market to sell for six months.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—As Mr. Joshua Treadwell, assistant depot master on the Portsmouth, Saco and Portland Railroad, at Kennebunk, Me., was attempting to get upon a train which was backing upon a side track yesterday, he missed his footing and fell between the engine, tender and first car. The tender and locomotive passed over him, crushing his body in a most shocking manner, and killing him instantly.

WHAT A FRENCH CONSTITUTION IS MADE OF.—A French constitution, it strikes us, must be made of plaster of Paris. It looks smooth and fair enough when finished—and as if it would stick together for ever—but at the first little blow it breaks, and is shattered into a thousand pieces, of which barricades are made.—Post.

Rev. Mr. Perkins, of the Liberty street Church, Newburyport, preached his farewell sermon on Sunday last. Rev. I. J. P. Colyer, from Lowell, will supply the desk on Sabbath next.

The New Bedford Standard says that Violet Proctor died at the alms house, in that city, on Sunday, at the advanced age of 108 years.

MARRIAGE,
Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT!

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglects to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,
PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition. 18mo, pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.
[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]

First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife,—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be ignorant.

☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding,) "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (postaid free) to any part of the United States. All letters must be post-paid, and addressed to Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Box 1324, New York City. Publishing Office, No. 129 Liberty Street, New York.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.
DOCTOR ALFRED G. HALL,

AUTHOR of the New Theory of cure by the NUTRITIVE PROCESS, in Physiology and Medicine, sustaining the laws of life and removing the cause of disease, confirmed as a NATURAL SCIENCE by the Nutritive Process; expelling dead and depositing living matter at the same time in the Body, increasing its weight and strength while under treatment, being the great discovery of the constitutional power resisting disease; ample proof can be given in the person of any invalid.

Dr. H. receives visits, makes examinations, ascertains the cause of disease, describes the precise condition of the patient, furnishes prescriptions, medicines and recipe for his Nutritive Fluids and cordials.

Three months' attention and treatment is requisite in all cases, with printed instructions, for diet and washing, and the use of the Alkaline Girdle for the spine and kidneys—a restorative action is produced in all parts of the system immediately by the natural laws sustained by nutrition.

He is the inventor and sole proprietor of 12 nutritive fluids; they can be made by any family—are adapted to the natural temperament, and to every form of disease. His works, "Views of the New Theory, &c.," "Womanhood," and the "Mother's Own Book," are furnished to invalids under his supervision. It is now before Congress.

Doctor Alfred G. Hall may be consulted by letter, or in person at his rooms, No. 15 Winter St., Boston, from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. ☞ Medicines, &c. forwarded by Express to any part.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS.—The subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1836) is determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS in lieu of fees, is paid back by others, will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for prescribing patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides saving a long journey to Washington, the usual great delay, which is well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.
R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, was one of the most active at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. Their services, if any persons acting in that capacity, rendered more business before the Patent Office, and more well and skillfully conducted business, than those of any other person, during my time, and with more fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most able Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of pushing their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

DISCOVERIES.

An interesting Archœological item is found in the discovery of antique monuments in that part of Naples known as Paglia,—the ancient Magna Græcia. A subterranean necropolis, nearly entire, has been opened by the Chevalier Carlo Borucci, who has been for twenty-five years the Director General of antiquities and excavations in the kingdom. A correspondent of the Athenæum describes the wonders of the place as follows:

"Its principal entrance is decorated with four Doric columns, two niches for statues, and a second line of Ionic columns, all of slight and elegant proportions. This elegant entrance was painted in various colors, which produced an effect not less pleasing than surprising. This specimen of polychromatic architecture is valuable for its high state of preservation, its freshness, and for the classic time to which it belongs. Entering the city in question, over which time and death have spread an eternal silence, we find streets which lead to the various groups of dwellings. The gates are decorated with elegant Ionic columns, the capitals of which present the accessory ornament of a festoon. Signor Borucci tells me that on entering the chambers, he found everything arranged in its place as it had been left 12 centuries ago. The walls were covered with linen embroidered with gold—garlands of flowers, withered, it is true but preserving all their forms, hung in festoons from the ceiling. All kinds of precious vases were distributed about in the most varied and graceful manner. Here were to be seen statues of marble—busts of deities and priestesses in terra cotta, beautifully painted—vases of "creta," of an extraordinary size, on which are represented the most interesting scenes of private life and the most classical traditions of mythology. On the large vase, which is of gigantic size, and is still unpacked, though lying exposed, Homer is painted with the lyre in his hands, as if he were singing some passages of the Iliad or the Odyssey. In the midst of all these treasures and miracles of art of every form lay the mistress of the house, reposing tranquilly as though she slept.

So great was the illusion, that one might have almost said, "She is not dead but sleepeth." She rested on a gilt bronze bed, supported by friezes, figures, and genii, exquisitely carved in ivory. In the adjoining chambers, which were all filled with the same wealth, lay her daughters and servants. These young girls were still clothed with dresses embroidered with gold. Their heads were surrounded with garlands of gold, which represented the sacred flowers of Proserpine—in the midst of which were sporting as it were, birds and insects.

At Alexandria just above the square, and near the Greek church, there has been laid open very recently the foundation of what is believed to be the once famous Alexandrian Library, destroyed by the Caliph Omar.

VIEW OF PANAMA.

The reader will see how some people live at Panama, as he reads the following paragraph from a Panama correspondent of the Boston Post. He will also see a new illustration of the science of humbug.

The city of Panama seems to a stranger to be literally filled with churches; all of them in a crumbling and ruinous condition. They have invariably two bells, always cracked, which are rung violently every morning, to the great annoyance of all respectable persons. Directly opposite the house in which we were living, was a miserable, ancient, dilapidated structure, purporting to have been built in the year 1610; and daily some enterprising catholics gratified us by singing mass, with poor violin accompaniment, at an exceedingly early hour. I used to sit up in my bed, consoling myself with a cup of delicious chocolate, and reflect upon the piety necessary to enable a man to so far forget his "eight hours in" as to indulge in devotions at such an unseasonable time! During my stay the Bishop of Valparaiso was polite enough to honor the city with his presence, thus affording an opportunity for an "emblem," in the shape of a grand wax-light procession. Standing on the large, roomy balcony of the house, I watched with intense interest the spectacle as it moved along the street beneath me. First appeared the bishop himself, dressed in full regalia, and protected from the dew by a large silken canopy, held over him as he moved on; then the large choir chanting most harmoniously, accompanied by harps, cymbols and violins; then over three hundred boys, walking in double column, each bearing a large wax candle; immense bearers, throwing their perfume at every step; and finally the great feature of the procession, viz., a large wooden platform, covered with silk and velvet, and railed each side and each end with immense cut glass globes, having in their interior massive wax candles, whose light was reflected in a thousand different directions.

On the enclosed space stood a life-sized figure of Jesus Christ toiling up the hill of Calvary with the cross upon his back; following was a life-sized centurion, with the usual mail appointments, and carrying a long Roman spear; both made in wax and artistically executed. This platform was carried on the shoulders of some thirty natives, and excited universal wonder and admiration. The procession terminated by a body of nuns, in their full monastic dress, who walked ghostlike, without sound or noise, except a low hum of a misericorde and a frequent prayer. The whole spectacle wore to me a most solemn and chilling aspect. Its wax figures, dazzling lights, receding chaunt and spectre-like finale seemed so strange and almost unearthly that I received an unpleasant impression, and passed an uncomfortable night in consequence. Such processions are very common in Panama, the priests considering them as necessary emblems to the people, and they never lose an opportunity of presenting them. These same priests are not any more spotless than our clergymen in New England, and as many instances of depravity are found among them. One of them, residing in Panama, who had made a large fortune at monte, was robbed by two Americans of some eighty thousand dollars. They escaped to California, and the priest, presuming to complain, had his house searched, and fifty thousand dollars found therein were confiscated, it being against ecclesiastical law for any of the fathers to possess more than a sufficiency.

A few lucky strokes, however, will soon restore the old gentleman to his accustomed affluence, and you may depend upon it neither church nor state will be again the richer.

PORTSMOUTH:
FRIDAY, APRIL 29, 1853.

THE KANE CASE.

Kane was a British subject, we believe an Irishman, who fled to this country to save his life. The New York Express states that in this case (being an application for the surrender of Kane, under the Ashburton treaty, on a charge of attempt to kill,) Kane was brought up to the U. S. Circuit Court and Judge Nelson delivered his opinion on the application on habeas corpus for discharge.

The Judge held to the view that all orders for extradition, in order to be valid, must come through the President of the United States—that the order for the arrest of Kane did not so emanate, and he must therefore be discharged.

A new warrant, it was stated, for his arrest, had been issued the day before, but by advice of the District Attorney not served. The Judge stated, after remarks from Messrs. Jordan, Brady, and others, that the rule it has laid down, as to the necessity of the order coming from the Executive, will be the rule, in New York, of the U. S. Circuit Court.

Kane immediately left the court, and sped across the Park, followed by a mob of over 150 persons shouting and cheering at his release. About 200 of the police were in waiting to prevent a rescue, as it was feared some attempt would have been made to free him if he had been convicted.

The decision is right—but he ought to have been discharged six months ago.

A CHARACTER REDEEMED.

The following paragraph has gone the rounds of the papers:

"COUNTY MCCLUSKY.—John McCleester, known amongst the pugilistic world as "County McClusky," a notorious prize fighter, died in New York on Sunday last, of fever contracted on a voyage home from California."

The "man is a man for 'a that." And the editor of the Manchester Mirror, who has been out in the world, and knew the man, comes nobly to the rescue, and speaks of the poor fellow in the following terms:

It is not right that one so full of good deeds and noble emotions should have no other epitaph than the above. In the last years of life, though he died in the full vigor of youth, he was ashamed of the assumed name "McClusky," and of his notoriety as a "prize-fighter." He was as generous, noble hearted a young man as ever drew breath; but being possessed of a large and immensely muscular frame, and having, unfortunately, in his youth become acquainted with shoulder-lifters and fisticuffs, he was induced in a sportive way, to accept a number of challenges, in which he was sure to be the winning man.—He resided in California three years, and was known as the "prince of good fellows," but not as a fighting man. Though man-fights there are as common as dog-fights here, he was never engaged in them. During the cholera he fitted up a hospital for the poor in San Francisco, and devoted all his time and attention, and nearly all his property to the benefit of the sick. In some respects, to be such a "prize-fighter" as he was, is no disgrace.

FIRE IN BOSTON.—A destructive fire took place in Boston, about one o'clock on Thursday morning, beginning in a wooden building occupied as a blacksmith shop in Endicott street, which was entirely destroyed, together with several buildings adjoining. The fire extended rapidly to the right and left, nearly destroying the block of two and a half story brick dwelling houses on Pond street place, occupied by numerous families, on the one side, and the large wooden building, No. 133 Endicott street, occupied by Ebenezer Waters, grocer, and several others, on the other, and extending in the rear to the buildings on North Margin street, nearly destroying the three story brick dwelling house opposite Baldwin place, the bakery, dwelling and stable of J. E. Stephenson, and a block of wooden dwelling houses.

The fire raged with great fury for a considerable time, the cinders passing in large quantities over the north part of the city, communicating fire to the roof of Christ church, in Salem street, which was considerably injured before the fire was extinguished.

THUS IS LIFE.—Yesterday there might have been seen staggering through the streets of Manchester, a man some fifty or more years old, trying to hold himself up by a cane in one hand, while with the other he held on to a bottle in his overcoat pocket with a death-like grasp. This same man, only a few years ago, was sent a representative from this city to the State Legislature. It is quite certain that if he should be sent there again with his present habits, he would not be an unfit representative of a large class of our inhabitants, but it seems strange that a man of his age should form such a habit.

We expect the young man who begins to drink will come to the drunkard's grave; indeed it is quite certain that many of them will so end their days: but to see a man who has seen fifty or sixty years of sober life become a drunkard at so rapid a rate, tells a pitiful tale of the weakness of human resolutions, and speaks with a terrible warning voice to those who taste and re-resolve. Nothing but entire abstinence can secure safety from its insidious influences upon the human constitution.—Mirror.

City Council—April 28.

In Board of Aldermen—a vote was passed that the superintendent of the city clocks be directed to regulate them by Boston or true time.

The committee appointed to make an estimate of the cost of altering the Bartlett school reported that the proposed addition would cost $1333.28; the report was accepted and again referred to the same commitee, with instructions to make an estimate of the cost of altering the internal arrangements, as proposed by Ald. Jenkins.

Mr. Trefethen petitioned for a license for a Bowling Alley, pledging himself that no ardent spirits should be sold—granted, on payment of $5.

A request was made for the city to name a price for a theatrical license for 4 weeks.—Voted that the price be $5 for every two evenings performance.

In Common Council—A Resolution was presented by Mr. Nelson, and passed, stating that the seats of the nine members from Ward 2 had been declared vacant, and directing the city clerk to correct the city books by striking out their names. It was received by the Aldermen, read and placed on file.

It was voted, that the resolution, asking a convention to choose officers, be suspended till further notice. The Alderman concurred.

A resolution was adopted, directing the Selectmen of Ward 2, to call a Town Meeting to fill the nine vacancies in the Council.

AGRICULTURAL MEETING.

An assemblage of ladies and gentlemen, to the number of two or three hundred, took place at the Temple on Monday evening, to hear some remarks on Agriculture, with the view of aiding in the efforts to establish a good Agricultural Society in Rockingham County.

The meeting was called at the request of a few gentleman of this city, and was opened by one of them, Capt. Goodwin, who briefly explained its object, and introduced Henry F. French, Esq. of Exeter, President of the Rockingham Agricultural Society, who addressed the meeting in a sensible and pertinent speech, in which he deplored the lack of agricultural knowledge, and portrayed some of the evil effects resulting from such ignorance; noticed the encouragement given to County Agricultural Societies in Massachusetts, and suggested a similar course in New Hampshire; and earnestly invited our able citizens to make themselves members of the Rockingham Agricultural Society, as the best means within our reach, of fostering our most important domestic interest, in which three quarters of our population are engaged.

J. G. Hoyt, Esq. of Exeter, was next introduced; and he interested and delighted the audience for half an hour, with an easy and natural flow of words and thought, on Agricultural Chemistry and Fruit Culture. He successfully maintained the true doctrine that it is the manifest destiny of New England to raise fruit, especially Apples, of the best qualities, not only for ourselves, but for other nations, especially the English, who are rapidly becoming able to appreciate their flavor, and estimate their superiority above the tamer fruits of more humid climes.

The speaker was no less successful in remarks and suggestions on soils and ploughing, and on a variety of collateral topics.

Both the gentlemen were earnest in their advocacy of the Agricultural Society of our County; as nature had done more for us, agriculturally, than for any other section of the state, and about as much as for any one in New England,—so our improvement in agricultural knowledge and skill ought to abound.

We hope that our farmers, as well as our able citizens, will make themselves members of the County Society immediately, and get up a gathering in the fall, worthy of our old substantial county.

For the Chronicle.

Will the editors permit me in answer to the gentleman who yesterday raised his ☞ against the President of the Common Council, to suggest, that a charge, that a person usurps a seat in the Council to which he is not lawfully elected is his "own cause" and "business concerning himself," as much as a charge of bribery or other misconduct. In both cases the constituents are interested, that they be not deprived of their representatives improperly, but in neither case is the accused party a fit judge of the question, whether he is truly their representative. His official influence and emoluments are in peril, and he is personally interested in retaining them. B.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE. — We learn that about seventy five members were present at the Rockingham County Teachers' Institute in Newmarket, on Wednesday.

NEW STREET.—A new street is opened, South of the Universalist Church, or rather, the court which has extended only to the length of that house, is now extended two or three times as far.

EXPRESS TRAINS.—A look at the notice of the Portsmouth & Concord Railroad will show that the express train from Boston to Portland, passes over the Eastern Railroad this year, instead of the Boston & Maine; and that passengers leaving Concord at 3.45 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, will connect with the express train here.

☞ Dr. Foster has a fine assortment of Dahlias, in a good state of forwardness, which he will be happy to see growing in all the flower gardens in the city.

BRYANT'S MINSTRELS.

Jerry Bryant is a great favorite in Boston. He has been one of Ordway's Æolians for a long while. The Newburyport Union says of his band:—"The Concerts given by Bryant's Minstrels, were well attended, and by the hearty laughter, we should judge were enjoyed by the audience. The delineations of negro character were perfect—native darkies could do no better. The "Grand Terpsichorean Divertisement," and comic Pot Pourri, alone, are well worth the price of admittance. The dancing by Mr. Marks, and the song a la Jenny Lind, will amply repay visiting them."

DANCING SCHOOL.—Mr. Lamprey, the well known and successful teacher of Dancing, will commence his Juvenile Class at Rechabite Hall, on Wednssday afternoon, May 4th, at 3 o'clock. Mr. L. has for several seasons past, taught dancing in this city, and as a proof of his success as a teacher, has always received good encouragement.

Correspondence of the Chronicle.

DOWNINGVILLE, Me., April 25, '53.

Messrs. Editors:—Since I last saw you, my perigrinations have landed me in the above named part of "Down East," where notwithstanding the yarn that they somewhere in these diggins are accustomed to pry the sun up with a handspike, for aught to me as yet appears, old Sol, without such foreign "aid and comfort," rises when he gets ready, and pursues the even tenor of his way here as he is wont to do among the rest of mankind; and here the people generally look out of their eyes, and seem bent on minding their own business, thereby practically teaching a wholesome lesson which a certain class of bipeds would do well to imitate, even at the hazard of appearing a little apeish.

I left home last Wednesday, and arrived in Portland about eight P. M., with the expectation of being through to Bangor by daylight, via the new steamer Daniel Webster. But, as the story goes, our hopes were deferred by what perhaps Solomon would call the vanity of the Captain in desiring to show off his new Black Dan, (I think the steamer is white—white is called black sometimes) by daylight, to the Penobscotonians, thereby deferring his start from 9 o'clock P. M., as advertised, till 12 at night; consequently many who were in hot haste to meet their engagements promptly,

"Poured out the vials of their wrath,
— as if back upon their brain
The hot blood ebb'd and flowed again."

However, the Captain took it coolly, stopped at the various landings along shore, gave the natives a fair chance to come on board and see the elephant, and to return again to private life; and in process of time we arrived at the desired haven, the city in the woods, alias Bangor. The Daniel Webster is a fine, commodious boat of 900 tons, and I should think well adapted to her station. The full length portrait of Daniel himself, as large as life, at one end of the cabin, is a handsome picture, and said to be a striking likeness of the great departed statesman. But those who went to see the pictures in the barber's saloon, particularly, will not probably forget them during the present administration, especially a splendid picture of feminine human nature in its primitive simplicity, dressed only as Eve was adorned in the garden of Eden. The picture did not blush, but some of the passengers did. In the same steamer, the proprietors have seen fit to furnish the cabin tables with several fine copies of the Bible. Whether they intended the two influences to counteract or aid each other, I cannot say; but I set down the facts as they are. F.

HORSES IN NEW YORK.—The New York Herald gives an article on the Horses and Horse trade of New York. The estimated number of horses is 22,540, which is equal to one horse for every 23 inhabitants. The estimated value is $2,495,000; the value of their annual labor $9,614,800; and the cost of stabling $4,443,860. The estimated distance travelled daily by all the horses in the city 319,150 miles. The number employed in omnibuses and railroad cars 7,000.

COLORED OWNERS AND CREW.—The Portland Advertiser says, a fine fore and aft clipper built schooner, of about 240 tons burthen, called the "Jeanette," launched from the ship yard of Messrs. Turner & Harris, Cape Elizabeth, is now rigging at Franklin wharf in that city. She is owned by Mr. Joseph P. Tailor, and Elbridge P. Talbot, (colored persons) and is to have an entire colored crew, with Mr. Tailor for commander, and Mr. Talbot for first officer. She is intended for a freighter.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

New York, April 23. RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—The two o'clock Camden and Amboy train from Philadelphia, yesterday P. M. run into Rancos Creek, about twelve miles on this side of Philadelphia, owing to the draw bridge being open for the passage of a steamer. The engine, all the baggage crates and the express cars, were precipitated into about fifteen feet of water. The brakeman had a leg, and some of his ribs broken, and was otherwise injured. The express car, which was sunk, had some $30,000 on board, together with many packages. The accident is attributed to gross carelessness. The passengers, who narrowly escaped with their lives, arrived in the city at a late hour last night. A despatch from Philadelphia states that the 5 o'clock passengers for this city were taken up the river in a small ferry boat, which will bring down the afternoon passengers from New York.

APPOINTMENTS.—Washington, April 27.—The Cabinet held a very protracted meeting to day, and the result is the appointment of John A. Dix as Minister to France, and Richard K. Meade, of Virginia, as Minister to Chili.

THE PRESIDENT has been so tormented and worried by office-seekers, that he is compelled to hold them at bay. The Union gives notice officially, that he will only receive visitors on business, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, between twelve and two o'clock.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.—Jos. Gedbraith of Philadelphia, a broth of a boy, recently gave his wife a smart whipping, for which she had him up before the Court. He showed that she called him "bad names," and was very abusive to him—but the judge told the jury that this was a wife's privilege. She had a right to use her tongue as freely as she pleased, and it did not justify the husband in laying violent hands upon her. Verdict guilty.

A REFORM.—We see it stated in the papers, that a party of "young gentlemen" gave a grand ball in New York, on Monday afternoon, commencing at 3 and closing at 10 P. M. The young men intend a reform in the hours of fashionable gaiety.

BRITAIN'S HAPPY FAMILY.—The Queen Alexandrin Victoria, was born May 24, 1819. Prince Francis Albert Augustus Charles Emanuel of Saxe Coburg and Gotha, was born Aug. 26, 1819.

The twain were married at the age of 21, on the 10th, of Feb., 1840. The issue has been:

Victoria Adelaide Mary Louisa, born Nov. 21, 1840.

Albert Edward, born Nov. 9, 1841.

Alice Maud Mary, born April 25, 1843.

Alfred Ernest Albert, born Aug. 6, 1844.

Helena Augusta Victoria, born May, 25, 1846.

Louisa Caroline Alberta, born March 18, 1848.

Arthur William Patrick Albert, born May 1, 1850.

A son not yet named, born April 7, 1853.

Eight children—4 sons and 4 daughters—in thirteen years, and all alive and well.

ARRIVAL OF THE GEORGIA.—New York, April 27.—The steamer Georgia from Aspinwall arrived at 3 o'clock this P. M. She brings $2,062,000 and a full complement of passengers.

The men who were arrested at the Isthmus for the robbery of the Peruvian Minister to Bogota, are J. Holmes, keeper of the hotel at Gorgona, and his steward and clerk, Charles Rogers and Richard Berry; part of the stolen property was found in their possession.

BEEF.—The high price of beef is to be attributed, in part, to the fact that the graziers in the Northern Illinois region, who have heretofore been among the most extensive contributors to the great cattle markets of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Boston, now drive their herds across the plains to supply the demand which invites them to California. The cattle drivers in Ohio are turning their attention in the same direction. Immense quantities of beef have also been and are now being packed and shipped for Australia.

PISTOL SHOOTING.—A specimen of pistol shooting was given in Savannah, on the 11th inst., that is considered worthy of being chronicled. The match was between Mr. Wm. Dordrick, of Augusta, and Mr. Wm. Davidson, of Savannah. Each fired ten shots at the spot, between the words one, two, three, given in the usual time. Mr. Dordrick rang the bell six times in succession, his ten shots measuring 3 1-2 inches. Mr. Davidson rang the bell five times in succession, making an average of 4 1-4 inches. Experienced shots say they have never witnessed a match, where the contest was as close and the shooting as good.

BREAKING OF THE RUM RIVER BOOM—GREAT CALAMITY TO LUMBERMEN.—The Rum river boom, in which about 20,000,000 feet of logs were lodged, gave way some time during Thursday night or yesterday morning, setting afloat and precipitating the entire body of logs into the Mississippi. They were passing St. Paul last evening in an unbroken and continuous chain. The river not being sufficiently high to overflow its banks, and carry the logs off into the bottoms, most of them will be caught at Lake Pepin, but the expense of collecting them will be equal to at least half their value. This is a severe blow to our industrious lumbermen—one of the hard contingencies incident to their precarious business.—St. Paul Minnesotian, April 9.

For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair.

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S

Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,

PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition. 18mo, pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.

[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]

First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire full knowledge of the nature, character and cause of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriages, but no female destroyed her enjoying health, and the beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be ignorant.

☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding,) "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (postpaid, free) to any part of the United States. All letters must be post-paid, and addressed to Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Box 1224, New York City. Publishing Office, No. 129 Liberty Street, New York.

THE BEACON.

The scene was more beautiful far to my eye,
Than if day in its pride had arrayed it;
The land-breeze blew mild, and the azure arched sky
Looked as pure as the spirit that made it.
The murmur rose soft, as I silently gazed
On the shadowy wave's playful motion,
From the dim distant hill, till the beacon-fire blazed
Like a star in the midst of the ocean.

No longer the joy of the sailor boy's breast
Was heard in his wildly breathed numbers;
The sea-bird had flown to her wave girded nest;
The fisherman sunk to his slumbers.
One moment I looked from the hill's gentle slope,
All hushed was the billow's commotion,
And I thought that the beacon looked lovely as hope,
That star on life's tremulous ocean.

The time is long past, and the scene is afar,
Yet when my head rests on its pillow,
Will memory sometimes rekindle the star,
That blazed on the breast of the billow.
In life's closing hours, when the trembling soul flies,
And death stills the heart's last emotion,
Oh, then may the seraph of mercy arise!
Like a star on Eternity's ocean.

ANNEXATION.

The annexation of Mexico has begun.—Gov. Lane, the newly appointed Governor of our territory of New Mexico, has just issued his proclamation declarative of the provisional annexation of six thousand square miles of territory to the county of Donna Anna.—The proclamation contains, under the cover of a whereas, seven distinct propositions as the ground of action in the premises; of which the following is the substance.

1st. That the ownership of the territory is in dispute between the United States and Mexico, under the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo. 2d. That up to the year 1851 it was acknowledged to be a portion of New Mexico; at which time the State of Chihuahua assumed jurisdiction over it without producing any authority from Mexico, without the consent of the United States, and against the remonstrances of a large portion of its inhabitants. 3d. During the discussion of the boundary question, under the treaty of peace, the commissioner of Mexico proposed to abandon a part of this disputed territory, by dividing it between the two Republics. 4th. That Chihuahua claims the territory on the unwarrantable assumption that the commissioners had agreed upon a boundary line which gives the territory to her; and that this decision is final. 5th. That on the contrary, the decision of the commissioners is not final; each of the high contracting powers, ex necessitate rei, having tacitly reserved the right of confirming or of rejecting the decision of the commissioners. 6th. The State of Chihuahua has failed signally to afford protection to the inhabitants in their rights of person, property, and conscience. 7th. The revolutionary state of Mexico precludes the hope of adequate protection from that republic; and moreover a large portion of the inhabitants of the territory solicit annexation to the United States.

The Governor therefore declares that by the law of nations the United States government is justly entitled to exercise jurisdiction over the territory; and he on his "own official responsibility and without orders from the cabinet at Washington" takes possession of it to be held provisionally by the United States, until the question of boundary shall have been determined; and he calls upon the officers of the United States, civil and military, to execute the laws of the United States and of New Mexico over the territory.

Some of the newspapers flatter themselves that the President will promptly disavow the act for our government:—but we do not expect any such action. We know nothing about the boundary, in this particular case: but we remember something about the history of our operations in Florida years ago, and in Texas and Mexico lately. And we expect to see claims made, on one plea and another, to pieces of Mexico, and by and by another war by which we shall absorb the whole of it. We consider the public opinion of the majority in this country, as expressed in favor of annexation, by the late election. And we expect to see Gov. Lane borne out in his course, by the government and people.

The New York Herald says on this subject:

"Governor Lane, however, happened to find himself in the category of those foolish men who commenced to build a tower without calculating the cost, and so, when he thought he had nothing to do but take military possession of the valley, it turned out that his little army refused to act, and the conquest was only a paper one, after all. Colonel Sumner, in command of a body of the United States forces, declined acting on the requisition of the Governor, conceiving that his act was an illegal and improper one, inasmuch as the Mecila Valley had been recognized as constituting a portion of the Mexican republic by Mr. Bartlett, the Boundary Commissioner, and had never been claimed by the government of the United States.

In the meantime the Mexican authorities are concentrating their forces in the valley, resolved to oppose to the last extremity the invasion meditated by Governor Lane; and we would not be at all surprised to learn, by the next mail, that the latter had made a foray on and routed the unfortunate Mexicans, with five hundred riflemen collected from the backwoods. Perhaps after that he might get up a war on his own hook, fight a few pitched battles with Santa Anna, and end by planting the American standard once more on the halls of the Montezumas. The only question is whether General Pierce will allow the Napoleon of New Mexico to levy war on his own account. We rather think that the President will be very apt to stop him short in his brilliant career, and thereby deprive the world of a hero."

Gov. Lane may be censured, as Gen. Jackson was,—nevertheless he is bound to be a "hero." A successful fillibuster movement on his part would do more toward placing him in the White House than any amount of talent and fitness for the place. A portion of our people, we think a large portion, are disposed to honor all such heroes as take the responsibility and carry it out.

If Gen. Lane would call for volunteers, and step over the line he now draws, he might see them come flocking overland in clouds, to join his standard, and ready for any desperate adventure of revolution in Mexico. To be sure he has no money, but he might rob churches for part of the expenses, and issue scrip for the rest. Then declare Independence; then be annexed to our glorious union; and lastly get us to redeem the scrip, reimburse the churches, and give the new state a few millions besides, to set up in business for herself. The whole of this programme may not be carried out now; but it will be played some time; we think before many years.

A STRANGER TAKEN IN.

The particulars of a rare case of swindling, at Brighton, Mass., are detailed in the Boston Daily Advertiser. The swindling operation was performed on Thursday afternoon, at the Brighton Cattle Market, by which an honest farmer named Phinehas Lawrence was cheated out of $375 in a most adroit manner. Three men accosted our honest friend, stating to him that there were three yoke of oxen in market which they wished to obtain, but which the owner would not sell to them, and asking his aid in making the bargain. Without suspecting a trick, he willingly undertook the task, and purchased the cattle of a man who was pointed out as the owner. When the farmer asked for the money to pay for the oxen, one of the men for whom he purchased, handed him three one hundred dollar bills, and seventy-five dollars in small bills. Suddenly, he took back the money, remarking "the owner of those cattle will know these bills and will not take them." To accommodate the man, the farmer borrowed the money of a friend, paid for the cattle and then returned to obtain the money from the three men. They could not be found however. He then hastened to secure the cattle, but found that the man to whom he had paid the money did not own them, but that he was a confederate of the men who first accosted him and was among the missing. Mr. Lawrence was obliged to pay the friend from whom he borrowed the sum, out of his own pocket.

He must have been very philanthropic, or very green.

TAMMANY SOCIETY.—At the election of Sachems of the New York Tammany Society, the "Softs" and Barnburners beat the "Hards" more than two to one.

This Tammany Society (says an exchange) has been very influential and famous in its day. It was the first society organized in this country for the defence of State rights, and one of the oaths which its members are required to take is, that they will sustain State institutions and resist consolidation of power in the hands of the General Government. At first it was not a political organization, and it was so popular that most men of any note or merit belonged to it, and its anniversaries were celebrated as holidays.

It actively opposed the adoption of the Federal Constitution, on the ground that it established a central government so strong as to be dangerous to the States and to the liberties of the people. But the adoption of the several amendments which were made to the Constitution, through the influence of Jefferson and Madison, reconciled the Society to that instrument. At present, its chief business seems to be to manage the party politics of New York city.

PARDONED.—Joseph Rosenthal, who was convicted at the September term of the U. S. District Court of an attempt to pass goods through the Baltimore Custom House, upon a fraudulent invoice, has been pardoned by President Pierce, and released from confinement. The difference between the appraisement of custom house officers and the invoice, as sworn to by the accused, amounted to but nine dollars, as it appears; and the jury, in their verdict, recommended him to the mercy of the court. Since his imprisonment, the original bill of goods has been received from Germany, and upon examination proves to be an exact counterpart of the bill sworn to at the custom house. On these facts becoming known to the President, he ordered the discharge of the accused.—Baltimore Patriot, Monday.

The President did right in discharging him; but the word "pardoned" is misplaced when applied to this case and this prisoner, who seems to have sworn to the whole truth and nothing but the truth. On the whole we think the Court and Jury which condemned him stand most in need of pardon. But what a commentary does this case furnish upon the whole business of custom house swearing!—The man does what he must, to get his goods ashore, viz., swears to the invoice; but government does not believe him; has the goods appraised at a higher figure; and puts him in jail for swearing falsely, but lets him out again on discovering that he is right, and the custom house is wrong!

DAILY PATRIOT.—The publishers of the N. H. Patriot are to issue their usual neat little Daily during the approaching session of the legislature at Concord. Price twenty-five cents for the session.

A violent tornado recently occurred in the vicinity of South Bend, Indiana, which tore down fences, mowed a road through a thick forest, unroofed many houses and barns, broke a young lady's arm, carried a calf a considerable distance through the air, and committed other strange freaks.

NEW FACTORY.—The Salisbury Manufacturing Company are laying the foundation for a new factory, which is to be 200 feet long and 50 feet wide. It is to be built of brick, on the Salisbury side of Powow river, Salisbury, Mass.

RAILROAD OBSTRUCTIONS.—A man named Jacobs, who was arrested two or three weeks since for placing obstructions on the rails of the Willimantic Railroad, was sentenced on Saturday last, at New London, to eight years' confinement in the State Prison. —Hartford Courant.

LOCAL.

THE SACRED CONCERT.

Our readers are already aware that Mr. C. E. Kingsbury announces a musical entertainment to-morrow evening. Mr. Kingsbury has for the last year officiated as organist at the Unitarian Church in this city, and it is to be regretted that he is about to leave Portsmouth. He possesses fine talents as a musician, and with sufficient practice and experience cannot fail to stand very high in his profession. His place in our musical circle will not be easily filled.

Mr. K. has the co-operation of T. P. Moses, Esq., and several other talented and experienced gentlemen, and some of our most able lady singers; and all can see by the programme that the music is among the best. The Cameneum ought to be filled—and the occasion prove a "benefit" to the young artist as well as to the audience. Fifteen cents won't often buy so much.

THE PANORAMA.—There is to be an exhibition at the Cameneum, this afternoon, and also this evening. As the proprietor announces that he's "off soon," we advise all to go and see this really fine picture, or series of pictures, the first opportunity—and also to send "the children." An hour spent there is not thrown away.

JERRY BRYANT and his Minstrels perform "once more and the last" time to-night, at the Temple. He had a good house, and the "house" had a good entertainment last evening. All lovers of "fun alive" should have a look at this troupe this evening. Jerry's a "trump."

☞ We understand that Jacob L. Gould has been appointed Keeper of Boon Island Light.

TOWN CLOCKS.—The new arrangement of the clock time in this city, goes into operation next Monday.

☞ The Portsmouth Daily Morning Chronicle of Friday, contains the arrival of ship Louvre at this port on Thursday; and the Boston Dailies of Friday morning contain the clearance and sailing of the same ship from Boston for Portsmouth on Thursday.

ONE WAY TO STOP A QUARREL.—Our attention was drawn, a few days since, to the movements of a trio of very noisy urchins in a back street. The largest boy was disputing with the smallest (but noisiest and most dirty) of the "crowd;" while the third was spurring the latter "on to victory." "Pitch into him," says our second;—and the two lads made a few passes toward each other, taking good care not to approach too near. Then followed a cessation of hostilities—which not suiting the "second," he broke out with, "Come, come, I want to see this row out—he struck you last, Bill—you dares'n't hit him back." Bill was the biggest boy, and after much loud talking all round—the outsider all the while accusing him of cowardice, and repeating that he "was struck last,"—Bill put an end to the dispute by remarking, "Well, 'spos'n he did hit me last,—what of it? somebody must strike last, and it might as well be him as anybody!" We commend his philosophy to all similarly situated—all who get "struck last."

ST. PETER'S CHAIR.—A late letter from the Pope to the French Clergy, is published in the London Times. It speaks of the liturgy of the "Roman Church," by which name we prefer hereafter to call the body over which he presides as Papa, or Pope, meaning a Father. This name "the Roman Church," is more significant, and less objectionable than almost any other by which it is known.

A very short extract from the letter is all we can give.

"Your wisdom is not ignorant that the bitterest enemies of the Catholic religion have always directed, though vainly, the most violent attacks against this chair of the Blessed Prince of the Apostles, knowing full well that religion itself can never fall, or totter, so long as this chair, founded on a rock, shall remain standing, for the proud gates of hell cannot prevail against it, and in it is, entire and perfect, the solidity of the Christian religion."

The reader must keep his countenance as well as he can, if he should happen to think that the chair, solidity and all, were in fearful peril awhile ago; and that but for French bayonets, "the gates" spoken of might have swallowed up the whole establishment.

FIRE AT NORTHAMPTON.—The building known as the Old Hat Factory in Northampton, Mass., and occupied as a jobbing shop, a millinery shop, and as a dwelling for some six families, was destroyed by fire at an early hour Monday morning. A Mrs. Mozart was burnt to death in the flames.

A STRIKE.—The Representatives in Massachusetts have struck for higher wages, and got them, viz. $2.50 per day. They fixed the price themselves: If the people had done it they would have paid them less. The price, however, is none too high.

BLOOMERISM AT A DISCOUNT.—We understand that the prudential committee of the village of Ware, Mass., declined the application of a young lady of acknowledged high character and ability, for the situation of teacher of one of their common schools, on account of the Bloomer cut of her dress. The Worcester Spy presumes that if the same length had been cut from the top of her dress, which was taken from the skirt, she would have been most cordially approved.

FEARGUS O'CONNOR, Ex Member of Parliament, and a famous Chartist agitator, was examined by a commission of lunacy, in London, April 12, and decided to be absolutely insane. His medical attendant and governor says he has no lucid intervals, and that there is little or no hope of his recovering the use of his spirits.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

Rochester, N. Y., April 29.—The Rochester Temperance Hotel was burnt this morning. Three women and one boy perished. The fire broke out about 1 o'clock, when 150 persons were asleep in the house, all of whom escaped excepting the four, who were domestics, and slept in the attic. The names of two of the victims are Catherine Conlan, aged 40, and James Jeeney, aged 14. The building cost recently $26,000; insured to the amount of $10,000.

Washington, April 29.—Governor Hubbard, of Maine, has been appointed Consul to Rio Janeiro; H. Angel, of New York, to Talcahuana. S. D. Dillage, of Syracuse, has been appointed charge to Brussels.

Chief Justice Taney is considered very ill, and is not expected to resume his duties.

Governor Lane's movements in New Mexico are exc ting interest here, and it is said the matter will be informally considered in the Cabinet to-day. The administration, it is reported, is rather inclined to support Governor Lane.

Chief Justice Taney.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Courier says that it is believed by some of the friends of Chief Justice Taney, that he will decline further service on the Bench of the Supreme Court, on account of his age and ill health.—He is now in his seventy-seventh year.

Louisiana Senator.—New Orleans, April 28.—Mr. John Slidell was elected U. S. Senator at Baton Rouge, to succeed Mr. Soule, by 33 majority over Mr. Hunt, whig.

NEWS BY THE CANADA.

The arrival of steamer Canada, at Boston, gives us Liverpool news to April 16, noon.

Enquiries were made in the British House of Commons, relative to Kossuth's affairs, and to Central America. The answers show, in regard to Kossuth, that Her Majesty's government engage that he and other refugees shall not break the peace of Europe, while they reside in England; and that powder, rockets and bomb-shells had been found in a house near him; but no proof is given that he knows any thing about them.

In regard to Central America, Lord Palmerston assured the House that the interest of England would be studied, but declined making any further statements, as a negotiation is pending.

The Jewish disability bill was read a third time.

Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe was welcomed on landing at Liverpool on Sunday. A large crowd assembled on the wharf and proceeded to the house of a friend, Mr. Edward Cropper. Monday morning she met a select circle at breakfast, when Dr. McNeil presented an address of welcome. On Tuesday she met the members of the Liverpool Negroes' Friend Society. On Wednesday she attended the British and Foreign Bible Society and was presented with one and thirty pounds [so the despatch reads; the amount was doubtless larger] by two thousand two hundred subscribers. On the same day, Mrs. Stowe left for Glasgow.

The Baltic arrived out at 1 o'clock on the morning of the 14th. She ran foul of the bell buoy and lost her anchor and chain. When two days out she broke her crank pin and lay to twenty-six hours.

It is stated that Fritze & Co., Bremen, are about to compete with the Washington and Herman steamers, by running monthly between Bremen and New York, the steamship Cansa, three thousand tons, and a thousand horse power, and the Germania, 1600 tons, and six hundred horse power; both ships have been recently purchased from the German fleet. The cabin fare will be about $90.

France.—The Emperor has been sick for some days, but had recovered. We are almost totally without French news.

Stringent regulations for political refugees in France are promulgated. None will be permitted to reside at Lyons, Marseilles, or in the departments of the Seine without special authorization. Spanish refugees must not approach within one hundred miles of the Spanish frontier; Germans must keep the same distance from Germany, and Italians from Italy

ROBBERY ON THE ISTHMUS.

Senor Jose Gregorio Pez Soldan, the Minister from Peru to Bogota, was robbed on the Isthmus on the 5th inst. The Minister left Panama on the 5th inst. for Aspinwall, with the intention of taking the British mail steamer for Carthagena. On his arrival at Gorgona that evening, he staid over night at the New York Hotel, kept by J. Holmes. Here he was robbed of some trunks, containing dresses and jewels belonging to the wife of his brother and secretary. The next evening the party were again robbed at Mr. Hunter's hotel at Barbacoas, and the same night the work was completed at another hotel at Aspinwall. The whole amount of property stolen is valued at thirteen thousand dollars, including four thousand in money.

Holmes, the keeper of the hotel at Gorgona, his steward and bar-keeper, were taken into custody, and the house was closed. They were removed to Aspinwall for trial, with Richard Berry and Charles Rogers, also charged with the commission of the offence. A medal, some peculiar coins, and a number of shawls found in possession of the parties, leave little doubt as to their guilt.

James McHugo, the Irish carpenter, who murdered Mr. Stephenson, the superintendent of the railroad, has committed suicide in the Aspinwall jail, by taking poison.

Man may err, the People never.—N. Y. Democrat.

And pray, who are the people? Made of men we suppose, and each man, individually, may err. How happens it that the people, composed as they are of erring men, should, when taken all together become infallible. If the parts are all liable to err, can the whole be unerring?—Lawrence Sentinel.

MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefited by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,

PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

Mauriceau, as there are spurious and surreptitious infringements of copy-right.

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.
DOCTOR ALFRED G. HALL,
AUTHOR of the New Theory of cure by the Nutritive Principle, in Physiology and Medicine, sustaining the laws of life and removing the cause of disease, confirmed as a NATURAL SCIENCE by the Nutritive Process; expelling dead and depositing living matter at the same time in the Body, increasing its weight and strength while under treatment, being the great discovery of the constitutional power resisting disease; ample proof can be given in the person of any invalid.

Three months' attention and treatment is requisite in all cases, with printed instructions, for diet and washing, and the use of the Alkaline Girdle for the spine and kidneys—a restorative action is produced in all parts of the system immediately by the natural laws sustained by nutrition.
He is the inventor and sole proprietor of 12 nutritive fluids; they can be made by any family—are adapted to the several temperaments, and to every form of disease. His works, "Views of the New Theory, &c.," "Womanhood," and the "Mother's Own Book," are furnished to invalids under his supervision. It is now before Congress.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.
Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.
R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.
"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

BEAUTIFUL EXTRACT.—The editor of the Knickerbocker attributes the following to Ike Marvel, and it is certainly worthy of him.—Read it without tears if you can:—

"Last evening as we were walking leisurely along, the music of choirs in three churches came floating out into the darkness around us, and they were all new and strange tunes but one. And that one—it was not sung as we have heard it, but it awakened a train of long-buried memories, that rose to us even as they were before the cemetery of the soul had a tomb in it.

It was sweet old Corinth they were singing—strains that we have seldom heard since the rose color of life was blanched; and we were in a moment back again to the old village church, and it was a summer afternoon, and the yellow sunbeams were streaming through the west windows, and the silver hair of the old deacon, who sat in the pulpit, was turned to gold in its light, and the minister, who we used to think could never die, so good was he, had concluded 'application' and 'exhortation,' and the village choir were singing the last hymn, and the tune was 'Corinth.'"

"It is years—we dare not think how many—since then, and 'the choir are scattered and gone. The girl with blue eyes that sang alto, and the girl with black eyes that sang air—the eyes of the one were like a clear June heaven at noon. They both became wives, and both mothers, and they both died. Who shall say they are not singing 'Corinth' still, where Sabbaths never wane, and congregations never break up? There they sat, Sabbath after Sabbath, by the square column at the right of the 'leader,' and to our young ears their tones were the 'very soul of music.' That column bears still their pencilled names, as they wrote them in those days in life's June, 183–, before dreams of change had overcome their spirits like a summer's cloud.

"Alas! that with the old singers most of the sweeter tones have died upon the air, but they linger in memory, and they shall yet be sung in the sweet reunion of song that shall take place by-and-by in a hall whose columns are beams of morning light, whose ceiling is pearl, whose floors are all bold, and where hair never turns silvery, and hearts never grow old. Then she that sang alto, and she that sang air, will be in their places one more."

CHARITY AT INTEREST.—Most American readers have heard of Swaim, the 'author' of 'Swaim's Panacea,' and how, he being a book-binder he came to find on the blank-leaf of a volume he was binding, the receipt for the celebrated medicine which laid the foundation of the princely fortune which he left behind him. Something like this was the lucky accident which made Day and his 'eminent' blacking so famous.

Day was a hair-dresser in a humble way, and was beneficent and charitable in the extreme. One day a soldier entered his shop, and stated that he had a long march before him to reach his regiment, that his money was all gone, and nothing but sickness, fatigue, and punishment awaited him, unless he could get a lift on the coach. The worthy barber presented him with a guinea, when the grateful soldier exclaimed:

'God bless you sir—how can I ever repay this? I have nothing in the world except,'—pulling a dirty piece of paper out of his pocket, 'a receipt for blacking; it is the best ever was seen; many a half-guinea have I had for it from the officers, and many bottles have I sold. May you be able to get something for it to repay this you have given to a poor soldier, your kindness I never forget.'

Mr. Day who was a shrewd man, inquired into the story, tried the blacking, finding it good, commenced the manufacture and sale of it, and realized the immense fortune of which he died possessed.

A YANKEE COLONY.—On Monday evening last, some eighty persons, heads of families, arrived in this city, en route for Minnesota, where they design forming a colony. They are under the direction of A. Thompson, Esq., of Amherst, Mass., father of G. W. and John A. Thompson, Esqs., of this city, and are from the various New England states. Their design is to settle upon a township of land in the country recently ceded to the United States by the Sioux Indians, improve and enter it when it is brought into market. They are made up mostly of farmers and mechanics, with a slight sprinkling of preachers and school teachers. They are mostly in the prime of life, and take with them to the wilds of Minnesota, the energy and intelligence characteristic of the land of steady habits. After reaching the site of their future home, they will proceed at once to the erection of buildings and planting of crops, preparatory to the arrival of their families.—Chicago Democratic Press, April 13.

The New York Tribune contains several "hints to strikers." It contends, first, that employees have a right to strike, and employers to resist, and therefore it is best not to use hot blood or high words in the matter. Second, that employers can procure other service, of right, on such terms as they please; and that those who choose, have a right to go to work on such terms as they fancy. Third, that strikes, followed by inaction, are losing affairs. Each day of unpaid idleness, weakens the striker's power. Fourth, if a strike is to succeed, the strikers should immediately find some sort of employment, in order that they may hold out till the employer shall capitulate. The Tribune is of opinion that strikes are often blunders, and end against the strikers.

ZINC PAINT VERSUS GUANO.—A Boston man, who has lately removed to his suburban retreat in Norfolk County, a few weeks since ordered some guano from Baltimore. In due time it arrived, and he used it last week in planting an acre of potatoes. A painter ordered some barrels of zinc paint from Baltimore also, and by some hocus pocus, the guano was sent to the painter, and the paint to the farmer.

An investigation took place, when it was found that the amateur city farmer had manured an acre of potatoes with the paint, and complained that it poisoned his hands dreadfully.—Transcript.

PORTSMOUTH:
MONDAY, MAY 2, 1853.

SCHOOLS IN ENGLAND.

There are two parties in England on the subject. The first, or church party, which is in power, deems the schools an appendage to the National Church, and keeps them under its direction. The other party, which includes Dissenters of all sorts, favors the establishment of common or general schools, teaching no particular religious tenets,—but giving instruction in art and science, after the manner of our New England schools.

There is also a third party in existence, viz. the Roman Church party, but they take no side in this controversy.

We omit the Dissenting side of the controversy, because our readers are familiar with it—and indeed the strongest part of their argument is a reference to our schools. But we copy a little of the Church side, as exhibited in the House of Commons.

On the 4th inst., Lord John Russell explained the intentions of the ministry on the question. He said in reviewing the past,—

The improved systems of Bell and Lancaster had given an impetus to the cause of general education; and with the view of assisting the movement, followed by the National School Society, the distinctive feature of which was to make the reading of the Scriptures, the teaching of the Church catechism, and attendance at church, prominent parts of the educational process. The efforts of these societies were successful in creating a great number of schools, and in bringing considerable numbers of the youthful population within the range of the elements of education. Adducing minute statistics, his lordship showed that in the year 1851, there were no fewer than 44,898 schools, public and private, in operation, and 2,108,473 pupils receiving education in various parts of the kingdom.

The adherents of the Church of England insist that the system of general education should embrace the teaching of their religious doctrines, inasmuch as they are the National church, and have thereby the right to be regarded as guardians of the public faith. Lord John Russell said:

Be could not agree with what was known as the secular system. "My belief is, that the people of this country have acted with a right instinct when they have, by their exertions, by their associations, by the devotion of their money and the time of their children, declared openly that there should be a system of religious training in the schools, and that the religious training should comprise all the great doctrines of Christianity—[cheers.] I therefore, sir, do not call on the present government to be a party to any act for the purpose of substituting a secular mode of teaching in the stead of that which is at present in existence."—[hear.]

The advocates of placing the schools under the charge of the established church entertain, as a class, the sentiments of a member who said he "would be happy to see education extended to the whole people, but should prefer to see the children uneducated if the Bible was not the basis of that education." It is understood that the term "the bible," as used by this speaker, includes the creed and thirty-nine articles. Lord Russell informed the House that his plan was so liberal that "the parents themselves would have full power to withdraw their children from any school to the religious instruction of which they might be opposed."

PRESERVED MEATS.

These meats, so important on a long voyage, are prepared in Portland, Me. The Daily Advertiser of that city says a process has been perfected by which at merely a nominal cost, beef, mutton, veal, poultry, &c., can be prepared and preserved perfectly fresh, during a voyage to the East Indies and back, the meat retaining its juices, and being in all respects equal if not superior, to that just butchered.

It is an "hermetically sealed" process, without cutting the meat into shreds and changing its character, or using tin canisters, which are an enormous expense. A roasting piece of beef, or loin of veal, of ten pounds weight, for example, is made to yield the water from its surface to the depth of one tenth of an inch, which, by a chemical process, is formed into an artificial article, completely impervious to air, and this most effectually excludes the atmospheric oxygen from the interior. The meat, thus prepared, is then packed in bran, in flour barrels, and will keep in any climate, for any reasonable length of time, say one or two years. Two cents a pound it is supposed, will on a large scale, cover the whole cost of the operation, so that passengers to Australia can now be provided every day with real roast beef about as cheaply as they can be kept on salt provisions.

☞ The Roxbury Journal says, according to the report of the expenditures of that city, it appears that more money is spent at the Almshouse for tobacco than preaching! The items of account as quoted by the City Missionary are as follows:

Howe & Leeds for tobacco,	$46 00
James Ritchie for preaching,	35 00

Correspondence of the Chronicle.

A LETTER FROM NEW YORK,

NEW YORK, April 28, 1853.

Dear Chronicle:—My amiable contemporary, St. Nick (a son of "old Nick," by the by) has a happy faculty of making "much ado about nothing," and getting Corybantic when there is not the ghost of a cause. This is a family failing, for his satanic ancestor is supposed to be ever on the alert for any unfortunate mortal who may take a one sided step in life; so master Nick, with all the natural avidity of his progenitor pounced upon that little word of mine, prejudice. With his quotation from Tom Moore—I mean Moses, and a sprinkle from the bard of Avon, he has shaken what little confidence I had in myself before, leaving me the miserable wreck of what I was; so says the seedy gentleman in the play, and the language is applicable to my case.—Though Nick's attack was rather a coup de main, I am not quite annihilated, for to quote from his favorite author,

"Thrice is he armed that has his quarrel just,"

and mine is in just such a position, that, though trembling in my garments at the awful dignity St. Nicholas has seen fit to assume, I am still able to prove, what was before mere assertion, viz., that he is prejudiced; the whole tenor of his letter will bear me out.—He leaves the reader with an erroneous idea that the New York Crystal Palace is smaller than it is, and those who look at the faults of this "institution" through him, are peeping through a magnifying glass of intense power, to say the least. I am not St. Nicholas's antagonist; I am not a defender of the Would's Fair; it would be absurd for me to stand forth as its champion—still, without becoming so, I may venture to correct some faults in my friend's epistle, though I may not ameliorate my own. His letter was not penned in a good spirit; slurs pervade each line; the writer does not say what he means, nor mean what he says. Notwithstanding he watched the construction of the World's Fair building so attentively, and "eagerly perused every paper and paragraph having the remotest allusion to" it; notwithstanding all this, he called it a "humbug," while it was yet a skelcton; termed it a "base speculation" ere it was born; yclped its projectors "avaricious men" before he knew their names, and wrote a column of what he doubtless thought hard things, because I lisped "the blighting name of prejudice."

Now personally, it matters not at all to me whether St. Nicholas calls the Crystal Palace a "shanty" or a "house of several gables," (not Hawthorne's) and I opine it matters little to the public; but being a votary of "fair play," I feel constrained to notice one or two parts of his "lecture," especially as it seems to have been delivered for my benefit (!)

I. The architects are not green Dutch, but gentlemen of ability, as any one who appreciates the beauty of symmetry, and has seen the Palace, can attest. Even St. Nick, in all his fiery wrath, allows it to be "passable"—a "lucky hit."

II. Messrs. Carstensen & Gildemeister, the architects, are not responsible for the size of the edifice, and consequently cannot be blamed. They were employed to build a Palace of given dimensions; they have erected one surpassing in every way that of Hyde Park, except in size; and I must repeat, the smallest of jewels are sometimes the most precious. St. Nicholas is at least two feet taller than myself, and weighs twenty pounds more! although the sobriquet of "Fitz Von Splutter" may be applied to the gentleman who devised the plan, they merit the highest praise for their success.

III. The blunder which has rendered the progress of the building somewhat dilatory was not perpetrated by the architects, but through the mismanagement of those who contracted to cast the iron supporters. These supporters were not three feet too short as Mr. Nicholas had them, but three inches. From this the reader may judge how much the learned pundit exaggerates.

IV. The Palace in Resevoir Square is not a "receptacle for quack medicines," is not a humbug. The nations of Europe are sending by each steamer packages of costly goods, and the one U. S. Bonded warehouse is fast filling its walls with them.

If these facts do not prove in a friendly way that St. Nicholas is prejudiced, then it is out of my power to do so.

Very respectfully yours,
METROPOLITAN.

HIGH SCHOOL.

Messrs. Editors:—Several places have been named for the new high school house for girls, in this city. Will you permit me to name, not only a place, but a building, viz. the Hanover Street Chapel, which is centrally located, on a large lot surrounded with shrubbery, and is high studded, spacious and pleasant. There are two schools kept in the building now, one private and the other public; the principal hall is exactly what is wanted for a high school; and there is little doubt it could be purchased by the city at a fair price. This place and building are worthy of consideration, while the subject is before the city government and people. D.

COURTS IN ROCKINGHAM COUNTY.—Probate Court in this city, Tuesday, May 10; in Exeter, Wednesday, May 11. Adjourned session of the Court of Common Pleas, in Exeter, Monday, May 16—for the trial of "the flowage cases."

☞ We learn that Mr. Wm. Hammond of Eliot has been appointed Clerk of the Yard, and Mr. Chas. G. Bellamy of Kittery, Inspector & Measurer of timber, at the Navy Yard in this harbor, vice Messrs. John P. Simes and Samuel Shackford, removed.

Also, that Daniel Frisbee, Esq., has been appointed Boarding Officer and Inspector of Customs, at Kittery Point, vice Joseph G. Chambers, resigned.

A correspondent of the New York Express, travelling in Georgia, says he is surprised to find that a large portion of the slaves, variously estimated by well informed persons, at one-third to one-half of the adult slaves, can read. He adds "almost invariably they look as if they were well cared for, so far as their physical wants are concerned. There is a large number of them professing Christians, and many, I doubt not, are truly pious. The most of them are either Methodists or Baptists. They delight in having their own religious meetings, and it is really interesting to see with what ardor they join in the singing, during the service and at its close. I never heard such heartfelt singing in my life, as among these people. And their prayers are oftimes very striking."

We are glad to see these facts brought out in such a connexion:—but they do not in the least surprise us. An intelligent slave-holder from Georgia, formerly resident here, said that the slaves would and did learn to read, (most of them imperfectly,) in spite of all laws and efforts to prevent it. And every one who understands the negro character, knows that negroes in Africa are superstitious, and in Christian countries readily become religious, in the sense expressed in the above extract. Venerian, devotion, marvellousness, time and tune, possessed by them, show them to be men, and fit them in proper circumstances to be devotional worshipping Christians.

REV. MR. STOWE.—The Boston Courier says, "Mrs. H. B. Stowe's tea-drinkings in Liverpool furnish a little gossip for the newspapers of that place. Her husband is telling some monstrous fibs there. He made a speech in which he assured the Liverpoolers that nine-tenths of the people of the United States are Abolitionists. He forgot that this would leave only negroes on the other side."

Mr. Stowe's reputation, up to the time when his wife wrote a popular book, stood "A Number One," as a man, a scholar and a minister. It is quite probable that he has, all at once, gratuitously, descended from this high position, to become the retailer of uncalled for falsehoods? Is it not more probable that the "gossip of the newspapers" reports him as saying what he did not say, or omits something that he did say, which would change the meaning?

We are no sponsor for Mr. Stowe's acts or words—but we have read enough from his pen to know that he is not a fool; which he must be, to make such an unqualified statement as is quoted above.

A DOG STORY.—A market-man who daily comes to this city from his residence in Cambridge, followed by a pet dog of diminutive size, relates a true dog story as follows:—Besides his little pet, he owns a noble Newfoundland dog who usually remains at home during the absence of his owner at market. It happened that frequently, while the small dog was following his master's wagon through East Cambridge, a large quarrelsome dog attacked the pet and worried him exceedingly. One day last week, soon after starting for market, the man observed that both his dogs were following him. Preferring that the Newfoundland dog should remain at home, he drove him back; but the dog was determined to follow, although he was a second time started home. On reaching the neighborhood of the quarrelsome dog, the attack upon the little dog was repeated; but instead of running from the enemy as he hitherto had done, the little pet maintained his ground. His Newfoundland companion promptly came to the rescue, attacked the quarrelsome dog, gave him a sound thrashing and sent him skulking off. The wrongs of the little dog having been redressed, his companion quietly trotted back to his master's house, and the pet has from that time to the present daily followed his master to market without molestation. The larger dog has since made no attempt to leave his home.—Boston Journal.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

Washington, April 30.—Dr. John C. Calhoun, son of the deceased statesman, has been appointed Secretary of Legation to England.

Capt. Ringold, the commander of the North Pacific exploring expedition, has received his instructions, and will sail from Norfolk in a few days. The squadron will consist of the sloop-of-war Vincennes, brig Porpoise, and propeller John Hancock.

THE MONK LEAHEY.—In Portage city, Wisconsin, the trial of Edward Leahey, (better known as the Monk of La Trappe) for the murder, by shooting, of Bernard Manley, has just closed. Francis Whiting testified that he saw the prisoner fire three shots, one at the deceased, which caused his death, and two at Abram Morton. Leahey stated to the witness that the murder was just, and that the Lord told him to do it. Manley was shot by Leahey for alleged adultery with the wife of the latter. The jury found him guilty of murder, and he was sentenced to the States Prison for life.

THE INDEPENDENCE.—A correspondent of the Olive Branch, who is well acquainted with subject upon which he writes, says of this miserable craft:—

The Independence was an old river boat, never fit for a sea vessel, and was sent out some years since to San Francisco to run on the Sacramento river. Being too slow for this trade, Vanderbilt chartered her for a passenger boat for his line—or for a coffin, he didn't care which. We have seen plenty of returned Californians who can testify that it required all her pumps with constant bailing by the passengers, for two years past, to keep her from sinking on her voyages; and it can be shown that for the past year the master of her, Lucas, has kept her close in shore all the way up and down, so that he might easily beach her, in case he could not "keep her free."

The Olive Branch calls for an overhauling of the whole concern, that the world may know, and, if possible, the laws may punish the heartless villains who hold human life so cheap in comparison with freight and passage money.

The sheriff of Kent county, Canada, recently arrested a man accused of having stolen $2000 from a colored woman in Chatham.—They found $1800 of the money secreted about his person. He was taken across the river, and delivered to her majesty's officers. This man formerly owned the woman whom he robbed, and had sold her on two occasions, while living at the south. She finally obtained her freedom and moved to Illinois, where she purchased a small farm, and where he, having become poor, lived with her as her husband. To get rid of him, she sold her farm at a large advance on its cost, and removed to Chatham, where he again overtook her, and after living with her a short time she was taken ill, when he robbed her of her money found on him when arrested.

FATAL MISTAKE.—We learn from the Lowell Courier that Mr. Robert Gardiner, of Lowell, called at the drug store of Mr. Hale, on Wednesday evening, for some pulverised rhubarb, and Mr. Hale not being in at the time, what he supposed was rhubarb was put up by the boy in attendance. Mr. Gardiner took the medicine just before going to bed, and about 11 o'clock he was found to be in great distress, and he died in a short time.—From the boy it was learned that Mr. Gardiner had taken 40 grains of pulverised opium instead of rhubarb—the boy understanding him to call for opium.

Extract from a letter dated April 24, from Milwaukie:—

There has been an opera performance here since I last wrote to you, by the Germans. It has been repeated once and is to be again. I imagine you don't have such things in Portsmouth. Have you any approach to it? I send you the programme—oh, the Czaar sings splendidly. I efy you to find any body to equal him in Portsmouth. I can play some of the gems of the opera, and when I see you, you shall hear them—the choruses are very fine. Ole Bull gives two concerts here this week, assisted by Strakosch and Patti; the two last were here some years ago with Parodi. You may think our western home is a sort of "out of the way" place—but would the above stars visit Portsmouth? If they did I doubt if you would have a hall large enough for them to sing in. Then which is the most "out of the way" place, Portsmouth or Milwaukie?

A SLUTTISH FASHION.—The Boston Journal says, the dresses of nine tenths of the ladies who promenade our streets, or call at our fashionable shops, sweep the flag stones of the walks and the crossings at every step. Elegant silks, costly brocades, beautiful dress patterns of every shade and hue, are kicked along the side walks by pretty feet, or are dragged after them as useless and unpleasing appendages. Unnecessarily long as ladies dresses were during the past season, an extra tuck seems to have been let out this spring. Any one walking up Washington street on a pleasant afternoon, will meet crowds of fashionably dressed women with the extra ornament of a couple of inches of dust and dirt around the bottom of their dresses. Four flounces of silk, and one of street dust and ashes, may be fashionable, but the latter is anything but ornamental or in accordance with good taste.

MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence,

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of this knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,

PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.

[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]

First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be ignorant.

☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding,) "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (mailed free) to any part of the United States. FIRST FRUITS OF RAILWAY CONSOLIDATION—On and after the 1st of May the railroad fare from Albany to Buffalo will be $6. This will be followed, as soon as the double track is completed, if not sooner, by a reduction to $5. Only three years ago the railroad fare to Buffalo was $12. Formerly, by stage, it was $20, and occupied from three to eight days, according to the state of the roads.—Albany Journal.

The above facts are valuable: but the reason given for them is absurd. Low railway fares are the effect, generally, of some sort of competition;—but never that we know, of consolidation merely, or chiefly. We believe the Albany and Buffalo road to be no exception to the rule. Other railroads leading to the lakes, probably have much more to do with the reduction of fare, than the consolidation of the several roads between Albany and Buffalo under one corporation for management.

DARING FEAT.—At the Railroad station in this town, one day last week, a man wishing to go to Newmarket on a special train which was passing through without stopping, jumped from the platform on to one of the cars when they were going at the rate of twenty miles an hour! He succeeded in retaining his hold and escaped unhurt.—Dover Enquirer.

We consider the above a very foolish, as well as daring feat. In attempting to jump upon the cars passing at such a rate in nine cases out of ten one would be instantly dashed in pieces.—Gt. Falls Journal.

A humorous correspondent of the N. York Independent says that it is proposed to organize a Preacher's Protective Union, to publish a list of all "ratting" churches, and to establish a relief fund for preachers, "out on a strike." A grand demonstration will be made, after the anniversary of the Home Mission Society, that monster monopoly that gives its pittance to better men than its directors, and calls it benevolence.

THE MADIAI.

FLORENCE, March 28th, 1853.

The Madiai Case is evidently very imperfectly understood abroad; hence much of the controversy, contradiction and heat it appears to have excited. As usual in such circumstances, all parties to the worldwide debate have been led into mistakes and wrong conclusions; and the brief letter of the Protestant Prime Minister of England, which endorses the current statement that they were punished for simply "reading the Scriptures," is as partial and unfair, as Archbishop Hughes' inferences from the opposite story, that they were convicted of gross and indecent public libels upon the religion of the State.

Since whole communities and powerful Empires have been moved on the subject, it has seemed to us, who are near and impartial observers, important that its history should be fairly laid before the world, in order that public opinion, happily becoming the ruling law, superior to principalities and powers, may be properly enlightened, so that no injustice be done. Some capable hand will, it is hoped, ere long do this service.

Meantime, I venture to sketch for your information a brief outline, drawn from some observation and inquiry, that may help you to a sound conclusion. And as the case cannot be well understood without some knowledge of the personal history and circumstances of the humble individuals who have thus become so remarkably conspicuous, it seems expedient to refer first to their otherwise unimportant career.

The man Madiai came to this city early in life, from one of the hilly districts of the country, where his father and brothers lived as farmers, and soon entered into domestic service. After serving in several patrician families, he was constrained to become a travelling courier, and visited many parts of Europe in the service of foreigners. Thus he became acquainted with England and America.

The woman is by birth a Roman and be coming connected with a respectable family as governess, visited Germany, Belgium and England, and lived in London some 20 years. Returning to Italy after this long absence, she met Madiai at Florence, and having made his acquaintance on the other side of the Alps, became his wife. She being in infirm health, they deemed it expedient to change their pursuits in life, and blending their savings, took a house in this city and furnished the apartments for hire to English and foreign visitors and were thus obliged to employ numerous servants.

You will naturally infer that many of those who from time to time occupied their lodgings, were Protestant in religion, and constitutionalists in politics, and that their establishment thus excited the attention of a watchful police. It was, moreover, known that they were decided Protestants, and some appearances indicated that they were in the habit of urging their views upon the servants of the establishments, and holding religious meetings in the house. They were finally arrested and brought to trial for a breach of the laws on the following general charges.

1. Teaching Protestant doctrines to individuals separately.
2. Diffusing heterodox books and pictures.
3. Holding meetings for the inculcation of their sentiments, and the reading of libellous books.

The witnesses, mostly male and female domestics who had been employed in the house, concur in giving them credit for sincere piety; and the testimony abundantly shows that they were habitually kind, charitable, and unostentatious in their habits. It further appeared on the trial that they sometimes aided those of the Catholic faith who sought their ministrations, without an intimation of any difference of opinion; and some cases were revealed in which they even called upon priests to afford the offices of the church to sufferers who had faith in them.

On the other hand, it was proved that the boarders in their house occasionally left Protestant tracts and prints in their apartments, when they departed, which the Madiai did not remove or conceal—that those of the domestics who were Protestants did sometimes join them in divine worship in private, and listen to their instructions, and that on a few occasions they were led into controversial conversation with some of those who visited the house. On one of these occasions being asked his views on the points in controversy, Madiai remarked that the Scriptures did not authorize prayer to the Virgin or to the Saints—that there were too many priests and churches, and too little personal piety; and on another occasion was heard to say that the oil for the Madonna could be more wisely consumed.

But there was no evidence whatever of any open or out-door attempt to propagate their sentiments, nor did any witness pretend that they were guilty of any effort to enforce them in an unlawful spirit. The prosecution failed, in fact, to show the existence of any malicious intent against the Church; nor were the little social prayer meetings in their house frequented by the children of Catholic families, as has been stated. On the contrary, the testimony generally left the impression on impartial minds here, that they were remarkably careful not to do any violence to the laws, or to shock the faith of others. It is sufficient to add, in relation to the second charge, that there was no evidence to show that they circulated books beyond the domestic circle around them, and that they were not therefore guilty of the "diffusion of heterodox" publications.

But it is unnecessary to pursue the subject. Enough has been said to show they became exposed to prosecution, and that there was some ground for holding them amenable for opposition to the laws intended to protect the religion of the State. It would be idle to argue the case to American readers.

Yours, &c.

Dr. Root says, the influence of costume on mortality, is strikingly shown in one of the official reports of the Registrar-General. Thus, from 1 to 5 years there is an equality of deaths by scalds and burns among boys and girls; but from 5 to 10 double the number of girls to that of boys die from these causes; while from 10 to 20 there die 102 women and only 27 men, and from 20 and upwards, 71 women and 22 men; showing the influence of muslin and flounce in producing death, notwithstanding the greater caution of the female sex.

No doubt it shows this—but there is another reason, besides loose cotton clothing, why more women than men get burnt and scalded, viz: because women do more cooking over the fire, and use rather more hot water than the other sex.

PORTSMOUTH:
TUESDAY, MAY 3, 1853.

THE LATE TERRIBLE RAILROAD ACCIDENT AT CHICAGO.

The mail accounts of this disaster are just received, and are quite as horrible as the first accounts by telegraph. The accident took place abou half past 9 o'clock on the evening of the 25th April.

An express train which had left Chicago, at nine o'clock, on the Southern Michigan Railroad, came in collision, at the crossing, about 8 miles out, with an emigrant and freight train coming into Chicago on the Michigan Central Railroad. The locomotive of the express train struck the sixth car filled with passengers, and in a moment the locomotive, tender, baggage car, and one second class car of the express, together with three emigrant cars of the Michigan Central train, were a heap of ruins.

A we mentioned before, sixteen passengers were killed.

The night was as bright as a nearly full moon end the clearest atmosphere could make it. The two roads cross each other at nearly right angles, and run for a long distance on a straight line. It seems as if it was impossible for both engineers not to have seen each other's trains for the distance of at least half a mile if not a mile before reaching the crossing.

A coroner's jury has set on the 16 bodies.

The conductor of the Southern train and the engineer of the central train both gave evidence before the jury, declaring that each saw the other train, and gave orders to sound whistle, shut down brakes, &c.

Passengers testified that they heard no whistle, and noticed no brakes; but the first notice they had was the collision.

The two conductors, two engineers, and one fireman, have been committed to jail, to await the jury's decision.

There is great rivalry between the two roads, and the Michigan Central, in railroad parlance, "claims the track;" and is has been the wont of both roads, upon hearing the approach of the rival trains, to crack on speed and pass the crossing first. Whether this accident was the result of such recklessness (says the Cleveland Herald) we do not know; but we do know, that just such an accident as has happened was predicted months ago.

BOSTON BUSINESS CARDS.—A new array of these, furnished by V. B. Palmer, occupy a good space in our columns to-day. Most of them are cards of wholesale dealers and manufacturers; but a few retailers.

Church Organs, Confectionery and Crockery Ware; Carpets and Rugs, Snuff and Tobacco; Machinery, new and old, are briefly enumerated — Shaving Soaps and Russia Salve, Sawing Machines and Water Wheels, Stencil Plates and Lightning Rods, are commended to the attention of those who wish to use such articles.

JOHN C. CALHOUN.—Prominent as Calhoun was during the greater part of the last two generations before the country, and familiar as his views upon most political questions are to the American people, it is singular how little is known of his inner life; of his views upon the various problems of humanity; of religion, of art, and of man's social relations and dependencies. Upon all these subjects he is said to have conversed freely with his intimate friends, and to have displayed far more interest in such discussions than he seemed to feel in the current strifes of politics by which he is principally known. When Mr. Cralle's biography appears, of which, however, we regret to say there is no prospect for five or six years, it will probably reveal aspects of Mr. Calhoun's mind with which few of his countrymen were acquainted. —N. Y. Post.

Five or six years! What a bore of a book such a biography must be, if it takes five or six years to get it up. If a man has a religious character, and his friend acts the biographer, he can sketch it better while his remembrances are fresh. But in five or six years, as the world goes now, many items of a man's history are forgotten, and the world has much ado to recollect the man himself. Mr. Calhoun was a great man, politically; and if he had religious and moral greatness also, and has left evidences thereof in his writings or among his friends, the world ought to know it—but after five or six years, most readers will neither know nor care much about the matter: the book must have a very limited sale, and go only into the hands of the few who have leisure to read almost every thing.

GAS IN SACO.—There seems to be a good deal of talk, just at this time, in Biddeford and Soco, about Gas. A Gas Company about organizing, are holding repeated meetings, and (says the Biddeford Journal) there seems to be such a rush for the Stock—that instead of going a-begging for stockholders, the trouble seems to be that the some Stock is claimed by different subscribers.

A WHOLE FAMILY POISONED. — The Woonsocket (R. I.) Patriot says that a French family in that village came very near being all poisoned to death on Monday last. A daughter residing in Massachusetts, who had come home on a visit, prepared the supper, her mother being unwell. In looking for cream of tartar to make bread, she found what proved to be a paper of arsenic, which had been carelessly left in the pantry. With this deadly ingredient, she mixed the bread of which the whole family of eight persons partook at supper. Soon after, they were all attacked with the peculiar distresses attendant upon this active poison. By the aid of powerful antidotes they were all saved. The arsenic was procured to destroy rats, and was very imprudently deposited in the pantry.

NOT BAD TO TAKE.—We last week published the extract from Jenny Goldschmidt's letter, which is going the rounds of the papers. Our readers will recollect the last clause in her closing sentence, when speaking of Otto, she says, he "bears a calm, still courage in all vicissitudes." A correspondent of the New York Spirit of the Times comments thus:

"That strikes me as werry racy. If kind Heaven would see fit to put me through an entire course of such vicissitudes, indeed I would try to bear up under them with Christian resignation. Any good-looking young woman, with half a million, who wants to have constantly before her eyes a young man that is anxious for vicissitudes, behold him here. Meekness, patience, and long suffering, would be done up in a style rarely seen in this or any other country."

A HUNTER OF KENTUCKY.—A correspondent of the Evansville Journal writes as follows about a Kentucky hunter:

"Wat Eckman—it would do you good to see him—has followed hunting for a livelihood since the year 1831. Since that period he says he has killed 38 bears, 984 wolves, 3,847 coons, 990 foxes, 701 wild geese, 2,040 pheasants, 44 ground hogs, 80 wild cats, 14 pole cats, 209 minks, besides squirrel, quail, and other small game beyond his power to calculate. The sum he has realized from his game, skins, &c., falls but little short of twelve thousand dollars.

HOME MADE SCRIPTURE.—"Cleanliness is remarked by St. Paul to be next to godliness, and we feel quite certain that a dirty individual cannot be remarkably pious."—N. H. Gazette.

We are willing to endorse the above sentiment in the main—but will our neighbor be kind enough to point out in which of Paul's epistles the "remark" is to be found—to just give us the "chapter and verse."

☞ A seizure of liquor was made at the steamer Atlantic, at Portland from Boston, Friday, of a large trunk containing four demijohns, a large valise with a keg in it, and two other kegs and two demijohns, all filled.

☞ The Lynn Bay State newspaper states that a lady in Saugus was recently severely injured by the explosion of a lamp containing Marsh's patent oil; and asks, "When will the people learn that these various burning materials, of whatever name, are essentially the same in their composition—and that the only safe way to use them is to throw them into the street and break the lamps?"

☞ Two very extensive Ropewalks were fired almost simultaneously by unknown incendiaries, in Baltimore on Sunday, and utterly destroyed. A large amount of hemp, valuable machinery, &c., were burnt.

APPOINTMENTS.—Frederick A. Beelen has been appointed Secretary of Legation to Central America. Col. Polk of Maryland has received the appointment of Bituminous Coal Agent of the Navy Department.

FOR AUSTRALIA.—The bark Nimrod sailed from New York for Australia on Monday, with over 200 passengers, two-thirds Canadians, the remainder from the Northern and Western States.

SECTARIAN TROUBLES AT CINCINNATI.—Hon D. T. Snellbaker, the newly elected Mayor of Cincinnati, under the plea of preventing a riot, last Sunday dispersed a large crowd who had assembled in one of the market houses to hear the discourse of Rev. Mr. Kirtland, a seceding Roman Catholic. This proceeding, of course, greatly incensed the anti-Catholic portion of the population, without distinction of party, and the consequence was, that, after discussing the matter in private circles for three days, an indignation meeting was held on Wednesday evening at which a committee, consisting of a hundred of the most prominent citizens, was appointed to wait upon the Mayor and request him to resign. Mr. Snellbaker was the regular nominee of the democratic party, but he owed his election to the mayoralty mainly to the fact that the opponents of the Catholics upon the school question run three different candidates.

From Munich we learn that Professor Liebig was giving a lecture on chemistry at the palace, before Queen Maria, Queen Theresa, King Louis, and the royal family, when a bottle of oxygen gas flew into a thousand pieces. Queen Theresa was cut in the cheek. Prince Luitpold was wounded in the forehead, Countess Sandizell in the head. The professor was slightly injured.

The winter has been one of the most severe ever known in Persia. The Schah had been on a hunting expedition to Hirsa, and several of his suite died from cold.

LOCAL.

MR. KINGSBURY'S CONCERT.

There was a fair attendance at the Cameneum on Sunday evening, three or four hundred persons being present—but not so many as we had hoped,or the entertainment merited. The entire programme was executed to the gratification of the audience, and the credit of the performers, one and all. The choruses were given with good effect — the old favorite, "Strike the cymbal," with its half dozen solos and duets, was a rich treat; "The daughters of Israel" and "The multitude of angels" could hardly be improved upon by a like number. The tenor songs were the best we've heard for a long time. The trebles were the best we have among us. The bass spoke for itself. Mr. Moses' favorite, "If I were a voice," was given with fine effect. Such distinct enunciation of words and true expression of sentiment is rarely heard. But in an entertainment so meritorious and pleasing as a whole, we can't particularize.

The playing on two pianos at once was a striking and pleasing exhibition, and added greatly to the effect. The exact time kept in this performance, and throughout the entire concert, shew both the players to be possessed of the first requisite in music, in an eminent degree.

On the whole, the concert was one of the most pleasing we've had for a long time, reflecting much credit on Messrs. Kingsbury and Moses, and the friends who aided them. We should relish such an one as often as once a month—though we imagine more encouragement would be requisite to induce the frequent giving of such entertainments.

CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.

The New England Christian Convention will hold its Annual Meeting at the Pleasant Street Church, on Wednesday, the 17th day of May, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

The New England Home & Foreign Christian Missionary Society will hold its annual meeting in connection with the Convention, at the same time and place.

It is expected that fifty ministers, at least, will be present; and that the meetings above mentioned, with other services in connexion, will continue two or three days.

"TRIUMPH OF ART OVER NATURE."—We saw last week, a beautiful specimen of Dr. E. S. Ryder's handiwork,—a complete set of upper artificial teeth, to be worn without clasps or springs of any sort, being constructed on the atmosphric-pressure principle. The plate-work was finished to perfection,and we should judge the fourteen teeth must have a very natural appearance when in their place—but as they are for a lady's use, of course we had no practical test of that. We earnestly advise all, especially the young, to "have a care" of their teeth, which will decay fast enough in spite of all attention—but when they've "done what they can," and their dental structures are still "out o' kilter," nobody can more improve the personal appearance, comfort and health, than a skilful and judicious dentist. We cannot deem the universal decay of the teeth, the work of nature, but only the effects of nature's abuse—but so complete a substitute for the natural grinders, is certainly a great triumph of art.

PANORAMA OF PARIS, &C.—The listeners to the fine Sacred Concert on Sunday evening, were confronted by an equestrian Statue, and a beautiful view of the bridge of Paris, which view formed a back ground for the singers.

This is only one of many similar views presented in the Panorama of Rome, Paris, and Switzerland, now on exhibition in the Cameneum, for this week only. See advertisement.

☞ The highly interesting exercises of the Rockingham Co. Teachers' Institute, held at Newmarket during the past week, were closed on Saturday afternoon. The number of members in attendance was 93. The following named gentlemen constituted the Board of Instruction:—

A. H. Hoyt, Commissioner.
Prof. Dana P. Colburn,
" George N. Bigelow,
Calvin Cutter, M. D.,
S. D. Bassett,
Charles Northend, Esq.

An account of the proceedings of the Institute will be given hereafter.

THE CHINESE IN CALIFORNIA.—A report recently made to the California Legislature, furnishes some very interesting statistical information regarding the Chinese, made up of the testimony of several Chinese merchants of San Francisco. There are now in California about twenty-two thousand Chinamen. The capital invested and owned by the Chinese in the State, is one million of dollars. The Cooley system has almost wholly ceased. It is further stated that the trade with China rapidly declined from last spring, when the excitement against the Celestials was fanned into a flame by the manifesto of Governor Bigler—that the emigration was checked by the same cause—but that both are now reviving.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

WASHINGTON, May 1. The following appointments have been fully determined on, and will be made to-morrow:—Gov. Seymour, of Connecticut, Minister to Russia; Gen. Gadsden of South Carolina, Minister to Mexico; Gen. Dix Minister to France.

The article in the Union on Friday, on General Lane's movement in New Mexico, did not express the views of the government on that matter. The President is so far dissatisfied with Governor Lane's coup d'etat that he has determined to supersede him immediately.

THE NEW MEXICO TROUBLE.—The Washington Union of this (Sunday) morning denies that its recent article defends or justifies Gov. Lane in the New Mexican difficulties, and adds that nothing but a very stringent necessity can justify the Governor's interference in a difficulty.

INSANE HOSPITAL BURNT.

The Hospital for the Insane, owned by Drs. Cutter and Howe, Pepperell, Mass., consisting of two large three-story houses, was entirely consumed on Sunday afternoon about four o'clock. The fire was first discovered on the roof of one of the buildings, which communicated to the other building, and both were soon destroyed. The wind was blowing a gale at the time, causing the flames to spread with great rapidity. There were about thirty insane persons living at the establishment, all of whom were saved. The dwelling house of Rev. Mr. Perry, occupied as a boarding school for boys, was also consumed, together with the school house in the immediate vicinity.—The loss cannot be far from $25,000, on which the insurance is but slight.

The town of Pepperell does not possess a fire engine. There were two, however, present from Groton, and one from Brookline, N. H. Most of the patients in the Hospital were on the third story, and were removed with difficulty from the windows. The establishments destroyed were the most beautiful in town, being ornamented with trees and shrubbery, which the present generation cannot see replaced.

STEAMER BURNT.—A terrible steamboat accident is mentioned in an Ogdensburg despatch. Steamer Ocean Wave burnt Saturday morning, near the Ducks, fifty miles above Kingston, Canada West. In two hours after the fire was discovered, the hull went down. Those who were saved were taken off the wreck by the schooner Georgiana, including most of the crew. A small schooner sent a boat to the assistance of the steamer before the Georgiana hove in sight, but her crew became frightened and pulled back again, leaving the persons on board the burning steamer to their fate. The Georgiana succeeded in rescuing 18 persons,—two minutes after which the steamer went down.—Whole number lost 28. The Ocean Wave was owned by the Northern Railroad Company, and insured principally in the United States.

FOUR DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE BALTIC.

The Baltic arrived at New York, May 1st, from Liverpool April 20th. She brings 92 passengers.

ENGLAND.—The principal news received is that the Chancellor of the Exchequer's financial statement proposes to continue the income tax, on a diminishing scale, for seven years, and extend to Ireland all incomes over £100. Also, to reduce advertisement stamps, and some other duties; substitutes five per cent. ad valorem duties; reduces the tea duty within the next four years to 1s per lb., and immediately to 1s. 10 1-4d., all of which would supply a surplus of half a million sterling.—Public opinion is divided respecting the statement—some approve of the scheme, and others think it will overthrow the Ministry.

Two thousand persons were present at the soiree in honor of Mrs. H. B. Stowe's arrival. Dr. McDowal of Glasgow presided. The lady was received with the most enthusiastic demonstrations of respect. On the second evening Mrs. Stowe attended a soiree of the Glasgow working classes. On the next morning she proceeded to Endinboro', and hence would journey to London.

A motion in the House of Lords to inquire into the system of education in the Maynooth College, Ireland, was negatived by 110 against 53.

FRANCE.—There will be no fete at Paris on the 5th of May.

The Emperor wants to remove Napoleon 1st's remains from the Hotel d'Invalids to St. Denis.

Returns of the Revenue show an augmentation on the quarter.

The Emperor has given the Archbishop of Tours a Cardinal's hat.

The Imperial service of China, designed for the New York exhibition, is on private view, and is very gorgeous.

The Paris Presse says that the country is strong financially. Trade in Paris is moderately active.

SPAIN—It transpires that the Cortes were dissolved to quash Gov. Concha's exposures of the Caban slave trade. The rumored conspiracies are unfounded.

The Dutch government has protested against the establishment of the Catholic hierarchy in Holland, and has withdrawn its Minister from Rome.

BRYANT'S MINSTRELS.—There's always plenty of sport when Jerry Bryant is round. He has got a talented company with him, too—they make good music—we never witnessed better dancing—their jokes are mostly new; and altogether they've given a couple of the best ethiopian entertainments we've had here for a long time. The Minstrels perform in Portland to-night—of course to a full house.

REMARKABLE IMPRISONMENT.

The New York Tribune gives an account of the imprisonment, at a disreputable house in that city, of a respectable (?) middle aged man, who has been missed for some weeks, and was supposed to be drowned:—

He dined one evening at the house of a friend, started for his hotel at about midnight, and was not seen nor heard from for more than two weeks, greatly to the surprise and anxiety of his friends here and at home. Diligent search was constantly rewarded by disappointment, and the parties had about concluded that the man was drowned, when the gentleman with whom he dined, received a note stating that the missing man was a close prisoner in a house of ill fame, in Duane street, we believe. A captain of the police was informed of the fact, and in company with the friend called at the house. They asked to see the prisoner. They were denied admittance, but on being assured that the door would be broken down unless opened, the inmates reluctantly yielded. After some search, they found the missing man in an upper room, under the surveilance of a double-fisted ruffian, and in a state of mind that would have been a study for a physician.

He had been lured into the house by a young female, and patronized the wine cupboard of his new landlady rather freely, treated liberally to Newark cider, and for the remainder of the night he was the head and front of the revel, of course getting abundantly drunk. When the reckoning came, he found his bill to be $150 or more, and he had not a tithe of the money. He was then forbidden to leave the house until the bill was paid, and was put under charge of the Cerberus above described. The keeper of the house reckoned upon his writing to the country for some money, when, to avoid exposure, he would pay the bill, and leave as quietly as possible. Instead of that, however, he wrote to his friend, and that gentleman being better acquainted with the mode of dealing with the vampires, called in an officer, paid the bill, liberated the prisoner, and arrested the mistress of the mansion and some of her confederates.

THE BABY.

"Baby-carts on narrow sidewalks are awful bores, especially to a hurried business man." Are they? Suppose you, and a certain pair of grey eyes, that you would give half your patrimony to win, were joint proprietors of that baby! I shouldn't dare to stand very near you, and call it "a nuisance." It's all very well for bachelors to turn up their single blessed noses at these little dimpled Cupids; but just wait till their time comes! See 'em, the minute their name is written "Papa," pull up their dickies and strut off down street, as if the Commonwealth owed them a pension! When partner (to whom babies have long since ceased to be a novelty) laughs in his sleeves at the new-fledged dignity with which that baby's advent is announced! How perfectly astonished they feel that they should have been so infatuated as not to perceive that a man is a perfect cypher till he is at the head of a family! How frequently one may see them now, looking in at the shop windows, with intense interest, at little hats, coral and bells, and baby-jumpers. How they love to come home to dinner, and press that little velvet cheek to their business faces!—Was there ever any music half so sweet to their ear, as it first lisped "Papa?" Oh, how closely and imperceptibly, one by one, that little plant winds its tendrils round the parent stem! How anxiously they hang over its cradle when the cheek flushes and the lip is fever-parched; and how wide, and deep, and long a shadow in their happy homes, its little grave would cast!

My dear sir, depend upon it, one's own baby is never "a nuisance." Love heralds its birth!

FANNY FERN.

CHILDISH SIMPLICITY.

Some more "things" about the "little folks," which we always hear and record with pleasure: "A little girl, by name Abby B—— went recently to pass the night with Kate C——. Now Abby was taught what Kate was not, namely, to say her prayers on going to bed at night; so after they retired, Abby repeated the Lord's prayer, until she came to 'Give us this day our daily bread,' when Kate interrupted her with, 'Oh Abby, why don't you ask for toast? I like toast a great deal the best!'"

"In reading," writes another correspondent, "with charmed eagerness, Mr. Shelton's true history of the 'Rector of St. Bardolph's,' I met with a sentence which reminded me of one of those strange and striking utterances of childhood which form so vraisemblable a feature of the Knickerbocker gossip. Quoting a wise saw he remarks: 'What a capital old proverb is that! I wish that I had made it!' My little girl, of something under five years, while gazing a few mornings since at the fiery disc of the rising sun, suddenly exclaimed, 'Mamma, I wish God had'nt made the sun!' 'Why, my dear?' 'Oh! it's so beautiful, I wish I had made it myself!'

And thus a third contributor, in a letter to the editor—'Bobby,' a three years old little fellow, sitting at the table the other day, some one remarked to him, 'Bobby, you'll be a man before your mother, yet.' Bobby's eyes expanded, but he nibbled away at his pie, and said nothing. The pie and his reverie coming to an end together, Bobby thus transfixed his interrogator, 'Womans don't be mans, be they?' Who can tell what throes preceded the delivery of this profound inquiry? And who in this day of Bloomerism and 'woman's rights' could conscientiously reply with 'No?'"—Knickerbocker.

ACCIDENT.—A horse with a chaise, belonging to Mr. Henry P. Sargent's livery stable, was taken yesterday for a ride to Rocky Hill, Salisbury, and came down State street last evening about 6 o'clock, without any driver, having come at a very rapid pace all the way from the Chain Bridge, and how much farther we have not yet learned. The horse turned very swiftly into Pleasant street, bringing the chaise against and breaking a stone post.—This movement broke the chaise, tripped the horse and threw him down, striking his head upon the curb-stone so heavily that he died instantly. The horse was a fine animal, valued at $150.—Newburyport Herald.

EXTENSIVE FIRE IN THE WOODS.—Quite an extensive fire raged on Sunday in the woods bordering on the towns of Needham, Dedham, Newton and West Roxbury, Mass. It commenced in Needham, early in the morning, and raged throughout the day—taking a north easterly direction. In many instances, farmers moved their furniture, fearing that their dwellings would be consumed by the impetuous flames; but we have not learned that any buildings were burned. The fire traversed a vast region of country, and laid everything waste in its progress. The value of the property destroyed it is impossible to estimate.—Fire engines were present from the surrounding towns, and did good service in the preservation of dwellings and out-houses.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
WEDNESDAY, MAY 4, 1853.

THE GARDINER TRIAL.

This famous trial drags its slow length along, at Washington, and it is quite doubtful whether Gardiner will be convicted, after all. There was a black array of testimony against him—but in the defence it is shown that the government witnesses have confounded Geo. A. Gardiner, the defendant, with John Chas. Gardiner. The latter gentleman testified that he had frequently been mistaken for Geo. A. Gardiner, both in Mexico and Washington; that he, J. C. Gardiner, practiced dentistry in different parts of Mexico, at the same time that it is proved that Geo. A. Gardiner did; that he obtained Geo. A. Gardiner's title deed in Laguinillas in 1851. The testimony goes to prove that the United States witnesses have been mistaken in the identity of the two men, which must help the defendant before the jury.

Quite a sensation was produced by the exhibition of the hotel bill of one of the Mexican witnesses in the Gardiner case, Senor Aguillar. For 18 days board of the Senor at Willard's, the charge was $234—including wines. This is the witness of whom it was proved that he said he had been offered $15,000 to testify for the government, and who afterwards offered to sell himself to Dr. Gardiner for $20,000, and subsequently came down to $8000.

We have no doubt there is great rascality somewhere in the transaction—and that the U. S. have a heavy bill to pay on this trial;—but whether the public will ever get at the right or truth of the matter, is now quite uncertain.

"OLD FOLKS."

The Abingdon Virginian announces the death, within a few days of each other, of William Ely and his wife, of Lee county, Virginia, the former at the age of 105 years, and the latter at 107. They had been married three quarters of a century. Mr. Ely fought valiantly in several important battles of the revolution.

"Since I came of age I have drank, at least, one glass of spirits a day," says Mr. Peebles, who is 100 years old. That is, he has drank ardent spirits for 79 years. Calling it one glass a day—more probably it is two—the old gentleman has drank 28,835 glasses. "His health is good; he possesses all his faculties; and the temperance newspapers which mention him, (says the Boston Post,) leaving out the fact of his drinking, are careful to report that his eyesight is excellent."

We could never see why any paper, temperance or otherwise, need to be afraid of facts, which ought to be the basis of all argument. Some of the oldest men who have died among us for the last forty years, had drank spirits moderately, and some of them quite freely, for a great number of years—for in their early days almost every body drank. Their example, undeniably, is in favor of dram drinking;—and their longevity is an argument, as far as it goes, in favor of the safety, or, if you please, the benefit of the practice. It is true that a portion, perhaps one tenth or one fifth, of those who follow daily dram drinking, live to be old, and always remain sober.

But the other four, or the other nine—what became of them? How many of them were healthy? how many temperate? how many happy? The answers can be supplied from the observation of any old or middle aged man of moderate intelligence: we need not recite them; but every such person knows, that for every one who went through a long life safely, there were a number who fell out by the way.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

The revised liquor law, now before the House of Representatives, has got "into a fix." Two or three days ago, Mr. Wiggin, of Boston, the leader of the repealers, moved to amend the law, by inserting a clause which imposes a fine on such persons as let buildings to be used for tippling shops. This amendment was adopted by a majority of about a dozen, in a thin house.

A reconsideration was moved on Monday, but negatived 111 to 126, nearly the same majority, in a similar thin house. Mr. Lord then introduced a new bill, which he moved as a substitute for the bill of the Committee. This proposition excited a long debate. The new bill was ordered to be printed, and the whole subject of the liquor law was postponed till Tuesday next.

ROMAN CHURCH IN PORTLAND, ME.—A tract of land, about three acres, has been purchased on Munjoy's Hill in Portland, on which it is proposed to erect a splendid Roman Cathedral Church. The price of the lot is $10,000, of which half is cash. The edifice is intended to be not less imposing than any other church in this country.

THE HIPPODROME.

A great Hippodrome is just opening in New York City. And what is a Hippodrome? It is a Greek word, compounded of one which means a horse, and of another which means a course, the latter derived from a third which signifies to run. Made into very plain and rather coarse English, we may call it a horse-race-course.

The new one in New York, is styled Franconi's Hippodrome, and it was opened last Friday evening to the city press and a few friends, by a dress rehearsal.

It is thus described in a letter to the Boston Transcript:

It is located among the free-stone palaces of the 5th avenue, where it meets Broadway, between 23d and 24th streets. The building is a vast amphitheatre, about 250 feet long by 200 feet broad, oval in shape. Its walls are brick, and there is a light roof, covered with tin, running up from the top of the walls, and sheltering seats for some 10,000 spectators.—The centre of the amphitheatre, which is laid out as a flower garden, with fountains and grass plots, is sheltered from the weather by a striped canvass covering, which, supported by tall masts, is stretched down to meet the tin roof. Running around the flower garden, and in front of the ranges of the spectators' seats, is a smooth and hard race-course, some thirty or forty feet wide, and perhaps eight hundred feet long, where, all the summer through, Franconi's beautiful horses will exhibit their fleetness and agility in chariot racing, tournaments and steeple chases; assisted by elephants, ostriches, gladiators, gymnasts and jugglers. The novelty and beauty of the exhibitions of the Hippodrome will, doubtless, cause them to be patronised. The company comprises 140 performers, men and women, 80 blood horses, 10 ostriches, 2 elephants, 5 camels, 4 deer, and any quantity of merry monkeys. Exhibitions are to be given every afternoon and evening after the 2d of May.

REV. MR. STOWE.

We expressed our opinion, pretty confidently, a day or two since, that Mr. Stowe had not made a donkey of himself, by stating in England, that nine tenths of the people in this country are Abolitionists. Now we have a correct report of what he did say, in the London Times of April 18. He said:

"It is my conviction that nine tenths of the people of the United States feel in their hearts, on the subject of slavery, just as you do; but there is such a tremendous power brought to bear against this feeling, that those who are comfortable and wish to live in an easy way, don't want to meddle with the subject at all."

This is wonderfully unlike being nine tenths Abolitionists. Mr. Stowe's statements throughout his brief speech, are equally well guarded.

"YOU KNOW."—Some speakers interland their statements with the phrase "you know," after this fashion: "The Battle of Bunker Hill was fought, you know, on the seventeenth of June." Very often, however, the person addressed knows nothing about the matter, till thus informed,—and sometimes, when the statement happens to be untrue, nobody knows it.

In that lively paper, the American Union, a story begins thus: "At Amherst, N. H. there is a college—perhaps you know there is," &c., &c.

Now perhaps we don't know it—but we do know to the contrary. There is no college there—the one which is probably meant is in Amherst, Massachusetts.

AN EPIDEMIC.—The "strike" has got among the printers in Boston, and makes rather bad work with some of the newspapers, which in the place of their usual variety of news and lively speculations, give us apologies. The printers demanded 32 cents per 1000, instead of 28: the old price, years ago, was 25.

The compositors who work on the morning papers in Boston and New York richly earn $20 per week, and at the price the printers of Boston now ask, it is hard work to make $16. We have had considerable experience in working on papers in both cities, and found the prices paid printers in New York to average $2 per week more than those in Boston, while the expense of living was the same.—The printers of New York have recently had an increase of wages, and the best offices in that city now pay 37 1-2 cents per 1000; at this price a good compositor can earn $18 or $20 per week, and a few hard workers considerable more. We hope the Boston printers will get the wages they ask for. It is worth something to be confined 16 or 18 hours out of the 24 in such dirty, gloomy garrets as most of the city printing offices are.

THE QUEEN'S DREAM.—The New York Herald republishes a satirical drama, which has lately been published in England, entitled, "The Queen's Dream; or Sequel to Uncle Tom's Cabin:"—in which the author exhibits the dark side of every picture of English and Irish life, by sea and land. It contains much food for sober thought, and is worth reading; but is as destitute of beauty or taste, as an alms-house report is of poetry. The author seems to have read Uncle Tom, and the Key; and has modeled his drama after a mixture of the two.

The night express train between Boston and New York, is to be "put through" in seven hours. This is at the rate of forty miles per hour!

LOCAL.

THE HINGHAM SLOOP.

Long, long ago, there used to be a sloop or two come every year, from Hingham, to Portsmouth, with water pails, butter boxes and clothes pins; with tea kettles, dish kettles and dinner pots; and with cast iron fire dogs, great and small. In return for all this, the sloop took back a full freight of old iron, rags and junk. The coming of the Hingham sloop was an era in the history of the kitchen, pot closet and rag bag. Every thing in the hollow ware line was dated from that time, as the good Mussulman dates from the flight of Mahomet, and the American from the Declaration of Independence.

But times have changed, and the Hingham sloop no longer comes to retail tea kettles and water pails. Still there is old iron here, more than ever; and rags multiply; and junk is manufactured, by wind and weather, and the wear and tear of hempen ropes. And now, vessels, schooners, not sloops, come from Hingham or Weymouth, with wooden and iron wares, by wholesale, and take home assorted cargoes—scrap iron in bulk, in the lower hold; of dilapidated stove funnels and collapsed stoves in crates, old nails in casks, and old junk, all the latter on deck.

They take about 60 or 65 tons per trip; and probably visit all the towns on the coast on a similar errand. They are a part of the Yankee working system. The old sheet iron is made into anchors; the scrap iron into nails; the rags and junk into paper.

A GREAT PAINTING.

The following high opinion of the painting now on exhibition among us, is given by a gentleman amply qualified to judge of such matters. We hope our citizens, during the remaining days of this week, will come out in better numbers, and give encouragement to a really meritorious exhibition.

For the Chronicle.

PARIS, SWITZERLAND AND ROME.

Messrs. Editors:—Why is it that so small a portion of our citizens have visited the Panorama now being exhibited at the Cameneum? This is truly a magnificent production—far, very far surpassing in truthfulness, beauty and grandeur, any of the numerous works of the kind yet exhibited in America. There are some effects of storm and sunshine, which I verily believe have never yet been surpassed by the pencil of any artist. I am not speaking of this work in comparison with the oil paintings of the old masters, for it belongs to an entirely different department of the art—and in that department, I repeat with confidence, it is worthy the attention, and when known will receive the patronage, of every one of our citizens who has the slightest pretensions to taste and refinement.

Mr. Hine, the painter of this Diorama, accompanies the unrolling of the painting with an oral description, at once chaste and modest, scholarlike and beautiful—that alone is worth the price of admission. I hope to see a fuller attendance at the remaining exhibitions—and it should be so, if we expect any thing that is excellent brought here for exhibition hereafter.

COURT OATHS.

We have insisted many times, as our readers know, on having a simple "Affirmation, under the pains and penalties of perjury," substituted in place of the cumbrous apparatus of oaths. It seems that one clergyman has expressed a view of the matter similar to ours. The Lowell News of Monday, says:—

Yesterday, the Rev. Mr. Dennis preached from the text "Swear not at all," and in the course of his remarks took occasion to treat pretty closely on the practice of administering oaths in our Courts. He brought out two great facts, which were these—1st, That the bad whom we wished to be influenced by this form take little heed to it, while good men and honest have no need of it, "their word" is "a bond." 2d, Remove the penalty from the crime of perjury and we should very soon see of how little consequence this form is to some men. There is a great deal of truth in those two things.

PAPER MONEY DISTRESS.—There is great distress in the manufacturing suburbs of Vienna, and even the shawl and ribbon manufacturers were almost at a stand-still. The distress is attributed to the paper currency.

The hasty withdrawal of paper money affects trade at Vienna.

The above paragraphs are part of the late foreign news. The second one explains the first: it was not the currency that did the mischief:—but the want of it, after the arbitrary government withdrew it.

IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT.—The Legislature of Delaware passed an act, at its last session, prohibiting any non-resident debtor from being arrested or held to bail in that State, for any debt contracted beyond its limits.—Maryland a year or two ago entirely abolished her old law of imprisonment for debt, and we hope Delaware will soon follow.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Syracuse, May 3.—The night express train which left Albany at half-past 6 o'clock last night, ran into a cattle train going east, near the city. The engineer of the passenger train was badly hurt. The cattle car was smashed and the cattle killed. No one else was injured.

COPPER AND DIAMONDS IN NORTH CAROLINA.—Professor C. U. Shepard, who has just returned from a fortnight's exploration in the counties of Mecklenburg, Union, Cabbarus and Rowan, states that the prospect of an abundant supply of copper ore is afforded by the indications presented in the mines of those counties. The Professor while in Charlotte, was presented with a diamond, by Dr. Levan thorpe, a late graduate of the Medical College. That gentleman had lately discovered it on his estate at Pioneer Mills: it is the second specimen of this precious gem found within the year in this county.

A PROPHECY.—The New York "Pick" prophecies that before five years are over, Napoleon and Eugenie will be in America gaining an honest an independent livelihood by dancing at the Broadway Theatre, or exhibiting at Welch's Circus in the Bowery, their next resort after they abandon the throne, diadem and other fixings."

NEW CHURCHES IN LONDON.—A London paper says that Her Majesty's commissioners have recommended the erection of fifty-eight new churches in the diocesse of London, and that most if not all of them, will be commenced a speedily as circumstances will admit.

BURGLARY IN EXETER, N. H.—The book and fancy goods store of A. W. Lovering, Exeter, N. H., was entered on Saturday night, and robbed of goods and money to the amount of $300. There have been other robberies in the neighborhood recently.

Mr. Wm. B. Titcomb, a trader of Chelsea, was seized with an apoplectic fit in his pew in the Baptist church, on Sunday, and died in a few moments. He was fifty-five years of age, and leaves a family.

Lord Shaftsbury says that he would be virtuous for his own sake, though nobody were to know it; as he would be clean for his own sake, though nobody were to see him.

THE SANDWICH ISLANDS.—Considerable interest is excited in consequence of the appeal which it is stated the King of the Sandwich Islands has made to the United States against the designs of France. The sentiment is universal among the American people that the integrity of the Islands must be maintained. Situated as they are in the great Pacific highway of trade and commerce, it seems vital to the interests of the American people that they shall not come under the dominion of any foreign power. Many believe that the demands of the French government are unjust, and her designs anything but pacific.—The strong ground taken by the leading advocates of the present administration during the last presidential contest, in reference to this very question of the Sandwich Islands, indicates that the government at Washington will not be unmindful of the appeal. We shall look with great interest to further developments touching this important international affair.—Boston Journal.

HORACE GREELEY.—Amherst, N. H., is Mr. Greeley's native town. His father was quite poor, and died, I believe, when Horace was but two or three years of age. Within the past year he has paid a debt which his father contracted, with compound interest. The original debt was less than $100, and the payment between $700 and $800. How many sons, in or out of New Hampshire, would have done this? Or how many will ever forget such honor to a father?—Correspondence of Manchester Mirror.

THE COINAGE.—The total coinage of the United States Mint in Philadelphia, for the month of April, amounted to $5,727,598. In gold $5,805,080. In silver $419,007; and in copper $2,511. The gold deposits for the four months ending with April, amounted to $20,810,372.

THE MCDONOUGH WILL CASE.—This case, in which the city of Baltimore is so deeply interested, is now freed from all suits excepting the one pending before the Supreme Court of the United States on an appeal from the U. S. Circuit Court of Louisiana. This is an action brought by the heirs of McDonough to set aside the Will. The final case before the Supreme Court at Washington will be argued and decided at the next January term.—Baltimore Patriot.

ELDER.—The root, bark, blossoms and berries of this common wild shrub, have always been held in great favor by old ladies who believe in the efficacy of "roots and herbs," as a valuable spring medicine. Almost every person has a practical knowledge of "elderblow tea," and also of the pleasant beverage made from the berries. Dr. Gilbert, yesterday, sent us a bottle of wine made from these berries, which is said to contain all their virtues, and is as pleasant to the taste and as harmless as currant wine; it contains no alcohol. Any one wishing a gentle spring medicine, should try it.

EDITORIAL CHANGE.—The Boston Atlas of Tuesday morning contains the valedictory of Col. William Schouler, who has been connected with it for the last seven years as principal editor. Hon. Chas. Hudson is his successor.

COURTS IN ROCKINGHAM COUNTY.—Probate Court in this city, Tuesday, May 10; in Exeter, Wednesday, May 11. Adjourned session of the Court of Common Pleas, in Exeter, Monday, May 16—for the trial of "the flowage cases."

MARRIAGE,
Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT!

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.
Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.
What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years: And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.
In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly
should have been sold.
It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

Mauriceau, as there are spurious and surreptitious infringements of copy-right.

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

FORGET NOT THE DEAD.

"Still the same, no charm forget,
Nothing lost that time has given."

Forget not the dead, who have loved, who have left us,
Who bend over us now from their bright homes above,
But believe, never doubt, that the God who bereft us,
Permits them to mingle with friends they still love:
Repeat their fond words, and their noble deeds cherish,
Speak pleasantly of them who left us in tears;
From our lips their dear names other joys should not perish,
While time tears our feet through the valley of years.

Dear friends of our youth! can we cease to remember
The last look of life, and the low whispered prayer?
Oh, cold be our hearts as the ice of December,
When Love's tablets record no remembrances there.
Then forget not the dead, who are evermore nigh us,
Still floating sometimes to our dream haunted bed;
In the lonelliest hour, in the crowd they are by us;
Forget not the dead! Oh, forget not the dead!

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

DOCTOR ALFRED G. HALL,

AUTHOR of the New Theory of cure by the NUTRITIVE PROCESS, in Physiology and Medicine, sustaining the laws of life and removing the cause of disease, confirmed as a NATURAL SCIENCE by the Nutritive Process; expelling dead and depositing living matter at the same time in the Body, increasing its weight and strength while under treatment, being the great discovery of the constitutional power resisting decase; ample proof can be given in the person of any invalid.

Dr. H. receives visits, makes examinations, ascertains the cause of disease, describes the precise condition of the patient, furnishes prescriptions, medicines and recipes for his Nutritive Fluids and cordials.

Three months' attention and treatment is requisite in all cases, with printed instructions, for diet and washing, and the use of the Alkaline Circle for the spine and kidneys—a restorative action is produced in all parts of the system immediately by the natural laws sustained by nutrition.

He is the inventor and sole proprietor of 12 nutritive fluids; they can be made by any family—are adapted to the several temperaments, and to every form of disease. His works, "Views of the New Theory, &c.," "Womanhood," and the "Mother's Own Book," are furnished to invalids under his supervision. It is now before Congress.

Doctor Alfred G. Hall may be consulted by letter, or in person at his rooms, No. 15 Winter St., Boston, from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. ☞ Medicines, &c. forwarded by Express to any part.

DOCTOR COX AND THE MORMON PROPHETS.

We copy the following condensed account of the interview between the above persons from a review of "Interviews" in the New York Times. The Doctor is what is popularly called a "brick":

The interview with a brace of Mormon prophets is altogether characteristic. One hot Sabbath, just as services were about to commence, the Doctor was accosted by a couple of individuals, who addressed him as "Brother Cox, a man of God, a friend of truth, a lover of righteousness, and a preacher of the gospel." They wished an opportunity to hold some conversation with him, and were directed to call at his study at the close of the services. At the appointed time they made their appearance and announced themselves as "Latter Day Saints," sent on a special mission to the Doctor to announce to him that he was to be converted and rise to great eminence among the chosen people. The Doctor, very naturally, wanted something in the shape of a miracle as a credential. These they professed to be able to work, and to have worked, but declined repeating the performance just then. The Doctor suggested that at least they might read and construe a verse or two of the Greek Testament. This met with no more favor with the Apostles, who began to mutter something about "an adulterous generation seeking for a sign," and to impress upon him the necessity of faith. Whereupon the dialogue took a somewhat spicy turn. We take the liberty of condensing it somewhat, but preserve the main points. It will be borne in mind that I represents the Doctor, and 2 and 3 his opponents.

"1. I shall not stir another step in this business till I see the evidence on which you rely, as self-vaunted envoys extraordinary, and ministers plenipotentiary from the court of the King of Kings, to sustain your apostolicity and vindicate your claims. Here, then, I take my stand, and call for evidence for proof. How am I to know, gentlemen, that you are not imposters?

3. You had better take care, Sir, what you say. The evidence may come sooner than you desire, and as you do not expect, and what you will not relish, sure enough! I Would warn you to beware!

1. You mean that the evidence may surprise me, coming in the way and style of some divine judgment?

3. Yes, Sir, I do; and I hereby warn you against it.

2. Oh! if it should come now, what would become——

1. Very well, gentlemen, I am ready, and quite content. Send a good rousing judgment along—a little touch of earthquake, some thunder and lightning, cholera morbus, palsy, volcano, avalanche, nightmare, gout, ship fever, neuralgia, or anything else you please; yes, little or much of it gentlemen, and the sooner the better, as I am ready, if you are, and quite disposed to be accommodating.

3. Sir, are you forgetting yourself all the time?

1. Not at all: I am only remembering you. Let us have some of the evidence.—Come! your testimonials, your seals, your signs, gentlemen!

2. Why, I never saw or heard such a man as you!

1. Nor I never read or conceived before of such men or such apostles—exactly, as you are.

2. I fear you are a hardened old——

3. Yes, and blinded, too, with darkness.

1. Why, surely there seems to be considerable darkness in my study—more than common this afternoon; and I wish there were more air, since light seems so scarce and heat so oppressive in it.

3. Sir, to tell you plainly, you are a hardened man and a hypocrite—given up—reprobate.

2. Oh, how dark—dark—dark—you are!

3. Yes, you are a hypocrite, a liar, Sir, and I know—

1. Stay just a moment. Pray, be quite calm. I can refute all that instantly on the authority of two apostles. Instead of liar, hypocrite, reprobate, I am, you remember, "Brother Cox, a man of God, a friend of truth, a lover of righteousness, and a preacher of the gospel." This is a great honor—quite a high and memorable endorsement. It is, at least, the exalted character I had a few hours since. If I have it not yet, but have grown so bad all at once, as you now denounce me, it must be because I have been some time in your company.

2. Sir, I have no respect or care for you.

1. Queer apostles these, to be so mistaken in their inspiration—for once!

3. Yes, sir; hypocrite, hardened—

1. Silence, gentlemen. You are now going rather too far. There seems no immediate prospect of my becoming a latter-day saint, you perceive. It is the Lord's day, and I wish not to break it . . . . I have done! You need make no reply. Now, I have only two more things to say; the first, this is my study; the second, there is the door; make rectilinears in quick time, and leave the premises immediately. I am not your brother or your dupe.

With this, I rose and opened the door, pointed them out, cleared the way for them, and have never heard from them since. They went down the stairs and disappeared as directed, uttering many and various denunciations and inspired predictions, for which God, who hates imposture more than any of us, will call them to account, when their true character shall be displayed to the universe."

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
THURSDAY, MAY 5, 1853.

MEXICO AND THE UNITED STATES.

The Washington Union remarks that "another war with the United States would inevitably extinguish the nationality of Mexico." The Charleston, S. C. Mercury, (formerly the organ of Mr. Calhoun's opinions,) takes exception to this remark, and says:

"It looks like a tyrannical threat, which the organ of the government ought not in any case to put forth. Certainly the Union is not serious in asserting that the United States would take the first occasion of a war to appropriate the whole of Mexico. That would be to revive maxims of war and of the rights of the strong, which are scarcely held by the most despotic government in Christendom.—Surely it is to be hoped we can indulge in the entertainment of a bit of fighting—if we must be so entertained—without cherishing so extreme a malice, and exacting so terrible a penalty of defeat, as this of taking all his worldly goods from the adversary.

Besides, the conquest of Mexico implies some consequences that had better be well thought of. In the first place, the adoption of seven millions of Mexicans as citizens of the United States; and in the second, the maintaining of a sufficient army to keep in subjection and internal peace the said seven millions, who have never, since the memory of man, yielded obedience to anything but armed force."

Every man who is posted up in the politics of the last twelve years, knows full well that Mr. Calhoun and his coadjutors were earnest for the annexation of Texas, and denied that war with Mexico would follow. But it did follow—and it led to other annexation—and it will lead to more. The election of Presidents Polk and Pierce sanctioned the annexation policy—and the intermediate election of Taylor, under the existing circumstances, was but a feeble protest against it, if any; especially as he had no majority with him in either House of Congress.

The idea of being content with our present limits, is now about as obsolete, as that of a United States Bank, or that of keeping government officers in their places. We can see nothing in the way, which is likely to prevent our swallowing up Mexico. Santa Anna's return will be likely to precipitate the catastrophe, rather than to retard it. We can see, perhaps, as many objections to it, as can the Charleston Mercury; but the objections will be overruled, and therefore we do not state them now. But our conquest of a country has different effects from many other conquests. We do not govern our new territory like a province; we make it a State; teach it to govern itself; and let it help to govern us. We must look at the absorption of the Mexican nation into our own; why may we not look at it in the form of a Union, large enough to cover half a continent? Must we have an army? if so, why may it not as well be made up of native American Mexicans, as of immigrant American Irish?

We may govern Mexico better than she is now governed. It is hardly possible we can govern worse. The people of Mexico must be gainers by almost any change, however it mig . with her generals and priests.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

The Portland Advertiser is authorized to say, that "the President of the Atlantic & St. Lawrence Railroad Company has received the preliminary agreement for a lease of that road, executed by the other parties in interest. So the matter of a lease now rests with the stockholders of that road, and may be regarded as a "fixed fact." It is a glorious consummation!"

The Atlantic road is to be perpetually leased to the Grand Trunk Railway, an English and Canadian corporation, who are to pay £60,000 per annum for the lease. The Canadian and Government Capital of the Grand Trunk, is £2,800,000; and by a new law it is to be consolidated with all its dependent and connected roads, forming a grand capital of £9,500,000.

It is proposed, simultaneously with the construction of the railroad westward, to proceed with the bridge over the St. Lawrence at Montreal. A work of this stupendous character, required to span a navigable river of two miles in width, can only be undertaken by a large combined capital, and is justified by its paramount importance. The site selected is at the sole point on the river St. Lawrence, from the great lakes to its mouth, where a bridge can be placed without interfering with the navigation. And also at that point no less than 1,595 miles of continuous railway, now in operation, with a very insignificant exception, from New York, Boston, Portland, and Quebec, arrive on the south shore of the river opposite to Montreal, a city containing 60,000 inhabitants. On the northern shore, the railways either in progress or completed, including the western section of the Grand Trunk, number already 967 miles, exclusive of projected lines. The completion of this link is essential to the satisfactory and economical working of the Grand Trunk Railway; and it has therefore been incorporated with the entire line. It will be constructed according to the plans and under the superintendence of Robert Stephenson, Esq., C. E., (who is about to visit Canada for this purpose,) and Alexander McKenzie Ross, Esq., C. E.; and the structure will be of that substantial character which a work of such magnitude requires.

MASSACHUSETTS CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.—This body met in the State House at Boston, on Tuesday morning. The Legislature had adjourned over for a few days, to let the Convention meet, organize, appoint Committees, and leave. Then the legislature will re-assemble, finish its business, and make room for the Convention, by adjourning sine die. A clumsy arrangement of matters, at best.

Nathaniel P. Banks was chosen President of the Convention, having 250 votes: Geo. N. Briggs had 137.

Wm. S. Robinson was chosen Secretary, having 247 votes: Chs. W. Story had 144.

These are test votes of parties: the democrats and free soilers act as one party in the convention.

CONSPIRACY.

William Borrowscale and Sarah Wilson alias Baker, were put on examination in the Boston Police Court, Tuesday, they being charged with attempting to extort money from Mr. N. D. V. Taylor.

From the examination, Borrowscale appears to be a finished scoundrel. He endeavored to wheedle Mr. Taylor out of $500, to hush up a pretended crime. But instead of paying hush money, he prosecuted the conspirators.

The examination resulted in the defendant's being committed for trial. Borrowscale's bail was raised from $1000 to $4000, and that of the female, Baker alias Wilson, from $1000 to $2000, in default of which they were committed to jail.

PEPPERELL ASYLUM.—The fine private Asylum for the Insane, at Pepperell, Mass., is not to be given up because its buildings have been destroyed by fire. On the contrary, it is understood that Drs. Cutter & Howe of Pepperell, have made arrangements for the comfort and accommodation of all their patients until a new building can be erected in place of the one burnt.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Mr. Henry F. Kidder, of Bristol, N. H., was on Tuesday kicked in the head and his skull broken, by his horse. He is not expected to recover. Some five years ago Mr. Kidder's skull was broken by an accident on the cars.

☞ Hon. ROBERT G. SHAW, an eminent merchant of Boston, died in that city on Tuesday evening, aged 77.

FIRE.—Fabyan's White Mountain House was destroyed by fire on Saturday night last with all its contents. Bad news.

☞ The Boston Herald learns that Charles Levi Woodbury has been appointed Postmaster of Boston.

The Lowell Courier states that the notorious Albert J. Tirrell has been arrested at Porter's, in Cambridge, for defrauding the Lexington farmer out of $375, at the Brighton market the other day.

Tirrell himself denies both the crime and arrest.

SPIRITUALISM AND BOMBAST.—The Spiritual Harbinger, one of the advocates of spiritualism, has the following:

In the twelfth hour, the glory of God, the life of God, the Lord of God, the Holy Procedure, shall crown the Triune Creator with the perfect disclosive illumination. Then shall the Creator, in effulgence above the divine seraphemal, arise unto the dome of the disclosure in one comprehensive revolving galaxy of supreme Beatitudes.

The Cayuga Chief thus responds:

Then shall blockheads in the Jackassical dome of disclosive procedure, above the all-fired great leather fungus of Peter Nip-ninny-go, the Gooseberry Grinder, rise into the dome of the disclosure, until co-equal and co-extensive and conglomerated luminxes, in one comprehensive mux, shall assimilate into nothing and revolve like a bobtailed pussycat after the space where the caudal appendage formerly flourished.

Prof. Anderson, the great magician, challenges the whole "spirit rapping fraternity," its votaries, victims and teachers, in the sum of $5000 or $10,000, that they cannot produce a single knock on his table which he cannot account for by natural causes and natural laws.

It appears from the biographies of the Duke of Wellington that the exact time and place of his birth is not known, there being no record and no evidence to fix it with precision. There does not however, appear to have been much obscurity about him after he was born.

Governor Stevens will probably locate the territorial government of the new territory of Washington, at Olympia, a thriving village at the head of Puget's Sound, which, it is thought, is shortly to become the great commercial capital of our northern Pacific coast possessions.

Cato Smith committed suicide at West Chester, Pa. A thousand dollars were found in his pockets. He was 75 years old. He was formerly a slave, but had become the richest colored man in that part of Pennsylvania. He leaves a wife and children.

Frederic N. Camp has been sent to the Connecticut state prison for seven years, for burning his tannery in Goshen, with intent to defraud an insurance company.

INSTALLATION.—Rev. Rufus Ellis was installed on Wednesday as Pastor of the First Unitarian church, in Chauncey Place, Boston.

LOCAL.

BEAUTY AND COMFORT.

SHADE TREES.—We are glad to observe preparations making in various parts of the city, to set out ornamental trees on the streets. Nothing else adds so much to the beauty and comfort of a place, as shade trees—to say nothing of the security they may sometime afford against the spreading of a conflagration. We are utterly deficient of any sort of a park or ornamented square—though we hope one may be laid out before long; and though our streets are ornamented with many beautiful trees, yet there is room for more all around.

And it is not enough to merely set out the trees—they need watching and attention. A very little care on the part of each person so situated as to be able to bestow it, on trees growing near their residences or places of business, would save the life of many a valuable sapling. No matter if "It isn't my tree;" all have a common stock in it, and all ought to take pride in making it thrive. Dr. Wall attentively ministered to the wants of the elm in front of his store—and it is now "putting forth in promise," while many others set out at the same time, and certainly in not less favorable locations, but which have not been so well cared for, have died or are waiting an opportunity to do so. Although Dr. Wall will probably not be able to enjoy the benefits of the object of his attention, yet others will. "Long may it wave," a monument to the good taste and public-spirit of its guardian.

There surely should be at least one row of trees the whole length of Auburn street. This would render tolerable in hot weather, a walk to the cemetery. Even that beautiful resting-place for the dead, with all its tasteful ornaments and fine arrangements, is lacking in shade trees. There was a large number of maples set all along the sidewalk from the cemetery to the old part of Auburn street, several years ago; but they have all long since died. Are they never to be replaced by others? Properly managed, trees would thrive there as well as elsewhere.

A line of trees should also be set out on Islington street, from Penn street to the Creek. No part of our city would be more improved by the planting of trees, than this—and we notice that something is being done there in this matter.

APPOINTMENTS.—Luther Junkins, Esq., Collector of York, has made the following appointments with the approval of the Secretary, as officers of the Customs at York, Me.

Col. Washington Junkins, as deputy Collector, Inspector, Weigher, Gauger, and Measurer at York, vice Hiram Perkins removed.—George M. Freeman, Esq., as Inspector, &c., at Cape Neddick, vice George Simpson removed.

APPOINTMENT.—John Pickering, Esq. Post Master at Greenland, in place of Enoch H. Clark, resigned.

Rev. J. W. Marsh, of Exeter, was ordained at Hampton Falls on Thursday last, as Pastor of the Christian Church in that place.

PRESENTATION OF A SILVER PITCHER.—The superintendents and teachers of a number of Sunday Schools in Boston and vicinity, desirous of tendering to the Rev. John G. Adams, late of Malden, but now of Worcester, some testimonial of their esteem, more material than words and wishes, on Monday evening presented him with a splendid silver pitcher. The ceremonies took place at the vestry of the Warren street Church.

The Pitcher is a beautiful work of art, and bears evidence of the most exquisite workmanship. On it is the following inscription:—

"Presented to Rev. J. G. Adams, by his friends of Boston and vicinity, as a token of their appreciation of his services in the Sabbath school cause. Boston, May 2d, 1853."

The design of the munificent token is full of meaning and beauty. Upon one section is an open Bible, with a Lamb recumbent beneath, surmounted by a Dove in the act of descending. On the opposite section is a representation of an ancient sacrifice; and on the neck of the pitcher is a boquet of elegant flowers.

The thunder storm of Friday, the 22d inst., was very severe at East Jaffrey, N. H., and many of the inhabitants received injury from the electric shocks. The barn of Rev. Mr. Baily was struck, and a valuable horse killed. The Universalist meeting house was struck; a portion of the fluid ran down the lightning rod, tearing up the ground in its course, and entering Dr. Gilson's office, a distance of about forty feet from the meeting house; a portion of the fluid entered the belfry, and after throwing off some splinters from the timbers, passed down at the east and west ends, injuring the floor, broke glass, and demolished a bass viol, &c. The fluid also ran down the lightning rod on the factory of A. Bascom & Co., filling the room with sulphureous smoke, knocked down a horse in the street, and injured Mr. Ebenezer Upton, entered the blacksmith's shop, and wrested a pair of tongs out of the hands of Mr. Atherton, carrying them to the distance of several feet, and whirling him around.—Manchester Mirror.

A sad accident occurred in Hinesburgh, Vt., on Tuesday last. Two men, named Plumber and Blanchard, assisted by two boys named Plumber and Stevens, were engaged in repairing a well, and having taken away some brick work near the top, the whole party were engulphed by the earth caving. Mr. Plumber was rescued alive; the other three died before assistance reached them.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

CABINET MEETING—OFFICE SEEKERS.—Washington, May 3.—The Cabinet were engaged to-day upon diplomatic and home affairs, and it is understood made progress, but will refrain from announcing further appointments till after the patronage of the state is disposed of, to avoid the action of the disappointed.

Will any body tell what this means?

THE SLAVE TRADE.—New York, May 4.—The steamship Empire City from New Orleans and Havana, 29th April, arrived at this port at 8 o'clock this morning. Her passengers report that the barque Lady Suffolk had, the day previously, succeeded in landing 600 slaves at a point near Matanzas.

WASHINGTON RUMORS.—The President has determined to appoint Col. H. G. Scott, son-in-law of Gen. Scott, Inspector General of the Army.

It is rumored that Capt. Carr, of Philadelphia, will be Secretary of the Legation to Russia.

The Washington Union contradicts by authority the rumor that the President is about to visit New Hampshire. He will not leave Washington this summer.

The mission to Naples is actively sought for by nearly seventy-five gentlemen. Senators, members of the House of Representatives, ex-Senators and ex-Representatives in Congress, ex-Governors, ex Foreign Ministers, stump speakers from everywhere, and not a few party editors, are on this list. Many of them possess the most ample qualifications, or they belie their reputation in Washington, where the capabilities of public men are pretty well known. The reason why that particular position is so much more sought after than any other, lies in the fact that Naples is the cheapest place on the continent in which to live like a gentleman; and that while the duties of an American Charge there are almost wholly nominal, his commission affords him facilities for whiling away his time in elegant trifling, such as are to be enjoyed by men about town nowhere else under the sun.

LATEST FROM MEXICO.

Santa Anna arrived in the city of Mexico April 17th, and was received with illuminations, firing of cannon, and great rejoicing. His reception all along the route was most enthusiastic. In his address to the Mexicans he says that Gov. Lane takes the ground that the northern boundary of Chihuahua was former ly further north than at present; that the treaty of Guadaloupe Hidalgo had removed it much further south; and that, even if the territory claimed was disputed territory, it has always been in undisputed possession of Mexico—that the respective governments were not bound by the proceedings of the Boundary Commission, is fallacious. He concludes by asking Gov. Lane if he has the power to declare war.

The Mexican papers state that Judge Conklin gave assurances that the United States government would disclaim Lane's acts; they also state that General Lombardini had received the remaining payment from the Tehuantepec Company at 25 per cent. discount.

The Siglio of Mexico states that fifteen states and three territories are in favor of a federal system, and only seven appear disposed to adopt any other form of government.

Gen. Wool took the command of Tampico on the 8th ult., by order of Santa Anna.—Another reinforcement was ordered to Matamoras.

GOLD IN CANADA.—A nugget of gold was picked up in Sherbroke, Canada, by a lad whose brother recently came from California. There has been some excitement about the diggings—since then, some patient and hard searches have been made, but no more golden "nuggets" have been found.

SUNDAY RECREATION.—Policemen smoking segars in the doors of porter houses; boys bathing in the river; boys pitching pennies on the wharves; itinerant lecturers in the German and English languages, along the rivers and in the public streets; young men congregated about engine houses, using profane and blasphemous expressions, and annoying quiet citizens in various ways.—N. Y. Evening Post.

THE MICHIGAN RAILROAD COLLISION.—The engineer on the Southern Michigan train testified that he was running about as fast as he could at the crossing—being behind time; was not a quarter of a mile off when he saw the sparks from the locomotive of the Central train. This witness produced a time-table for his guidance, which had a printed rule requiring the outgoing trains from Chicago to avoid all trains on the Central road: and the witness stated that he did not know of that rule until that morning! The conductor of the Central road testified that he was seven hours behind time, and had no headlights because he had no wicks! was instructed to carry rear-lights, but not in regard to headlights—supposed somebody was! The Central road engineer stated that he set out a hand-lantern when about a mile from the crossing—was required to have a head-light, but his would not burn, and he had had none for two trips. Saw the light of Michigan train half a mile off; shut off steam and whistled down brakes, but did not reverse the engine, as he thought there was no occasion for it—if he had, the train would have stopped.

We hope the law may deal with these men, and that the companies may be compelled to answer for their crimes of neglect, which caused this awful catastrophe.

DEATH BY CONTRACTING DISEASE FROM A HORSE.—Dr. Peter A. Stoutenburgh, one of the coroners of Queen's county, L. I., died at his residence, East Norwick, on the 23d ult. It appears that the celebrated trotting stallion Osceola, (of which the doctor was the owner,) was taken with the glanders, and ultimately had to be killed. In his attention to the animal the doctor in some way become diseased, which progressed so rapidly that in a few days it terminated fatally.

MARRIAGE,
Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT!

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.
Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.
What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.
In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglects to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,
PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition. 18mo, pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.
[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]
First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.
It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be Ignorant.

☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding) "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (mail ed free) to any part of the United States. CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. SPRING.

A NEW VERSION, BY HOOD.

Come, gentle Spring! ethereal mildness come!"
Oh, Thomson, void of rhyme as well as reason,
How could'st thou thus poor human nature hum!
There's no such season.

The Spring! I shrink and shudder at her name!
For why, I find her breath a bitter blighter!
And suffer from her blows as if they came
From spring the fighter.

Her praises, then, let hardy poets sing,
And be her tuneful laureates and upholders,
Who do not feel as if they felt a Spring
Poured down their shoulders.

Let others eulogize her floral showers;
From me they cannot win a single stanza;
I know her blooms are in full blow—and so's
The influenza.

Her cowslips, stocks, and lillies of the vale,
Her honey blossoms that you hear the bees at,
Her tansies, daffodils, and primrose pale,
Are things I sneeze at.

Fair as the vernal quarter of the year,
And fair its early buildings and its blowings—
But just suppose Consumption's seeds appear
With other sowings!

For me, I find, when eastern winds are high,
A frigid, not a gentle inspiration;
Nor can, like iron-chested Chubb, defy
An inflammation.

Smitten by breezes from the land of plague,
To me all vernal luxuries are tables;
O, where's the Spring in a rheumatic leg,
Stiff as a table's!

I limp in agony—I wheeze and cough,
And quake with Ague the great Agitator;
Nor dream before July, of leaving off
My Respirator.

What wonder, if in May itself I lack
A peg for laudatory verse to hang on?
Spring, mild and gentle?—yes, as spring heeled Jack
To those he sprang on.

In short, what ever panegyrics lie
In fulsome odes, too many to be cited,
The tenderness of Spring is all my eye,
And that is blighted!

ROBBERY AND SINGULAR DETECTION.

A remarkable case of the recovery of stolen property by means of clairvoyance, occurred at Wallingford, near New Haven, Conn., on Thursday, April 28. Mr. S. B. Parmelee, of that town, had received money on Wednesday to the amount of $1,730, which he counted over and put away. Some time the next morning, he discovered that it had been stolen, together with a splendid gold lever watch of high cost, an expensive gold chain, and a valuable diamond ring. Getting no clue of the direction it had taken, he was advised to consult a clairvoyant who resided in Durham, some six or eight miles distant. He accordingly did so, in company with another person, and was informed by the clairvoyant that the property was taken by a girl about 16 years of age, who was employed in his family; that on discovering how much money she had got, she became alarmed, and while getting breakfast, put about one half of it into the stove and burnt it. She said further, that the watch, ring, and two chains, (Mr. P. was not then aware that he had lost but one,) were secreted under a stone in the yard, and the remainder of the money in another place. She also described the premises, the place whence the money was taken, and the inmates of the house, with such accuracy as to leave no doubt on Mr. P.'s mind, of the truth of the whole statement. He immediately returned, therefore, and made examination for the property, but did not find it. He then called on his father, who is Sheriff of New Haven county, and laid the robbery to the girl's charge. She denied it, however, and consented to be searched, affirming that they would find nothing to criminate her; and so it proved.

Mr. Parmelee then leaving the girl in charge of his wife and father, returned to the clairvoyant for further information. She informed him that about 11 o'clock, while he was on his way home from his former visit to her, the girl became so much alarmed, that she determined to make discovery impossible; to effect which, she burnt the rest of the money, and removing the watch and jewelry from beneath the stone where it was secreted, had thrown it into the well. She described the location of the well, the manner of drawing the water by a chain pump, and also stated, (as was the fact) that the house was supplied with water from another source, by a water ram.

Mr. Parmelee returned home again, and on drawing off the water from the well, found the watch and jewelry as described, including two chains, both of which were his property. The girl, then, without having been informed of the clairvoyant's revelations, made a full confession, conforming in every particular to those statements. She was committed to jail in New Haven to await trial.

We have these facts (says the Worcester Spy) from Sheriff Parmelee's own mouth.—He is represented to us as a gentleman of the highest character, and he certainly evinces great intelligence. He showed us the recovered property, and also a band of one of the packages of bills, which was burnt in twain, and carried out of the chimney by the draft, into the yard of the house where it was picked up. It had the mark of the Meriden Bank on it, as placed upon it at the Bank from which it was taken the day before.

A LAWYER'S AND A PRIEST'S IDEA OF RESTITUTION.—In Chicago, a few days ago, one of the most distinguished lawyers in that town was waited upon by Bishop Vandaveld and Father McElhern, of the Catholic Church, and presented with eight dollars, which the Bishop said was a restitution made to the lawyer by one of Father McElhern's flock, for a wrong done him to that amount.

What was the nature of the wrong, or by whom it was done, the bishop and priest refused of course to divulge, as the knowledge of it had been obtained through the confessional. The lawyer refused to take the money, offered, as it was, as a payment in full for a wrong done, on the ground that a wrong could not be made right by money.—The person who did the wrong must confess the deed to the injured party, that unjust suspicions of innocent persons, which might have been aroused, could be removed, that the real offender could be forgiven, and the whole account squared between the parties. The taking of the $8 from some unknown person, for some unrevealed wrong, was no righting of the matter at all. So the lawyer argued, to which the priest replied by leaving the money on the lawyer's desk, and politely and quietly retiring.

HOW TO CATCH A SHARK.—When Capt. Keppel's ship was lately near one of the islands in the Pacific, which are still inhabited by savages, the crew were for some time puzzled, in looking at the canoes of the natives, to make out the use of a curiously formed piece of wood, from a hole in the centre of which descended a strong cord of twisted rattan, forming a running noose, like a hangman's knot. The mystery was solved shortly after, on the appearance of a shark. In a few minutes several of these oddly shaped buoys were dropped into the water, and the shark was fool enough to shove his head into the fatal noose, when he was as completely hanged in his own element as ever rogue was from the gallows-tree. The buoyancy of the float prevented his diving with it. Having flourished his tail about for twenty minutes, he was drawn up by his head on a level with the water, and there belabored with the heavy ends of their paddles until he seemed satisfied that farther resistance was useless; they then tumbled him bodily into the canoe, and hurried on shore, amidst the yelling of the whole flotilla.

CHANGE.—Age is a great admirer of the past, and looks upon every hing new as everything that's abominable. If old men could have had their own way, we would yet have used tinder-boxes instead of loco-focos, and stage coaches instead of railroad cars. Old men opposed the introduction of umbrellas, India rubber boots, and abdominal supporters, hair brushes, fine combs and patent suspenders. They have no faith in "nonsense" of any kind, and would rather die under the old fashion treatment of old fashion doctors, than to be restored to youth by a believer of electricity or cold water. If it had not been for the boys, it is doubtful whether the world would ever have tolerated table cloths and salt spoons, knives, forks, guano or telegraph.—Knick.

PORTSMOUTH:
FRIDAY, MAY 6, 1853.

CITY LIQUOR STORES.

The New Bedford Standard gives an account of the business done in the City Liquor Store, under the Massachusetts Law.

"During the nine months this establishment has been in operation, the amount of liquors sold for 'mechanical and medicinal purposes,' is $7,650. The quantity of liquors now on hand, will pay the salaries of the agent and clerk, the rent and the expense of fitting up the store, and the interest on the $2,500 originally invested by the city. The number of sales made at the establishment is about thirteen thousand—showing that disease has been among us far more than we knew or realized, and that the mechanic arts have been flourishing beyond a precedent."

If this establishment supplied all the liquors used in New Bedford, (which is not probable,) then the amount is small indeed, and the new law in New Bedford has worked well.

New Bedford contains 16,000 inhabitants: $10,000 a year, only, for spirits for medical and mechanical purposes, in such a population, seems to us surprisingly small, only 62 1-2 cts. per head.

We wish to have facts on this, as on all subjects; and would thank the Standard for an estimate, (by some intelligent grocer,) of the unlawful sale of liquor in that city, during the same nine months. Putting these two items together, will show how much liquor is sold in this city—and then a very little figuring will suffice to show whether the consumption is large or small in proportion to the population.

THE GOOD MERCHANT.

The Boston Commonwealth says of the late Mr. Robert G. Shaw, that "he was a man of great enterprise, industry and liberality, and leaves a large fortune. About three weeks since his wife died, and last November his brother-in-law, Rev. Dr. Parkman. Mr. Shaw was a firm believer in the 'spiritual manifestations.'"

The Transcript says:

"His time and money have been freely given to all objects of public interest which met his approval. For half a century he was constantly engaged in works of kindness and benevolence, and during that period it is estimated his contributions in aid of objects of public and private charity amounted to the large sum of four hundred thousand dollars. During his last illness, he often remarked that he was richer for his charities and he took great pleasure in the recollection of these acts of his life. Since he has been confined to his house, he sent for the President of the Mercantile Library Association, and subscribed the sum of one thousand dollars in aid of the new hall for that society. Mr. Shaw was President of the Massachusetts Society of Cincinnati, and the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary. He was also Vice President of several charitable associations, and connected with the government of many other institutions of similar importance."

He was, moreover, a public spirited, enterprizing, benevolent merchant, who enjoyed prosperity and used it wisely in health, was calm and pleasant in his sickness, and peaceful in his death.

MAY DAY, 1853.

The following happy description of May Day in Concord, is from the New Hampshire Patriot:

"Thermometer at about 10 in the morning; wind struggling for a steady position between northeast and north. Fires comfortable—dust intolerable. Trees just commenced 'leaving-out'—evergreens scarce—flowers few and far between. Boys celebrated as usual, with a procession, drum and fife, and an indefinite number of tin horns. Procession consisted of a wagon for the music, drawn by one horse, a fashionable chaise, a wagon with two horses, twelve boys on horseback, and three more appropriately bringing up the rear in a sleigh drawn by one horse. In the afternoon Dame's omnibus out with a party—omnibus tastefully decorated.

"Mem.—Discoursing of New England 'May Days,' the Boston Times very unromantically intimates its opinion that 'the young woman in Tennyson's Cantata, who requests her mother to "call her early" because she has been nominated in female caucus as the "Queen of May," probably contracted the disease on that occasion which at a later period consigned her to the "silent tomb."' Not unlikely."

STRIKES — AND RIGHTS.—A Baltimore item of May 4, states that there is "considerable excitement among the printers, in consequence of the strikes at the Argus and Clipper offices. All the employers had agreed to give the prices, excepting Sherwood, and the strikes at the above offices were occasioned by the refusal of the proprietors to take away the presswork from Sherwood."

We copy this paragraph as an instance of a common violation of principle. These striking printers had a right to say how much wages they must have, and to quit work if they did not get it. But they have no right to demand of their employers that they shall take away press work from a third party with whom they have no concern. "Sherwood" has exactly the same right to make his prices, as they have to make theirs: and they violate the principle on which they make their strike, every time they extend their operations to third parties.

CONNECTICUT.

Governor Seymour delivered his annual message on Wednesday.

He represents the financial condition of the state in a flourishing condition, with a surplus of —55,000 in the treasury, and recommends the reduction of the state tax. The income of the school fund for the past year was $135,-000, and the amount divided per scholar $135. He recommends the establishment of higher public seminaries of learning, approves of the state reform school, and recommends a further appropriation of $25,000.

He says the free Banking Law of the last session has worked well. He recommends the most searching investigation into the affairs of the two banks, which have recently been chartered under the new law, and recommends some legislation to check the amount of circulation of the old chartered banks, and the passage of a law to prevent the issue of fractional bills; thinks the country would be benefitted by striking out all bills of a denomination of less than $5. He says that the property of stockholders of banks should be liable for the debts of the institution; thinks that many of the accidents and abuses on railroads would be remedied by the appointment of a general railroad commissioner, to stand between the railroad companies and the public.

His previous opinions of the injustice of the Maine law have been strengthened by the decisions of the courts. He speaks favorably of the Industrial Exhibition of New York, and of African colonization; recommends the abolition of capital punishment, and is in favor of a convention for the revision of the constitution. He concludes by saying that he should not again be a candidate for re-election.

☞ The publishers of the Musical Review and Choral Advocate offer a premium of one hundred dollars for the best plain vocal composition in four parts, not exceeding in length four music pages of the Review when printed, and to reach the office of said paper, 23 Park Row, New York, on or before the 30th day of June next, accompanied by a sealed envelope enclosing the author's name. The premium to be awarded by a committee consisting of the following eminent composers, viz.:

W. V. Wallace, J. G. Maeder, John Zundel.

Three compositions, judged by the committee to be next to the best in point of intrinsic merit and adaptation to please readers, will, if thought expedient, be retained and published in the Musical Review. All others will be returned, if desired.

A DANGEROUS LEAP.—About half past ten o'clock Tuesday night, a girl eleven years of age, daughter of Mr. Geo. P. Nutter, formerly of Portsmouth, who resides at 63 Lowell street, Boston, arose in her sleep, and opening both the window and blind of her chamber, which is in the third story of her father's house, leaped out of the window and landed on the brick sidewalk. She was immediately discovered and taken into the house, and a physician called, who found her very much bruised upon the chest and chin, but did not find any bones broken. Next morning she had full possession of her senses, but was suffering much pain, and it is feared has sustained serious internal injury.

BRUTALITY.—The New Bedford Standard states that a dog-fight was to take place about a dozen miles from that city a day or two since, between a dog belonging to an individual there and one in Fall River. $200 a side was staked on the result. Such exhibitions are extremely brutal and demoralizing, and speak but little for the humanity and decency of the biped creatures who are engaged in them. It would be impossible for the poor dogs to show a greater ferocity of disposition.

WHITE MOUNTAIN FIRE.—It appears from the Eastern Argus, that at the burning of Fabyan's White Mountain House, last Friday night, several of the inmates barely escaped with their lives, the flames spread so rapidly. The loss was entire, scarce an article being saved. He was just on the point of selling out. His policy of insurance expired a few days before.

☞ In New York a few days since, a keeper of a grocery store was engaged in moving the furniture of a woman, when the horse took fright and ran off at great speed, the driver being unable to control him. The woman and the teamster were both thrown to the ground and killed—the man dying instantly, the woman a few minutes afterward.

The New Orleans Crescent, in relating the rescue of two boys from drowing, by two slaves, at the risk of their lives, says there is a law existing in Louisiana, by which a slave secures his freedom if he saves the life of his master or any of his family.

No doubt the Crescent states the law correctly—and if so, it evidently considers emancipation as the greatest possible boon to the bondman. What an answer is this to all the miserable apologies for bondage, which we meet with in the papers every day.

☞ The conductor and engineer of the Michigan Central road have been admitted to bail in the sum of $2000 each, upon a writ of habeas corpus. The conductor, engineer, and fireman of the Michigan Southern train have also been allowed to give bail of $2000 each. Each of the persons was also put under $200 bonds to appear as witnesses in the judicial investigations hereafter to be instituted.

LOCAL.

City Council—May 5.

In Board of Aldermen, John J. Pickering, Stephen Walker and Thomas Norton severally applied for sidewalks in front of their residences—granted.

A petition was received from Messrs. Chas. Robinson, Hill, Carr and others, requesting the passage of more stringent laws against cows going at large, to the injury of children, gardens, yards, &c.—on which it was Voted, That the City Marshal be directed to enforce the present ordinance on that subject.

The case of Willey vs. Thompson, Surveyor, wherein Thompson is charged for removing stone from the road as an obstruction, was referred to the committee on Roads, &c.

Voted, That Ald. Stackpole be directed to repair the fence at the Court House; also the pump and well.

Voted, That the Mayor be requested to have the trees about the Court House trimmed up.

Voted, That the Mayor and Ald. Knowlton be a committee to regulate the height and setting of awning posts.

The Common Council met, and adjourned for want of a quorum.

A GOOD SUPPLY OF ICE FOR NEW ORLEANS.—We notice the clearance at this port a few days since, of the ship Scrampore, for New Orleans, with a cargo of about 750 tons Ice, to the consignment of Messrs. J. Stafford & Co., extensive Ice dealers of that city.—These gentlemen have a large supply of ice in this State, as well as in Massachusetts, which is now being shipped to them for the consumption of the year 1853. From the heavy shipments made to them we should think they must be doing an extensive business. We wish this enterprising firm every success, and commend them to the inhabitants of the Crescent City. We are in hopes they will call on our State for a supply for 1854.—The ship Louvre is now being loaded at this port for the same destination, and will make the third vessel loaded for that place here.—These shipments have caused quite a stir in our city.

JURORS.—Horton D. Walker, and Samuel Spinney, Esq's. have been drawn as Jurors, in Ward 1, in this city.

A COMPLIMENT.—The New Hampshire Patriot says, "an old college friend residing in Mobile, Alabama, a whig of the straightest sect, in a private letter of a late date, thus speaks of Gen. Pierce and the appointments in that section:—

"In regard to Gen. PIERCE I think he will make an excellent President, and that is the general opinion here among whigs and Democrats. The appointments for Mobile are the very best that could be made. Mr. Sanford, appointed Collector, has long been the wheel-horse of Democracy in our city. As a man and a citizen he is respected and esteemed by all parties, and his appointment has given universal satisfaction. No better man could be found for Postmaster than Gen. Toulman," &c.

IMMIGRATION FROM IRELAND. — An extract from a letter received from Dublin, dated April 18th, says the emigration mania has at length reached the comparatively sedate and prosperous northerns. Immense numbers are preparing to take flight to Australia and America. The Belfast papers says say that a great many young men in comfortable situations, have left during the last months, to try the chances of fortune in various parts of the globe, but especially Australia.

HYDROGEN MENAGERIE.—The Cincinnati Enquirer has a notice of a hydrogen menagerie which is getting up there by Diehl & Co. The animals composing the menagerie are made of silk cloth, and are to be inflated with gas, and consist of an elephant, a whale, an anaconda,, a giant, &c.

☞ Three men at work on the new Lowell city hall, on Wednesday, broke through the stage on which they were standing, by which two of them were thrown to the floor. One young man had his skull fractured, and was otherwise badly hurt; the second had one knee-pan knocked out, and was otherwise bruised; and the third saved himself by clinging to a post till he was taken down.

EASTERN RAILROAD.—The Boston Herald states that the section of the road running through Chelsea—a link of the Grand Junction Railway—is finished and will be put into service betimes. The whole line will shortly be completed. The depots are going up with rapidity.

☞ Rev. Warren Burton has been chosen chaplain of the Massachusetts Constitutional Convention.

A BLUNDER AS IS A BLUNDER.—The New York Atlas, speaking of a man of some note, lately deceased, undertook to say "he subsequently commenced life as a legal practitioner, but was diverted from it by his love of letters." The editor did not look at his proof, and on Sunday morning he had the pleasure of reading, "He subsequently commenced life as a legal politician, but was diverted from it by his love of bitters!"—Providence Journal.

☞ The Boston Pilot calls the "Spiritual Rappings," the latest Protestant humbug.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMER ASIA.

NEW YORK, May 5.

The steamship Asia arrived this morning at 10 o'clock, with Liverpool dates of April 23. She brings 100 passengers.

In the House of Lords, the Earl of Clarendon stated that negotiations are still pending with the United States respecting the fisheries. Meanwhile, Admiral Seymour's squadron will this year cruise on the fishing grounds, the same as last season.

Mrs. Stowe, in Edinburgh, attended the banquet given in her honor, where she was presented with the Uncle Tom penny offering, amounting to £1000, for abolition purposes, and a silver salver for herself. The next day she went to Dundee, the day after will return to Edinburgh. The Duchess of Sutherland, Louds Shaftsbury, Carlisle, &c., have not appeared yet.

It is not true that the French Transatlantic steam packet scheme is abandoned. It is merely under consideration in a financial point of view.

RHODE ISLAND.—The official vote of Rhode Island for Governor, at the late election, was as follows:—Philip Allen (Dem.) 10,371; Wm. W. Hoppin (Whig) 8228; Edward Harris (F. S.) 533; Scattering 16. Majority for Allen 1594.

Dr. Kane, of the Arctic expedition, is quite ill with inflammatory rheumatism. We trust his services will not be lost to the expedition. Such a mischance would materially, if not fatally, impair its efficiency.—Boston Journal.

The telegraphic correspondent at Washington of the N. Y. Commercial, writes that President Pierce and wife have resolved upon spending the summer in Georgetown. They will be accompanied by Secretary McClelland.

REVENUES OF THE COUNTRY.—Washington, May 5.—The revenue receipts from Boston, Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia, and New Orleans, for the month of March and April, amount to $10,158,000. The revenue of the year will exceed $600,000. The balance in the treasury is between $19,000,000 and $20,000,000, showing an increase of $1,000,000 a month.

Washington, May 4.—A shock of an earthquake was felt in Wheeling and its vicinity, on Monday.

The Court House in Warren, Fauquier county, was totally destroyed by fire on Sunday morning; the act of an incendiary. The documents and valuable papers were saved. Loss $18,000.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM ANOTHER COLLISION.—The Chicago Tribune of Friday says that the passenger trains of the Michigan Southern and Michigan Central Roads, on their way in, evening before last, met at the same fatal crossing. The Southern road has now issued orders to the conductors and engineers of all trains to come to a dead stop at the crossings.

THE POST OFFICE CONTRACTS.—The Washington correspondent of the Republic, of that city, has the following in regard to the Northern contracts for carrying the mails:

"It strikes me that the result of the recent bidding for mail contracts in the New England and New York Divisions, has somewhat alarmed the Post Office Department as to their prospects for saving the public money in the next four years. They were forced to close with the lowest bids, of course, though those lowest offers actually averaged quite 75 per cent. above the prices at which the same routes were let four years ago. A rise of some twenty per cent. was anticipated to grow out of the altered condition of general business (prices, etc.) in that quarter of the Union; though they were by no means prepared for the state of things developed when the proposals came to be opened. There was hardly any such thing as competition anywhere at this letting, whereas, four years ago, there was hardly a route of secondary importance, which was not contested in a spirit of bitterness as well as zeal.

THE "LARGEST MAN."—We published an account in the Standard, a day or two ago, of the "largest man in New England," as he is called, Mr. John J. Nourse, of Andover, who weighs 388 pounds, which caught the eye of a friend who informs us that Mr. Nourse must yield the palm to a man in East Middleborough. The name of the latter is Ichabod Thomas Reed, aged about 22 years, and weighs four hundred and forty pounds! He weighed ten pounds when he was born, and has been unusually healthy all his life. Mr. Reed may, we think, safely challenge a rival in New England. The "old Colony" is still ahead.—New Bedford Standard.

"SOLD."—In New York, at the time of the waiters' strike recently, the table waiters employed at the Mansion House, called on the proprietor at 8 o'clock in the morning, while breakfast was on the table, and demanded $18 per month instead of $15, which they had been receiving. He told them that he would pay the advance to all of them that remained after the 1st of May. The waiters resumed their duties. On Monday the waiters again repaired to the office of the hotel to get the advance.—Each of them was settled with, and told there was no further use for his services. Just before the gong sounded for dinner, twelve young girls, neatly attired, took their places in the dining-room, and went through their duties in a manner highly pleasing to the numerous guests of the house.

It is said that a gentleman from Tennessee observed to Gen. Pierce, a few days since, that he came from a district which had never held or solicited an office from the general government. "Then," said Gen. Pierce promptly, "it is to be hoped that it never will break in on such a beautiful custom." This was a puzzler.—Norfolk Herald.

MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.
Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.
What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.
In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S
Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,
PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition, 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.
[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]
First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.
It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensible necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be Ignorant.

☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding,) "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (mailed free) to any part of the United States. All letters must be post-paid, and addressed to Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Box 1224, New York City, Publishing Office, No. 129 Liberty Street, New York.

LYON'S
KATHAIRON
FOR THE HAIR.

LYON'S KATHAIRON,

For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.

AS A TOILET ARTICLE,

For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. It imparts the fragrance of the most delightful and exotic flowers, and is free from all mineral properties, or any substance which can color the skin, or stain a lady's hat.

FOR BALD OR GREY HEADS

It is pre-eminently beneficial. "The Kathairon restored my hair after a baldness of 12 years. A. J. COURTRIGHT, 76 Bond-st. N.Y." This admirable preparation can be had of all reputable dealers, throughout North and South America, and the Islands of the Ocean, in large bottles, for 25 cents.
Sold to the trade at a liberal discount, but commissioned in no instance.

SPRING.

O, Spring! of hope and love, youth and gladness,
Wind-winged emblem! brightest, best and fairest;
Whence comest thou, when with dark Winter's sadness
The tears that fade in sunny smiles thou shareest?
Sister of Joy, thou art the child that wearest
Thy mother's dying smile, tender and sweet;
Thy Mother Autumn, for whose grain thou bearest
Fresh flowers, and beams like flowers, with gentlest feet,
Disturbing not the leaves, which are her winding sheet.
Shelley.

I marked the Spring as she passed along,
With her eye of light and her lip of song;
While she stole in peace o'er the green earth's breast,
While the streams sprang out from their icy rest.
The buds bent low to the breezes sigh,
And their breath wept forth in the scented sky,
Then the fields looked fresh in their sweet repose,
And the young dew slept on the new born rose.
W. G. Clark.

Cato, being scurrilously treated by a low and vicious fellow, quietly said to him, "A contest between us is very unequal, for thou canst bear ill language with ease, and return it with pleasure; and to me it is unusual to hear and disagreeable to speak it.

THE RED APPLE.

Little Delia was one day sent by her mother on some errand in the yard. A wood-sawyer was at work there, and a pile of wood was thrown up directly before the door. Little Delia climbed carefully over the wood and did her errand. When she was on her way back, the wood-sawyer took her up in his strong arms and sat her down safely in the door-way, smiling as he did so, and saying to her in a soft tone; "There, my little girl, I was afraid you might fall, and I didn't want you to."

"Delia thanked him very kindly and went up stairs to tell her mother. 'Now mother, I like the woodman very much, for he was so good to me,' she said; 'may I not give him something?'"

"That large red apple that you gave me this morning. Wouldn't that be nice?" said Delia.

"Yes, that would be very well," her mother answered.

Delia ran down and gave the apple, delighted.

"Thank you; you're a good dear," said the wook-sawyer, as he received it; "and what shall I do with it? Wouldn't you like to have me give it to my poor little Johnny?"

"Johnny! and who is Johnny?"

"My poor little boy, that is burnt and crippled by the fire. When he was a baby he was tied into a chair, and tipped himself over against the hot stove, and his clothes took fire, and he was sadly burned indeed. But he's a good little thing, and so loving; shall I give him the apple?"

"Yes, indeed," said Delia; and she ran quickly back into the house, and with her mother's permission, brought out a little brown wooden-horse with a red soldier on his back. "There, give that to Johnny, too," said she; "for I'm sorry that he's so burnt."

When the wood-sawyer returned home at night, little Johnny sat watching for him at the window; and when he gave him the horse and apple, Johnny thought he had never seen so fine a plaything as the horse, nor so large and red an apple before. He kissed his father, and thanked him heartily; and then he kissed the horse and the soldier, and the apple too. When he learned who sent them to him, he said, "How good she is to me; how I should like to see her."

"What are you going to do with your presents?" said his father.

Johnny thought a moment—"I know what I shall do with the apple," he said. "Don't you know that big boy that looks in here and makes me cry sometimes, looking so bad, shrivelling up one side of his face, and drawing his head down to his shoulder, as if trying to make fun of me, because I am so burnt, and my head is all drawn to one side by the fire—don't you know that boy?"

"Jim Norton, do you mean?" asked the father; "that bad fellow that I drove away from the window last week? You don't like him so much, do you?"

"Not so much; but I want him to love me. I want to show him that I don't hate him because he tries to make me feel bad, and makes fun of what I can't help, and what I am sometimes so sorry for, though I know I ought not to complain, for God knows what is best for me."

The next day little Johnny watched at the window, and when he saw the bad boy that used to make fun of his misfortune, he beckoned to him to come near. "Here, Jim," said Johnny, "here's a nice apple. I don't hate you! Won't you love me now, Jim?"

The boy reddened with shame and guilt. To use Bible words, Johnny had "heaped coals of fire upon his head." He could not take the apple. "No, little boy," he said, "I don't want your apple. I can get apples."

"Yes, I want you to take it," said Johnny; "then you won't hate me, perhaps."

The apple was tempting, and Jim took it; but as he went away, he thought, 'What a good boy that Johnny is, when I've acted so to him. I'm sorry I took his apple, for I don't suppose he gets half as many as I do. I wish he had it back again.' He could not eat the apple, so he took it home and divided among his brothers and sisters, which was a new thing for him to do. He made no more bad faces at Johnny, and soon began to smile as he passed his window; and Johnny, as you might know, was very glad to see the change in him, and always smiled pleasantly in return.

Jim Norton sometimes thought, 'I wish I had something to give Johnny. I ought to give to him, rather than he to me.' Then he thought 'I have sometimes earned a few cents for myself by selling shavings; why can't I earn some for Johnny?'

He set about it, and sold two baskets of shavings. With the cents so gained, he bought a few hickory nuts and some sugar-plums. He gave them to Johnny, and was never so happy in his life before. He was now by degrees growing generous and kind to every body, but particularly to Johnny, for he felt something like gratitude towards him, and he was learning to pity and love him.—When the spring came, he brought him green boughs and flowers, which he gathered for him whenever he went into the fields beyond the city.

One day he told Johnny of a plan he had to snare a little bird and bring it to him, so that he might hear its fine song in his own room, since he was lame and could not go out into the fields and woods, and was so often alone; but Johnny said, 'No, Jim; it is hard enough for me to be shut up here, and I'm used to it since I was a baby. The bird isn't used to it, and it would be very dreadful for it; I don't want anything to be miserable for me; I shouldn't be happy. I'd rather not, Jim. The flowers you bring me are enough.'

So Jim left the birds to sing in freedom in the pleasant woods, but he took up a root of pretty sweet briar and planted it in a little pot, and set it on Johnny's window; and though it does not bloom very often, it is always fresh and sweet, like the odor of good deeds.

Have not you noticed, little reader, how, in this story one little good act brought along another and another, till there was quite a chain of kind deeds? There are little good acts for you to do all the time. Be sure you do them, and who knows what may come of them? A little seed makes a great tree when God smiles on it.

Mr. Bryant, editor of the New York Evening Post, who is travelling in the East, writes that "the ancient bigotry of the Moslems is fast relaxing. Not only do the Turks get drunk like Christians, of which I was sorry to see some examples on board the Austrian steamer that brought me hither from Beyroot, but they submit to contact with the Christians, and do not think themselves, as once they did, contaminated by it; and they suffer our presence in their most holy places."

ABUNDANCE OF COLONELS.—Mons. Ampere, of whose lately published work on the United States we have copied extracts and notices, says: "It is said that there are several thousand Colonels in the United States, and that if you address some one by this title in public, twenty persons will rise to answer."

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

DOCTOR ALFRED G. HALL,

AUTHOR of the New Theory of cure by the NUTRITIVE PRINCIPLE, in Physiology and Medicine, sustaining the laws of life and removing the cause of disease, confirmed as a NATURAL SCIENCE by the Nutritive Process; expelling dead and depositing living matter at the surface in the Body, increasing its weight and strength while under treatment, being the great discovery of the Constitutional power resisting disease; ample proof can be given in the person of any invalid.

Dr. Hall receives visits, makes examinations, ascertains the cause of disease, describes the precise condition of the patient, furnishes prescriptions, medicines and recipes for his Nutritive Fluids and Cordials.

Three months' attention and treatment is requisite in all cases, with printed instructions, for diet and washing, and the use of the Alkaline Girdle for the spine and kidneys—a restorative action is produced in all parts of the system immediately by the natural laws sustained by nutrition.

He is the inventor and sole proprietor of 12 nutritive fluids; they can be made by any family—are adapted to the several temperaments, and to every form of disease. His works, "Views of the New Theory, &c.," "Woman hood," and the "Mother's Own Book," are furnished to invalids under his supervision. It is now before Congress.

Doctor Alfred G. Hall may be consulted by letter, or in person at his rooms, No. 15 Winter St., Boston, from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. ☞ Medicines, &c., forwarded by Express to any part.

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.
AGENCY FOR BUSINESS
With the U. S. Patent Office, Washington,
No. 22 State Street, Boston.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent Office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages, in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after first objection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,
Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure them early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"R. H. EDDY, Esq., Boston, Mass.

"SIR:—Your facilities for the prosecution of any business connected with this Office, are equal to those of any other agent. I am very respectfully,

AN ADVENTURE IN TEXAS.

During the recent war between the United States and the Indians of Texas, a great number of volunteers joined the expedition. One of these, Captain Ferguson of Kentucky, became celebrated for his hardihood and success in the terrible hunting of the Indians.—The following incident will convey some idea of the character of the man, and also of the war still waging in the New World, between civilization and barbarism.

A small band of volunteers, among whom was Captain Ferguson, spent several days in exploring Texas, and had wandered far into the interior without meeting a solitary Indian track. Tired of this pacific journey, they resolved to separate and seek adventures singly, before returning to the camp.

Accordingly, the following morning, Captain Ferguson directed his course across a vast prairie, towards a cluster of hills, hemmed in by thick woods which bounded the horizon. Arrived at the foot of one of these hills, the Captain perceived a troop of wild horses slowly advancing towards him. Suddenly they broke into a gallop; a manœuvre which appeared suspicious, and induced out hero to watch them closely.

They soon gained the level ground, and the dull sound of their hoofs striking the soil, became distinctly audible. The Captain looked and saw clinging to the flanks of each horse, an Indian suspended horizontally by an arm and a leg. This is a common stratagem among the Indians, but luckily for Fergurson, he was still at a considerable distance from these unpleasant looking cavaliers.

Perceiving by the rapidity of his flight that they were discovered, the Indians climbed nimbly on their horses and pursued our hero at full speed, shouting their terrible war-cry.

Looking back, Ferguson observed that his enemies spread themselves across the prairie, with the evident intention of cutting off his retreat to the hills. He saw that his only chancce of safety consisted in gaining the woods; whither his pursuers durst not follow him, lest they might encounter the out-posts of the American troops.

He did not again look behind, but with his eyes eagerly fixed on the yet distant goal, he spurred on his horse to its utmost speed.—The animal stumbled, and the cry of the Indians became more distinct; but the noble animal rose again, and with a loud neigh, as though conscious of the peril that menaced his master, he made a prodigious forward bound, and cleared the space which divided him from the wood, with the speed of an arrow.

As Fergusson had foreseen, the Indians, fearing to enter the woods, came to a sudden halt Although comparatively out of danger, he did not esteem the neighborhood perfectly safe, and therefore pursued his course for five or six miles, without drawing bridle. Evening was closing in when he judged it proper to pause. He tried in vain to discover where he was; but he was not a man to vex himself for trifles, so he quietly resolved to pass the night in the open air, and defer till the morrow the task of finding his way. A clear stream bordered with shrubs ran near, and Ferguson, having unbridled his horse, wrapped himself in his cloak and lay down on the grass.

At daybreak he resumed his journey, following the course of the stream. When he had gone about four miles, he found the corpse of one of his companions. The poor fellow had been scalped, and Ferguson's first thoughs was that all his friends had probably been surprised, and massacred singly. Indeed, the numerous hoof-prints of horses, some shod and some unshod, indicated plainly, the recent passage of both white men and Indians.—Slowly and cautiously he followed these traces without making any discoveries, until towords the middle of the day, having climbed up a slight eminence, he saw on the plain, at about a mile's distance, a large Indian encampment.

At the same moment the Indians perceived the Captain, and leaped upon their horses.—Cursing his own imprudence, Ferguson turned bridle, and began as quickly as possible to retrace his steps. Arrived at the outer border of the wood, he saw on the plain which he was about to cross, a dense cloud of lurid smoke extending on either side as far as the eye could reach. It was a prairie on fire.—What was he to do? To return was death; to go forward, destruction no less inevitable.

In this terrible emergency, Ferguson did not lose his presence of mind, but continued to advance rapidly in the direction of the fire. When he met the black advanced guard of smoke, behind which the flame wound and darted like some hydra headed serpent, Ferguson checked his horse and dismounted. He tore his mantle into pieces, fastened one as a bandage over his horse's eyes, and another so as to envelop the animal's mouth and nostrils; then he covered his own face in a similar manner. This was the work of a few moments—precious moments, for the yells of the advancing Indians became fearfully distinct. His preparation made, Ferguson remounted, and facing his horse towards the fire, spurred him on with the energy of despair. The noble beast bounded onwards, the fierce flames enveloping him and his rider; but the arm of the latter was of iron strength; he held up his horse, and impelled him through the fire. A few desperate bounds, and the torture was over.

Concluded to-morrow.

Charles Lee has recovered $4000 damages from the Rochester and Syracuse Railroad Co. He received an injury in the back, by the car, in which he was seated, coming in collision with another, while trying to back up on a branch track at one of the stations. He felt but little pain at the time, but received an injury in his spine which was never cured, and finally resulted in the paralysis of the lower limbs. The question was one of damages merely, no defence being attempted. The company had offered to settle it before the trial for $6000.

There is a pretty squabble raging in London about Webster's Dictionary, which is much prized for its definitions—much laughed at for its absurd spelling. The proprietors of the London Illustrated News have brought out a complete reprint of Webster, (the edition "revised and enlarged by professor C. A. Goodrich, of Yale College,") and are denouncing, by public advertisement, an edition published by somebody else.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
MONDAY, MAY 9, 1853.

A CITY CEMETERY.

We take it for granted that a City containing 10 000 inhabitants, embracing all classes of people, from very rich to very poor, ought to have an ample Cemetery, which should be the property of the City, and be under the perpetual control and direction of the City Government,—independent of all private corporations, who have a right to manage their own affairs in their own way; of all churches, or religious sects, who have each the right to consecrate its own church yard, and make it as exclusive as they please; and independent also of any individuals who own lots or burial grounds in fee simple, and may sell or exchange them as they see fit.

It is obvious to all who have walked over the grounds here, that the City of Portsmouth has no such Cemetery. We suggested some thoughts on the subject several weeks ago; and will now state more particularly, that the Old North Burying Ground has been considered full, for many years: this fact was made use of as an argument to encourage the purchase of lots in the Proprietors' Burying Ground at its commencement. The successful sale of lots in this last named ground at the South End, and the fact that nearly all the lots therein were sold, probably induced the proprietors to get up the little, but beautiful Union Cemetery, adjoining the old North Ground. There are very few vacant places in either of these grounds.

The Cutts Yard in Green street, and the yards in Pleasant street and at the Point of Graves, are small, and have been full for a long time. They need not be taken into the account, except by way of remembrance. Let them remain; plant trees about them; and let them be green spots, for air and light—but not places of burial for time to come. Nearly the same remarks may be applied to St. John's Churchyard, which is small, and cannot be enlarged.

There is a burial ground on the Town Farm, which is very well in its way, and is a very proper appendage to that establishment; but in which, for a very plain reason, most of our families will not bury their dead, viz. that they feel as if they lost caste by so doing. Now this feeling may be deemd aristocratic, or even pronounced foolish: perhaps it is so; never theless it exists, and must be met where it is; for it surely will not change in this century.

The only remaining grounds are at the south end of the City, viz.; The Proprietor's Burying Ground, held by the Trustees of the South Church Charity Fund; Harmony Grove Cemetery, adjoining; and Cotton's, also adjoining.

Nearly all the eligible lots in the Proprietor's Ground, have been taken up, for some years. This contains 13 acres, and the lots were sold in a few years from its establishment; which rapid sale shewed the crowded state of the old town burying grounds, and the need there was of new and more ample grounds. And these same things gave rise to the Harmony Grove Cemetery, which is merely an addition to the Proprietor's ground, and is held as private property without incorporation. The lots in Harmony Grove are sold with proper provisions for perpetual use as burial places; and we understand on nearly the same terms as in the "Proprietors." The natural course of events in the City, and especially the changes in many principal families buried in these two grounds, will doubtless extend this cemetery to three times its present size in forty years, if the land should not be sold for other purposes, or raised in price.

One ground only remains for consideration, viz., Cotton's. This is a small ground, only about half an acre. And this, it was suggested, in an article which we copied from the Portsmouth Journal, was about to be enlarged and improved by the city, so as to afford additional room.

We have ascertained from the city records, that a strip of land, 70 feet wide, and 298 feet long, has been annexed, by vote, to Cotton's ground, and that an appropriation of $150 has been recommended, to grade the land, fence it, and plant trees. It will be seen at a glance, that "Cotton's," with this addition, is still a very small yard. And if the city's whole gravel lot, of which this seventy feet is a part, were to be added, the ground would only contain about two acres!

It is apparent, that the enlargement of this ground, and the existence of the others, afford no reason why we should not have an ample, suitable, City Cemetery, properly located, accessible on moderate terms to the whole people, and creditable to the City as a body corporate. In a future paper we intend to offer some reasons why we should have it.

Your character cannot be seriously harmed except by your own acts. If any one speaks evil of you, let your life be so that none will believe him.

PARTICULARS OF THE RAILROAD DISASTER AT NORWALK, CONN.

The accident happened to the Friday morning train New York for Boston, which at half past 10 o'clock went through the draw of the bridge which was open—the steamboat Pacific having just passed through. The locomotive, baggage car and two passenger cars plunged into the river fifteen feet below the surface. Every person in the first two cars were either killed or seriously injured.

The third passenger car split in two, one half of which was thrown into the river, and the other half caught on the draw.

The number of persons in the cars which went into the water, is variously estimated at from one hundred to one hundred and twenty. The officers of the steamer rendered efficient service in rescuing such of the passengers as had disentangled themselves from the shattered cars.

The second passenger car was broken, and many of those in it were killed.

The baggage car was used as a smoking car. There were a number of passengers in it—all saved.

Drs. Ives and Wilcox of New Haven went down in the baggage car and were under water, but broke out and escaped.

The news-boy in the broken car escaped unhurt.

An infant, in care of its aunt, on the way to its parents in Springfield, was saved; the aunt, however, was killed. The scene is awful and heart-rending. The third car was broken in in the middle, and all in the forward part of it, as well as those in the first and second cars, were either killed or seriously hurt.

Many of the bodies recovered were those of physicians, who had been attending the Medical Convention in New York, and were on their way home.

Two others, not recognized.

Dr. James B. Gray, of Springfield, Mass., was a son of the late Mr. Harrison Gray, formerly a bookseller in this city and in Boston.

The officers of the train are much censured. It is stated that the signal, indicating that the bridge was open, was properly displayed, and the engineer, had he taken common precaution, could have avoided the accident. But the engineer, H. Holbrook, who is saved, says the signal for safety was not down.

The engineer, and conductor (Comstock) have both been arrested.

The "Oliver Barr" mentioned in the list of dead, is supposed to be Rev. Oliver Barr, of the Christian Connexion, who was a collecting agent for a seminary of learning.

Rev. H. D. Moore, of Philadelphia, who was to have preached at the North church in this city on Sunday, was among the injured, aa was his wife also.

Lists are given in the papers of seventeen persons injured by the accident, and 125 persons saved. There are supposed to be several bodies still in the water. The accounts represent the known deaths as amounting to 51.

Dr. Josiah Bartlett, of Stratham, whose death is recorded in the sad catalogue of killed at Norwalk, was highly respected and beloved in this region, as a citizen, a physician, and a christian. He will be greatly missed in the town of his residence.

The Boston Journal of Saturday evening says—

We have a despatch from Concord, N. H., stating that the report of the death of Dr. J. Bartlett, of Stratham, is incorrect.

We learn by Marden's express, that Dr Bartlett's son has reached home with his father's baggage and confirms the news of his death.

LOCAL.

LAUNCH.

The clipper ship Water Witch was launched promptly at the appointed time, 12 o'clock, on Saturday, in fine style, from the yard of Messrs Fernald & Petigrew. The ship was copped and fully masted on the stocks, and being dressed with festoons of flags and particolored signals from truck to rail, presented a beautiful appearance as she glided into her adopted element. On the bowsprit was the Union Jack; at the fore truck, the ships name in Boston numbers; at the main, a pennant, private signal, and a complete set of Marryatt's signals; at the mizzen the American Ensign. The ship has been constructed throughout in the most substantial manner, while, at the same time proper regard was had to beauty of outline and capactiy; as a specimen of naval architecture she cannot be excelled. She is owned in Boston, and is to be commanded by Capt. Washington Plummer, of this city.

Rowdyism.—On Friday evening, at the Cameneum, a crowd of rowdy boys were requested to leave the entry, where they were making a troublesome noise, smoke, &c. On refusing to go, and bristling up to the doorkeeper, they were vefy properly pitched out of doors. In revenge they cut and destroyed the transparency of Mr. Wilson's Panorama, at the gate of the Cameneum yard—quite a costly sign.

We have altogether too much of such misconduct in our public assemblies. At Mr. Thompson's concert, a few days age, the audience were very much disturbed by a squad of young rowdies, who should have been put out. With their whistling, &c., they were an unmitigated nuisance. If there is any excuse for such conduct at an Ethiopian concert, there certainly is none at such an exhibition as Hine's Panorama. To put a stop to these disturbances, the police, when on duty at public assemblages, need to show more energy.—The boys having been allowed to do as they pleased with impunity, now seem to think it their right to behave in such a manner as to deprive well behaved persons of all enjoyment. Let the police take from these meetings a few of the ringleaders, and put them in the watch house; we should soon see a difference in the conduct of the young men.

PETER STILL'S CASE.

Boston, Jan. 3, 1853.

The bearer, Peter Still, was kidnapped in early childhood, on the borders of Delaware river, in New Jersey, and carried thence to Kentucky, and subsequently to Alabama.—After being held in slavery more than forty years, he succeeded in purchasing his freedom; and being obliged consequently by the laws of Alabama to leave that State, he came north to Philadelphia, where by a singular coincidence, he became acquainted with his brother and the family from which he had been so long severed. He has left a wife and three children in slavery in Alabama, whom he naturally and ardently desires to bring into freedom and have with him at the North. For this purpose, he now appeals to the sympathy of the benevolent for such pecuniary aid as they may be disposed to give him.

We, the undersigned, have carefully examined his letters and papers, and have obtained some knowledge of him from other sources.—From this examination, we are satisfied that his story is true in all its particulars; that he is himself a worthy and virtuous man, whose whose extraordinary history gives him a strong and peculiar claim upon the public sympathy and aid.

Any contributions for the object above named, may be forwarded to any of us.

☞ The above named Mr. Still, who purchased his freedom in 1850 by paying five hundred dollars, which amount he raised by his own labor, over and above what service was required of him by his master, is now in this city soliciting aid that he may purchase the freedom of his wife and children, who are now in slavery in Alabama. A part of the sum required for the above named object has already been bestowed by the friends of freedom, and is now in safe keeping in Boston.—Mr. Still humbly asks the aid of the kind and sympathising, that he may once more enjoy the society of those who are near and dear to him by the ties of nature. We trust that his appeal to the citizens of Portsmouth will not be in vain, and we are confident that it will not, if we do unto others as we would have them do unto us. Mr. Still brings with him testimonials of his uprightness and integrity of character, from gentlemen of the highest standing in Philadelphia, Burlington, and Boston, and there can be no doubt that he is greatly deserving the sympathy and aid of a generous public.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

FREE SPEECH—STREET SPEAKING.—Rev. Hugh Kirkland, the street preacher, who was arrested from speaking in the public market place by Mayor Snelbaker, and directed to desist by that official on Sunday last, addressed an assembly of 5000 people yesterday morning, and was listened to in quietness and without interruption. At 3 P. M. also he continued his remarks and although there were a number of Catholics present, no breach of order occurred. At the close of the speaking, some disorderly person attempted a disturbance, but the officers promptly arrested him and conveyed him to the station house.—Cincinnati Gaz. of Monday.

Mr. N. P. Tallmadge, an ex-member of Congress, has avowed himself a believer in spiritual rapping. He has had communications from several individuals on the other side of the grave, which are such capital counterfeits that it would be uncivil in him to disbelieve them.

INQUEST.—The coroner of Cook county, Ill., held an inquest over the nineteenth body which had been taken from the scene of disaster at the railroad, and found "that the officers and agents of the Michigan Central and Michigan Southern Railroads were the cause of the death, by their neglect on the night of the 20th of April, 1853.

☞ Gov. Lowe, of Maryland, has refused to surrender McCreary, the alleged kidnapper.

McCreary, it will be remembered, is the kidnapper of Rachael Parker, and the probable murderer of Wm. C. Miller, both of Pennsylvania. Gov. Bigler of the latter State, has made a requisition for the criminal,—which requisition was denied. We have not seen on what ground the denial is rested.

AGRICULTURAL.—A gentleman of this city, who has charge of a public building on one of our most public streets, wishing to improve the grounds about the house, procured, what he supposed to be, a quantity of choice white clover seed, and sowed it. The result is, a promising crop of turnips.—Newburyport Herald.

Don't let the gentleman be discouraged; but get some real clover seed and sow it among the turnips, in a rainy day, or when the ground is wet after a shower. The turnips will not hurt the grass, but do it good, giving it an "even catch" by defending it from sun and wind at first.—By the way, the mistake is one most anybody might make—the two seeds closely resembling each other.

The powder mill of Messrs. Swett & Davis, in Camden, Me., exploded on the 2d inst., destroying the cylinder and corning mills with about 200 kegs of powder. No lives were lost. The damage is estimated at $2500. The concussion was so great as to shake buildings, break glass, and open doors in Camden, about one mile distant. Also to extinguish four of the lights at Negro Island lighthouse, distant about two miles.

NEWBURYPORT HARBOR.—Mr. Elias P. Dole, of Salisbury, (Ring's Island,) who has taken the contract to buoy out the Merrimac, from the bar to West Amesbury, has already commenced the work. It will be observed, that the buoys are painted red and black, and numbered. The red buoys bear the even numbers, and are placed on the starboard hand on the enterance to the harbor. On entering the harbor, the black buoys bear the odd numbers, and are placed on the port hand, as follows: Two buoys outside the bar, in four fathoms of water; No. 1, black; No. 2, red; one inside, on port hand, No. 3, black; one on Plum Island Point, on port hand, No. 5, black; one near Lunt's Rocks, No. 8, red; one on Middle Ground, No. 9, black; one on North Flats, No. 4, red; one on North Rocks, No. 6, red; one on Gangway Rocks, No. 7, black; one on Boiler Rocks, No. 11, black; one on rocks off Carr's Island, No. 10, red; one on Gunners' Point, No. 13, red; one on Sand Spit, opposite Salisbury, No. 15, black.—Herald.

WOOL HATS.—This branch of business, which formerly employed a great amount of capital and a large number of hands, had nearly run out, when the timely arrival of Kossuth in this country, who introduced the chapeau which bears his name, gave an impetus to this trade, truly astonishing. Manufactories have sprung up all over the country, to meet the great demand. Not only in this country, but across the Atlantic, thousands of cases of these cheap hats have found a market. In this vicinity, (says the Newburyport Herald) large numbers are daily manufactured.—Last year, Mr. Abner Bayley, of Salisbury, turned out at his establishment thirty thousand. Messrs. John Huse & Co., of this city, manufacture some sixty dozen per week.—Messrs. Poole & Smith, on the Newburyport Turnpike, about the same number; and Messrs. Holland and Horton about two thousand per month. Almost every class in the community wear this description of hats, particularly in the Southern States, where the greater part are now shipped.—Newburyport Herald.

Jonathan Edwards supposed that God sustained and upheld nature in a similar manner to that of a reflection mirror—that the Universe was the reflection of the actual presence of God.

Men of intellect and much hope are progressive by the force of ideas. Logical conclusions, with such men, are not airy ideas, but forces. They are not alone sure of the truth of their deductions but of the truth of their power.

The mass of men are mere pattern followers, not originators. They do not lay their plans by principles, and take note of the direction; they work by a sampler, without the slightest idea of any other relation, except that of work and pay.

MARRIAGE,
Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in later years? And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglects to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S
Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,
PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundred Edition. 16mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.
[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]

First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriages, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, is safe or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.
BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Titles, Prices and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be Ignorant.

☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding,) "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (mail-ed free) to any part of the United States. LYON'S KATHAIRON,
For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.

AS A TOILET ARTICLE,

For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. It imparts the fragrance of the most delightful and exotic flowers, and is free from all minera properties, or any substance which can color the skin, or stain a lady's hat.

FOR BALD OR GREY HEADS

It is pre-eminently beneficial. "The Kathairon restored my hair after a baldness of 12 years. A. J. COURRIER, 76 Bond-st. N.Y." This admirable preparation can be had of all reputable dealers, throughout North and South America, and the Islands of the Ocean, in large bottles, for 25 cents.

From the True Flag.

THE DARK HOUR.

The beautiful, the beautiful
Is fading fast away;
I feel no more the fluttering wings
Of new-born fancies play;
The waves have lost their golden light—
The blue has left the sky;
And the moonbeams as they fall at night,
But wake a heavy sigh.

The rustling of the tall green corn
Falls idly on my ear;
The singing of the birds at morn
No more to me is dear.
The grape-vine, clambering o'er our wall,
Seems like a prison bar;
I cannot hear familiar calls,
My spirit is afar.

Afar! not on this lovely earth,
With all its hills and dales—
With the grandeur of its mountains,
And the beauty of its vales.
Afar! not on the dark blue sea,
I care not for its waves;
And its murmur seems a wail to me
Above its thousand graves.

The spell is all unknown to me
That binds my spirit now,
That plants despair within my heart
And furrows on my brow.
A spiritual death I die,
In every passing day;
And the beautiful, the beautiful
Is fast fading away.

LADDER AND CONDUCTOR.

THIS new and important invention is one that should receive the attention of every person who owns a building, or who is interested in that which presents a "permanent safeguard" against lightning, and at the same time a light, strong and ornamental Ladder, which will securely warrant the inmates of any house the ready means of escape in case of fire.

The above are manufactured by Messrs. Washburn, Holland & Co. of Worcester, Mass., and have received the strongest testimonials of approval from many scientific and practical men. A moment's examination of the Metallic Ladder is sufficient to convince any person of its great utility.

☞ Price per foot, 20 cents; including Lightning Rods and Points of the most approved material.

AN ADVENTURE IN TEXAS.

(Concluded.)

The fresh, cool air—how delicious it was! Ferguson tore off the bandages which covered his own head and his horse's, and threw himself on the ground. He is saved! he has accomplished an unparalleled exploit! But above the roaring and crackling of the flames, he heard the triumphant cries of his pursuers, who think they have precipitated him into the ocean of fire. He made an effort to give back a defying shout, but his voice died on his lips.

Half suffocated, both horse and man had scarcely strength to move across the blackened plain; yet Ferguson knew that without water they must inevitably perish. He therefore summoned his remaining energies, and crept on, leading his horse by the bridle. All the poor creature's hair was singed off, and large pieces of his hide came away at the slightest touch.

Tormented by a raging thirst, Ferguson dragged himself towards the farthest extremity of the plain; and when there, he perceived a band of wolves advancing with savage howls. This new peril roused both the horse and his rider. A clear fresh stream was flowing by; into it plunged the animal, and Ferguson also dipped his head into the delicious bath. Its restorative effect was magical. He recollected that the wolves in these vast deserts are accustomed to flock towards a prairie on fire, in order to prey on the animals escaping from the flames. The Captain examined his horse, and found with pleasure that the poor creature was much recovered, and even neighed in reply to the wolves' howling. More moved by this plaintive neigh than he had ever been by a human cry, Ferguson gently caressed the head of his steed, and then mounting, urged him towards the forest. The wolves meanwhile were crossing the stream in hot pursuit, their hoarse yells sounding a thousand times more terrible than the whistling of bullets on the battle-field.

A cold shuddering seized Ferguson. "If my horse should fall?" he thought. But thanks to his vigilance, and the feverish energy of the animal, they gradually gained on their pursuers; for the speed of a prairie wolf is much less than that of a fleet horse.

But the powers of the noble creature were nearly spent, his breathing became rapid, and his head drooped. Yet he still made a wondrous effort to gain the forest, for, with the instinct of his kind, he seemed to know that safety would be found among the trees.

At length the wood was gained. Ferguson gave a joyous shout, for now he could take refuge in a tree. Tying his horse to a lower branch, our hero climbed one quickly, and loaded his carabine and pistols, with a faint hope of defending the poor animal from the wolves' attack.

From the lofty branch on which he had taken up his position, Ferguson watched the monsters' approach—they were the fiercest species, white with glowing red eyes; and he saw that all was over with his faithful horse. They rushed on their victim—Ferguson fired among them; but in a moment the animal was devoured, and the empty bridle left hanging on the branch.

The wolves, with gaping throats, and their white tusks grinning horribly, remained round the tree; for the horse had scarcely furnished each with a single mouthful. On the Captain's slightest movement they jumped up, as if to seize him before he could touch the ground. Ferguson enjoyed a sort of feverish pleasure in killing a number of them with his carabine. But night was closing in, and quite exhausted, unable even to reload his arms, he was seized with a sudden giddiness. He was forced to close his eyes, lest he should fall from his green fortress.

Then a deep roaring was heard in the neighboring prairie. At the sound, the wolves pricked up their ears, and darted off simultaneously in pursuit of a new prey. In a short time Ferguson opened his eyes, and descried in the plain on the border of the wood, an enormous buffalo, surrounded by the ravenous wolves, who were tearing him to pieces, despite his furious efforts to escape.

The Captain, profiting by this fortunate diversion, descended from his tree, and hastened to kindle the dried branches scattered on the ground. He shortly succeeded in surrounding himself with a rampart of fire.

Feeling then comparative safety, he roasted one of the dead wolves, and ate a small portion of the flesh, notwithstanding the natural repugnance inspired by such unclean food.—Being somewhat strengthened by his strange repast, he collected a supply of wood for the night.

In about an hour afterwards, the wolves returned to the charge, but Ferguson, thanks to his flaming fortification, was in such perfect safety, that despite the continued howling, he slept profoundly until morning.

An awaking he found that the wolves were gone, in pursuit, doubtless, of some easier prey; and the Captain was able to resume his journey on foot, carrying with him his pistols, his cutlass, and his carabine.

After a week of incredible fatigue and privation, he arrived in safety at the American camp; but no tidings were ever heard of his unfortunate companions. They probably had either been massacred by the Indians, or devoured by the wolves. As to Captain Ferguson, he was seized with a fever which confined him to bed during many weeks. When convalescent, he happened one day to look in a mirror: and started back affrighted. His beard remained black, but the hair of his head has become white as snow.

Is Mrs. Hayden, the "lady medium" who attends parties wishing to communicate with the other world—is she duly licensed to sell spirits?

Answer.—No, she only sells the dupes who pay for what they don't get.—Punch.

PORTSMOUTH:
TUESDAY, MAY 10, 1853.

THE CATASTROPHE.

The Boston papers, (and indeed all others,) of Monday are filled with details of the dreadful disaster at the draw-bridge at Norwalk. We give as many of these as we can find room for, in a revised and condensed form.

The result is a frightful loss of human life, caused entirely by carelessness in action, or by reckless legislation, or both.

The speed of the locomotive, round a curve and over a draw-bridge, was altogether too great. The engineer was surely in fault for this. But was, or was not the conductor in fault also? He was fearfully in fault, if, as is reported, he told the engineer "to drive like — through Norwalk, as two gentlemen wanted to get out there, and he did not wish to stop."

But did the bridge tender do his duty? It is supposed that he did. But the Boston Journal is informed on reliable authority, "that the law in regard to raising bridges in Connecticut, is so framed that the tender of a draw, whether on the line of a railroad or common highway, is obliged to raise the same at any moment when requested so to do, for the passage of any vessel whatever, no matter whether such vessel be a steamer or a small sloop, and no matter whether a train is due or otherwise."

If this be so, then let the State of Connecticut modify its law somewhat according to common sense.

The Hartford Times says:—

"Draw bridges on railway tracks are man traps, and frequently are they sprung upon the unsuspecting. No such thing should ever be permitted. Either have a ferry, run round the inlet, or close it permanently. The expense is of no consequence. The man traps should be steraly opposed and stopped in all cases."

We copy this paragraph for the purpose of saying that the changes which have been rang on the trouble and dangers of the Eastern Railroad Ferry at Boston, always seemed to us uncalled for, as these dangers are smaller than those of a drawbridge. There are dangers in both; but there need not be great danger in either, if due care were used.

The Legislature of Connecticut being in session, on Saturday appointed a committee to proceed to Norwalk, investigate thoroughly, and make report.

A bill was also introduced imposing a fine of $10,000 for every person killed upon a railroad, and imposing heavy penalties for injuries on account of accidents, caused by carelessness.

The Legislature have resolved to appoint a a board of railway commissioners, with extensive powers.

THE NORWALK TRAGEDY.

The papers of Monday contain a more full and connected account of the frightful disaster at Norwalk, on Friday morning. From all accounts it is obvious that this great destruction of life was the result, solely of the carelessness of the engineer of the train, who in disregard of signals, which cautioned him to stop, rushed his train over the bridge at a rate of thirty miles an hour, and precipitated his living freight into suff ring and death. The train consisted of two baggage and five passenger cars. The number of passengers was about 200. About a mile beyond the Norwalk station, the road is carried over the creek or river by a bridge, in which there is a draw about 60 feet wide. It was at this bridge that the frightful catastrophe occurred—the draw having just been opened to give passage to the steamboat Pacific. The mode of signalizing the engineer that the draw is open, and that he must stop his train, is the lowering of a large red ball, which, when the bridge is closed, and the track free from impediments, is again raised to the top of a staff of some altitude.

The printed instructions of the Company are—

6. All trains must run with care in approaching Norwalk River Bridge. Trains going east from Norwalk station will move around the curve with exceeding care, and Conductors of trains out of time are cautioned about crossing the bridge, they will be held responsible for the safety of the trains.

Of the engineer the New York Sun says:

Edward Tuttle, the engineer, was arrested and put into safe keeping immediately after the accident, to await trial for manslaughter, and the fireman was also placed in custody as a witness. Tuttle was what is called a spare engineer, and on this occasion had taken the place of the regular engineer of the train, Mr. Smith. Tuttle was engineer on one of the trains which ran together at Greenwich, Ct., a year or two since, about which time he either resigned or was discharged—probably the former. He then went to California, and has but just now returned. This fatal trip was but the third since his return. His employment was not regular; he was waiting for and expecting a regular appointment soon.

An eye witness of the disaster, who saw the train as it approached the draw, says he noticed that the whistle was not blown as usual, and that the speed was not slacked as is customary before running upon the bridge. The speed was 30 or 35 miles per hour. A moment afterwards he heard a crash at the bridge, and hurried to the spot. The engine leaped entirely across the draw and buried itself partly in the central abutment. The tender turned bottom upwards, and lodged fairly upon the locomotive. The baggage car then lodged in an upright position on the top of the tender. The smoking and mail car taking a sheer to the left, lodged upon the piles and bridging under the draw, forming an acute angle with the baggage car. The first passenger car dove, as it were, down between the smoking and baggage cars, the car behind it striking and splitting it in pieces, and partly running over the roof. The second passenger car was, in turn, broken in pieces and crowded over the piles by the other cars in the rear, one half of it falling into the draw, and partly upon the car ahead of it.

Frightful as the disaster was, it was still fortunate that it occurred in broad daylight. It is impossible to describe the terrible scene. The two cars were but a mass of fragments, with dead bodies, and persons badly injured and crushed strewn about. The work of rescue was at once commenced energetically. The wounded, who, very generally, were able to walk, were kindly taken care of in the neighboring houses, and the dead were conveyed to the baggage-room of the station house and the engine-room near the station.

James A. Renaud, engineer of the steamer Pacific, gives an account of the accident, in the New York Herald, in which he says:

I immediately walked aft and stood on the guard, where I could see everything that happened. The cars were then coming at full speed. The draw was wide open, and the ball was down. This ball is used for a signal. When it is up it signifies that all is right.

The locomotive was under such headway when it ran off that before it reached the water it struck the abutment on the opposite side—a distance of about sixty feet. The tender, baggage car and two mail cars came next. Two passenger cars went into the opening on the top of what had preceded them, the third broke in the middle, and half of it went down.

The New York papers are filled with accounts of the terrible tragedy, from passengers and others, all of which describe the scene as most heart rending.

A letter from a passenger describing a scene the next night after the disaster says:

The dead lay in ranks, their faces gleaming horribly, as lamps were carried along to enable the newly arrived strangers to discover whether their wives and children, or parents, or brothers, or sisters, were among them. I have very frequently seen dead men and women, but never before so frightful an exhibition. The males were in one large and rude apartment, and the females in another; and both were dark, except as lighted fitfully and imperfectly by candles and lamps, of which the rays could scarcely penetrate more than an arm's length from the holder. Every house in the village is a hospital. Every family is devoted to the care of the suffering and the dying.

I learn that there was no crying—no apparent excitement—at the time of the catastrophe. Every one seemed frightfully calm; and the utmost presence of mind and energy were exhibited by the citizens of the village and others in rescuing the unfortunate living and dead

Conspicuous among those who rendered effective aid in rescuing those struggling in the water, was Mr. John Collins, whose health for a year past had been so delicate as not to permit him to labor for the support of his family. Happening to be standing on the bridge at the time, he threw off his coat, plunged into the water, and swam for a small boat which was near. Cutting her adrift with his knife, he was fortunate enough to succeed in rescuing a number of passengers, who but for his noble exertions must have perished.—He continued his efforts until he was compelled by absolute physical exhaustion to desist, and was then carried home.

Up to Saturday night, 52 bodies had been recovered at Norwalk, and two or three persons had died of injuries.

The number on board the train when it started from New York was about 200; one account says 216. They filled five cars, and are not all accounted for in the lists of killed, saved and wounded. More bodies may yet be found; besides, some passengers probably went on, or returned, without reporting themselves.

The escapes of several persons were remarkable, particularly of gentlemen in the smoking car, one of which was John L. Huntress of Lowell, formerly of this place. Dr. Levi Ives, of New Haven, was sleeping in a seat in the smoking car, and remembers nothing previous to finding himself in the mud upon the shore, safe and sound.

In a corrected list of the killed, the name of Oliver Barr is mentioned, as a collecting agent and clergyman, rendering it certain that it was Rev. Oliver Barr, of the Christian Connexion, who was to have been here at the convention next week, and to have preached on the next Sabbath.

BROWN VEILS.—The Lowell Vox Populi "would like to know who had the presumption to introduce those abominable snuff-colored veils, so fashionable with the 'women folks' just now;" and the Newburyport Union advises the girls, "if they do not wish to be mistaken for their grandmothers, to eschew snuff-colored veils."

☞ We learn by the Bangor Jeffersonian, that "the town of Ellsworth, Me., at the late annual meeting, voted to discontinue the liquor agency, and instructed the selectmen to enforce the Maine Law to the letter."

Case 3. Maria L. Eastman vs. Rufus Dow. Judgment on Report of Referee for the Pliff.

A. Fowler for Pliff. I. Bartlett for Deft.

Stickney, Dist. Attorney, for Pliff. Daniel Clark for Deft.

Case 2. Luther Tracy vs. Abraham Prescott & Abraham J. Prescott, came on for trial.

Tracy, manufacturer of Musical Instruments at Concord, brings this action against the Prescotts, also of Concord, for violation of his Patent on Seraphines. His patent was on a combination of a drum with the reeds so as to soften and mellow the tone, and claims that it is infringed by an equivalent combination of a thin board with the reeds, so as to produce the same kind of effect.

G. D. Stevens, Joel Giles and Ira Perley for the Pliff. Edmund Burke & H. A. Bellows for Defts.

John H. George, Esq., of Concord, exhibited his commission as Attorney of the United States for the District of New Hampshire, and took and subscribed the oath of office.

COURTS IN ROCKINGHAM COUNTY.—Probate Court in this city, Tuesday, May 10; in Exeter, Wednesday, May 11. Adjourned session of the Court of Common Pleas, in Exeter, Monday, May 16—for the trial of "the flowage cases."

☞ Rev. Dr. Burroughs will lecture this evening at the Temple, before the Portsmouth Young Men's Christian Association, this being their first anniversary. The yearly report will be read, the objects of the society stated, &c. The exercises cannot fail to be attractive, and all feeling any interest in the well being of our young men, should be present.

☞ Rev. A. R. Bradbury, of the Hanover Street Chapel in this city, on Sunday, immersed seven young persons, one gentleman and six ladies, at Noble's Island.

☞ The body of Dr. Josiah Bartlett, of Stratham, arrived at Boston on Saturday night,—and at Stratham, on Monday.

☞ His funeral will take place this afternoon, at two o'clock, in Stratham.

☞ We understand that Madame Sontag will give a Concert in this city, provided sufficient encouragement can be given. Further particulars to-morrow or next day.

REMOVAL.—"Silas H. Hill, originally from New Hampshire, but for some years a wealthy citizen of Washington," has been removed from a clerkship in the third auditor's office—says the Boston Post.

Silas H. Hill was son of Dea. John Burlay Hill, formerly of this place,—and has been a clerk in Washington for more than twenty years. We are glad to learn that he is rich; but presume he did not become so by means of his clerkship merely.

ANOTHER RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—On Saturday afternoon, at 4 1-2 o'clock, as the New Bedford and Taunton train was about one mile and a half below Taunton, the axletree of the tender gave out. The cars and tender were thrown forty feet from the track, and in their passage completely revolved three times. The cars were broken to pieces, but miraculously no lives were lost, though there were 25 passengers. Fifteen were injured, among them several ladies. The conductor was slightly injured. The rails were torn up for several rods. No defect was discovered in the axletree. The engine was a new one, built in Taunton, and accounted the best on the road.

AND YET ANOTHER.—The engine and tender of the early accommodation train from Boston to Lowell, on Saturday morning, ran off the track at Winchester; but the cars did not follow, and no great injury was done.

MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglects to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S
Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,
PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.
[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]

First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriages, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

INTERESTING INCIDENT.—A few days since a lady in the village of Lee, in this county, whose husband died during the past winter, was, by the departure of some remaining members of the family, left alone with her daughter and a servant girl, for the first time. On opening the door during the evening, a large dog was discovered lying on the door mat. Not thinking his presence desirable at that time, or wishing to induce him to leave his owner, repeated endeavors were made to dislodge him, but without effect, the dog seeming determined to stay and rather seeking to be caressed. He was permitted to remain and the house was closed for the night. In the morning the faithful animal was found in his place, but soon after the family were astir he disappeared, and nothing more was seen of him until evening, when he resumed his guard on the door mat. This he has still continued to do, although he had not until within a day or two been fed by the family. He manifests great attachment to each member of the family, and shows his watchful care by going to the Post Office with the servant girl in the evening, and barking loudly at intruders.

To whom the animal belongs or where he came from, is unknown by any who have yet been made acquainted with the circumstances. Certain it is that he is acting a noble part in protecting the widow and fatherless. Is not this an affecting instance of God's providential care for his people and a striking proof of the truth of his promise "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee."—Berkshire Co. Eagle.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION TO INVENTORS. The Subscriber (late Agent of the U. S. Patent office, under the Act of 1837) determined to present advantages in applying for Patents, superior to those offered to inventors by others, has made arrangements whereby on applications prepared and conducted by him, THIRTY DOLLARS (instead of twenty, as paid back by others,) will be remitted by him in case of failure to obtain a patent, and the withdrawal through him within thirty days after the rejection. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all necessary papers and drawings, for procuring patents in this and foreign countries prepared, and advice rendered on legal and scientific matters respecting inventions, and infringement of patents.

Inventors can not only here obtain their specifications on the most reasonable terms, but can here avail themselves of the experience of 20 years' practice, an extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and correct accounts of patents granted in this and other countries: besides being saved a journey to Washington, the usual great delay there as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. Copies of claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar.—Assignments recorded at Washington.

R. H. EDDY,

Solicitor of Patents.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. In regard to Mr. Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

Late Commissioner of Patents."

ROCKINGHAM COUNTY TEACHERS' INSTITUTE—April, 1853.

The Spring session commenced at New market, Monday, P. M., April 25th. A brief address was made to the members by the Commissioner for the County, after which exercises in Arithmetic and Reading occupied the remainder of the day.

In the evening, a lecture was delivered by Albert H. Hoyt, Commissioner, upon "the present condition of our Schools, their defects, and the remedies for the same." At the close of the lecture recitations from the poets were given by Mr. Bigelew. These recitations were continued each evening, after the lecture, during the week.

Tuesday morning, the Institute opened with a full board of Instructors, consisting of the following named gentlemen:

Albert H. Hoyt, of Exeter, Commissioner.
Prof. Dana P. Colburn, of the Lancaster, Mass., Normal School.
" George N. Bigelow, of Clinton, Mass.
Calvin Cutter, M. D., of Warren, "
S. D. Bassett, of Newmarket.

During the remainder of the Institute, Lectures and Exercises in Arithmetic, Grammar, Geography, Physiology, Spelling and Reading occurred. No attempt was made to convert the Institute into an Academy or High School, and to impart instruction from text-books, but to make practical suggestions in regard to the best methods of teaching the different branches, and of creating an interest among pupils in their studies.

On Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Dr. Cutter gave very interesting and entertaining lectures upon the "Laws of Health." These lectures were more interesting, coming from the author of our best text-book on Physiology.

Thursday evening, a lecture was read by Chas. Northend, Esq., Super't of the Schools in Danvers, Mass.; subject, "the means by which good Schools can be maintained." The lecture was replete with practical suggestions, drawn from the long experience of the speaker as a teacher and supervisor of schools.

On Friday afternoon, at the close of the session, the members walked to an adjacent grove, and spent two hours in agreeable recreation. Songs, stories, speeches, and conversation occupied the time. In the evening, Prof. Colburn lectured upon the subject of Winds, Rains, Oceanic currents, and the laws which govern them. This was an admirable lecture, and rendered still more interesting by the aid of Prof. Guyot's New Mural Map, illustrative of the above subject.

On Saturday noon, the Institute was brought to a close, by singing, under the direction of Mr. Bassett, and with prayer, by Rev. Mr Cogswell.

Upon the whole, we deem this one of the most pleasant and profitable sessions of the Institute ever held in the County.

The number in attendance at the close was about 90; the whole number of names registered, being 93; a large number when we consider the season of the year and the fact that the Institute was located in one of the extreme towns of the County. Providence smiled upon us with the most pleasant weather; and there were no instances of sickness or accident.

Much praise is due the members for their regular deportment, promptness in attendance, and recitations, and the interest with which they entered immediately upon the exercises of the Institute.

It is not the least of the advantage of such gatherings of the teachers of the County, that the members become acquainted with each other.

The Superintending School Committee, did us much service by their personal exertions to secure boarding places for the members, and in making other suitable arrangements.

The evening lectures were attended by large and attentive audiences, and a very respectable number of citizens of the place, attended the daily sessions of the Institute.

At the close of the Institute the following resolutions were passed:—

Resolved, That in our opinion the Teachers' Institute is indispensable to the perfecting of our system of Public Schools; and that the money expended for it is a profitable investment.

Resolved, That we have cause for encouragement in the large number now in attendance at this Institute, and in the enthusiasm apparent in all its exercises.

Resolved, That we have witnessed with great satisfaction the ability with which this Institute has been conducted by Mr. Hoyt, the worthy Commissioner of Schools, in Rockingham County.

Resolved, That gentlemen Colburn, Bigelow, Cutter, and Bassett, the Teachers in this Institute, have by their patience and courtesy, their faithful and able instruction, laid us under lasting obligations.

Resolved, That we tender our thanks to the Directors of the Boston & Maine Railroad, for their generous reduction of fare to all in attendance at this Institute.

Resolved, That when we separate, it shall be to cherish each other in fond remembrance as fellow-laborers in the noble endeavor to educate immortal minds, grateful for the pleasing associations which must ever cluster around this happy period of our history. ***

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
WEDNESDAY, MAY 11, 1853.

THE COMING THOUSANDS.—Private letters from the old world state that the movement toward the New, is likely to prove extraordinary within the coming six months. It is estimated that some 200,000 men, women and children will leave England and Ireland, and that this vast army will be increased to nearly half a million by adventurers from Germany and other portions of Europe. A still farther impulse is likely to be given to this living tide, by the strikes in the United States, and the extravagant reports that are published in foreign journals, as to the demands for labor and the high rate of wages in this country.—What is likely to be the general effect? Let us imagine the accession of a population of half a million within the next six months, and of this aggregate, at least 100,000 laborers. The inquiry is well worth pursuing.—Albany Register.

Breadstuffs and houses must be in demand wherever these new comers settle—and the wages of labor will be apt to be struck instead of laborers striking. But no man knows or can know, all the ultimate effects of any action proposed or performed. Therefore it is, that we should seek the path of duty and prudence, and pursue it in quiet, trusting, patience and hope.

☞ In the legislature of Massachusetts, on Monday, the Committee on the Judiciary were directed to consider whether new legislation was called for, to regulate Railroads, Steamboats and Bridges; and especially, to consider the expediency of providing by law that no railroad train be allowed to travel over bridges with draws at a rate exceeding six miles an hour.

LARGE VERDICT.—In the Supreme Court, in Boston, the jury in the case of Allard vs. T. H. Perkins, 3d., returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in $1,989 58, after being out fifteen and a half hours. The history of this case is as follows:

In 1845, T. H. Perkins, 3d., accidentally or otherwise, run over a boy of Mr. Allard, the well known bill broker, and severely injured him. The child was at the time 2 years and 10 months old. Mr. Perkins was driving a spirited horse, and, it is stated, the animal was going at a very fast gait when the accident occurred. The father of the boy immediately commenced a suit against Mr. Perkins, in the name of the boy, for damages, and for his use. In 1848 the action was tried in the Supreme Court, and resulted in a verdict of $1500 in favor of the boy.

The suit which has just been tried was brought by the father of the boy for the expenses of the sickness, extra care, medical attendance, &c., for six years after the accident. The case turned principally upon this point: Were the external injuries at the time of the accident the cause of the child's present deformity, or was it caused by a hereditary complaint, viz.: scrofula. Upon this point a large number of physicians were examined. A part of them testified that external injuries never cause the curvature of the spine, and that the accident in this case to the boy could not have caused the deformity. On the other hand, as many more gave direcly opposite opinions. The jury however, were of an opinion that the accident was the cause, and returned the verdict as above.

This case has occupied the Court about two weeks, and has attracted much attention.—Wm. Whiting for plaintiff; Choate and English for defendent.

The keeper of a protective union Store at Nashua, N. H., was fined $100 last Saturday, for passing fractional bills, contrary to the law of the State.

A law inflicting punishment for such an act, is infinitely more disgraceful to the State, than the religious test and property qualifications of our Constitution. Fractional bills are not only a convenience to the entire trading community, but their issue is no more an infringement of any principle of justice, than is the issue of a whole(!) bill, if such a misnomer may be allowed. The man who would commence a suit against another for passing such a bill, must be but one step from vagrancy or villainy.—Exeter News Letter.

DROUGHT AT THE EASTWARD.—The Calais Journal says:—"Many of the mills on this river are hung up for want of logs. There has been no freshet this spring to get the logs out of the lakes and streams; should rain hold off much longer, every saw on the river will be hung up. Hemlock boards are worth eight dollars a thousand—as much as used to be paid for merchantable pine a few years ago. Men's wages and all kinds of building materials are so high this season that many who contemplated building have given up the idea for the present."

The N. Y. Crystal Palace framework is nearly finished; the painters and decorators are now at work in the southern and western naves. The dome, which was the most difficult part of the work is now complete; the directors will receive contributions from those to whom space has been alloted on and after the 16th of this month.

THE KEENE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.—Very extensive preparations have been made by the citizens of Keene, N. H., to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the organization of the town under its present name and charter, on Thursday, the 26th of the present month. Thomas M. Edwards is to be president of the day, and Joel Parker of Cambridge, will deliver the oration.

MR. SOULE.—The Havana Diario is very much alarmed and very indignant at the appointment of Mr. Soule as Minister to Spain, and hopes he will not be received at Madrid.

LOCAL.

OLD CUSTOMS.

We have been much interested in some memoranda, from the old town records of the town of Newcastle. Rev. John Blunt, of that place died Aug. 7, 1748. The town voted to continue his salary for nine months, and to pay the expenses of his funeral.

The bill was in old tenor, and the items were as follows:

	l.	s.	d.
Grave,	2	00	00
Rings	30	00	00
Gloves	28	00	00
Rum,	2	10	00
Tobacco pipes,	1	00	00
Coffin,	66	00	00

The Rev. David Robinson of Stratham, was ordained as his successor, Oct. 30, 1748. The town provided the dinner. The items were thus:

	l.	s.	d.
A barrel of Cider,	3	00	00
A dozen of Cabbages,	1	16	00
A bushel of Turnips,	1	00	00

These are all the items that appear on the bill of the only person who was authorized to make expenditures for entertaining the clergy—but it must not be supposed that the ministers of that day dined only on cider, cabbage and turnips. Probably there were beef and pork, and not improbably fish, paid for in some lost bill, or given by the wealthier parishioners.

The mention of rum in the bill at the funeral, does not show any excess, indeed it shows a rigid temperance in the use of what was then deemed an indispensable cordial on such occasions.

Comparing the cost of the liquors with that of the turnips and the labor of digging the grave, it will be seen to be quite moderate.

Newcastle (including Rye) was chartered as a town in 1693. The following memoranda are copied from the original minutes of a town meeting held a few years afterwards.

Att A Town Meeting att New Castle held the 22d April, 1706, Mr. Eliot chosen Moderater—and Instrumt. produced to ye Selectmen, wherein Capt. Nath. Fryer and his Exes. &c. was obligded for ye maintainance of John Wrisland and ordered that a coppy be taken accordingly. It was done and lodged on file.
The Town dos impower ye Selectmen to agree with Edward Randell for ye maintainance of Widow Row.
Voted that the Selectmen make a Rate of fifty pounds for ye payment of ye Town Debts.
Voted that the Selectmen have an Easpection over ye Inhabitants of ye Town, and wherein they find them Lasey as they do live, they See that they may be imployed and putt to work.
Voted that the Town impower the Selectmen to make inquiry into all Lands, by Either Town Grants or Deeds, to See Wheither the possessors have not incroached upon ye Town Lands.
Voted that the Selectmen give Mr. Robart Gordan notice Either to pull down his Leanto or to repair itt forthwith.
Voted that Mr. Joseph Simpson Lay out fifty Shillings in Glaizing ye windows of ye Meeting, being Soo much Money due for ye frame and boards of ye old meeting house, which ye Town Sold to Said Simpson.
Town Meeting Ended.

The latter record makes it plain that the present Congregational meeting house is the third erected in that place.

A MONUMENTAL PULPIT.—While we are publishing memoranda of old affairs in New Castle, we will notice one item of improvement which has recently been made, and which is also a remembrancer of the past.—We refer now to general neatness and fitness, within doors and without, of the Congregational Meeting House in that ancient town, which has lately had its grounds enclosed and improved, and its awkward pulpit replaced by one of remarkable simplicity and beauty; and of beauty too which is not factitious and temporary, but intrinsic and durable.

The pulpit is of black walnut, and its front panel is a plain slab of highly polished and beautiful marble, bearing in deep cut letters, gilded, the following inscriptions.

Rev. John Emerson died Jan. 21, 1732, aged 62.
Rev. William Shurtleff died May 9, 1747, aged 58.
Rev. John Blunt died Aug. 7, 1748, aged 42.
Rev. David Robinson died Nov. 18, 1749, aged 33.
Rev. Stephen Chase died Jan. 1778, aged 72.
Rev. Oliver Noble died Dec. 15, 1792, aged 56.
PASTORS OF THIS CHURCH.
The Memory of the Just is blessed.

It is proper to mention that the expense of this pulpit was defrayed by subscript on; and that descendants of two of the pastors, residing in distant cities, were liberal contributors to the work.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

☞ The Teachers' Institute at New Market, is duly chronicled on our first page to-day; the report being furnished by a correspondent from whom we have received many similar favors.

The interests of Common Schools are in good hands, while attended to by the present Commissioner, Mr. Hoyt.

RAILROAD MEETING.—The regular Annual Meeting of the Portsmouth & Concord Railroad Company, takes place at the Court House in this city, this day at 10 o'clock.

PROBATE COURT in Exeter, to-day.

Reported for the Chronicle.
U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.
DISTRICT OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.
Tuesday, May 10.

At the opening of the Court, the motion of the Pltf. for continuance in case Goddard vs. Lord and Jenness, was argued by Christie in favor and Wells & Perley against; and granted on the ground of the absence of material witnesses—the Pltf. to pay the costs of this term, also Defts.' witnesses and costs of summoning them.

Case 2. Tracy v. A. & A. J. Prescott. The evidence of the Pltf. was closed, and the case opened on the defence by Mr. Burke, in the forenoon. The afternoon was occupied in the examination of experts in music, on the part the Deft.

PORTSMOUTH Y. M. C. ASSOCIATION

The first anniversary meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association, in this city was held last evening, in the Temple.

The President of the Society, Franklin Ellms, presided over the meeting, which was opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. Peabody.—L. W. Brewster, Sec., read the annual Report, and Rev. Dr. Burroughs delivered an excellent address. Rev. Mr. Lamson closed the services with a benediction.

Dr. Burroughs's subject was Moral Power; his object, to show how it might best be exercised by this society.

The numerous and very respectable auditory, seated in the well arranged and finely lighted Temple, which has been lately refitted, presented a most agreeable tout ensemble; and the friendly union of all sects and almost all classes, gave an air of quiet and refreshing cheerfulness to the whole evening.

COOL.—The young gent who goes alone to all exhibitions for pay, and finds pleasant lady acquaintances there to chat and walk home with, is generally considered as "cool;" he who stands waiting in the entry for a favorable opportunity to gallant a couple of beauless ladies in, with as much of an air as if he paid for "the crowd," we think will pass for "a cooler;" but the chap who nudged his four fair companions outside the Temple, and suggested that he "might as well take their ninepences then," doubtless takes the palm from most, even in this "cool" region.

☞ The Gazette thinks the conductors of our Lyceum are rather illiberal in their arrangements with the printers. We don't imagine the institution is of much pecuniary advantage to its managers—but it is usually deemed to be for the interest of such bodies to furnish the press with free tickets, or at least "swap bills" even. If we recollect aright, the gentlemen who conducted the People's Lyceum, a few years since, supplied every typo in the city with a ticket.

GARDINER BRIDGE.—The City Council of Augusta have passed an order, directing the commencement of a legal process in the Supreme Court of Maine, against the construction of the Gardiner Bridge. The Hallowell authorities have taken similar action upon the subject, in conjunction with Augusta, agreeing to pay their proportion of the expenses of the proceedings according to valuation.—Bath Tribune.

That is right. Justice gives Gardiner no more authority to obstruct, by a bridge, the navigation of the Kennebec, than it does to obstruct by a gate the post road between Augusta and Brunswick. One bridge is an excuse for twenty more. Let Augusta, like Exeter, consent to be bridged in from the sea, and it will soon find there has been an oppressive and injurious abridgement of its privileges; like us, it will soon be visited, by water, only by mud-scows, and such steamboats as can float on a heavy dew.—Exeter News Letter.

That is it. The old Piscataqua Bridge has passed into a precedent, and the New Market, the Portsmouth, and two or three Railroad Bridges, have followed in the footsteps of their illustrious predecessor. And there will be more bridges before there are less. To be sure, in the old English Common Law, every wharf and mill-dam obstructing navigable water, was deemed a nuisance. But royal charters, and republican charters, have licensed so many of these nuisances, that they are tolerated everywhere, except in a few places where there is not enterprise enough to build them.

The nuisance of bridges, is as well established as that of foreign immigration, and unnaturalized voting. John Adams' administration broke down, in part under the Alien Law—and from that day, all efforts against aliens have been as futile as Don Quixote's old battle with windmills, or as the new battle with the bridges is likely to be. The march of improvement is not to be turned backward—though conservatism is quite useful, by impeding its progress so as to keep it steady.

☞ Mr. Thomas Marston, of Greenland, has been appointed Keeper of New Castle Light, vice William Vennard, removed.

ALLEGED INCENDIARIES ARRESTED.—Thomas O'Conner, and Michael Haydenger, have been arrested in Boston, for setting fires in stores on Long Wharf and Sudbury st.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

LATER FROM CALIFORNIA.

Loss of Steamer S. S. Lewis.—Terrible Steamboat Explosion.

New Orleans, May 9.—Dates from California to the 16th ult. have been received at this port.

The steamship S. S. Lewis was totally lost on her passage to San Francisco. Her passengers, numbering in all three hundred and eighty, were saved.

The baggage was saved, but the steamer and everything else was a total loss. Loss, $200,000.

The steamer Jenny Lind exploded near San Francisco, by which fifty or sixty passengers were terribly scalded, twenty of whom have since died—including seven children, and one whole family.

The general news is of trifling importance.

In the markets at San Francisco there had been very little change.

ANOTHER RAILROAD ACCIDENT. New York, May 10.—The emigrant train from New York and the day express train from Dunkirk, came in collision at 8 o'clock last evening, on the Ramapo branch of the Erie Railroad. Four brakemen were severely injured, one having both legs broken. One passenger had his legs broken. No other was injured. Both locomotives and baggage cars were smashed.

FROM TEXAS.—New Orleans, May 7.—We have Galveston advices of the 3d of April.—The accounts from the newly discovered gold mines in Hamilton Valley, on the Colorado, are very exciting. The tide of emigration was setting strongly towards the mines, 400 persons are now there, averaging from $5 to $10 a day each, some having already realized from $1500 to $2000 each. The farmers around were leaving their crops and starting for the mines. Merchants were also sending forward large amounts of goods. The soil for 100 miles around had been examined, and was found to contain gold deposits in every direction, equally as rich as those in California. People in all parts of the State are wild with excitement.

FIRE IN PORTLAND.—A large wooden building on St. John Smith's wharf, was discovered to be on fire about 8 o'clock, on Sunday evening. The building was occupied by Messrs. Lord & Baker, who, in connection with Mr. Wm. H. Davis, of Boston, were engaged largely in the hermetically-sealed provision business. The fire originated in the lower part of the building, near the cooking apparatus, from what cause is unknown, as there had been no fire in the building after sundown of the preceding Saturday evening. There were nearly 100,000 empty cans in the building, besides a large quantity filled and ready to be taken away, which are all nearly ruined—and the loss cannot be far short of $8,000, upon which there is an insurance of $2,500, partly at J. C. Churchill's agency of the Hartford Ætna Office, in this city, and partly in Boston.

The building, which was owned by St. John Smith, Esq., was without insurance. It is probably damaged to the amount of $1000.—Advertiser.

ROMANTIC HOMICIDE.—At New Orleans on the night of 27th April, William Taylor, a young man in the employ of R. G. Hobbs & Co., was savagely murdered in bed, by being stabbed in nine places, by Agnes Anderson, with whom he had lived unlawfully. He had been aroused before the murder was completed, and attempted to escape, as prints of his bloody feet were upon the floor. He had become tired of her, and he had paid her $400 to separate from him, but was so infatuated as to visit her again, after she had in jealous rage threatened his life, and she carried out her threat. When arrested, she declared that she committed the deed in self-defence. She appeared in court in full mourning, and is a pretty girl of about twenty years of age.

DEATH OF A CHILD BY DRINKING BRANDY.—A little girl five years old, died this morning in Freeman street, from the effects of intoxication by brandy. Coroner Bruen held an inquest, on which it appeared that the child yesterday went to the house of a neighbor, and during the absence all persons from the house, took down a can containing nearly half a pint of the liquor, and drank it, after which she was insensible till the time of her death. The child, it is said, has had from the age of infancy a remarkable taste for liquor, and secretly drank it whenever an opportunity was offered.—Newark Daily, 5th.

COLLISION CASE.—In the case of Ward and others, owners of steamer Atlantic, vs. owners of propeller Ogdensburg, by which the former was run down and sunk, Judge Spaulding, counsel for the propeller, not only denies that her officers were to blame, or her owners liable, but puts in a claim of $3000 damages for the latter.

On Saturday evening, as the freight and passenger trains on the Eastern Railroad were leaving East Boston, the former being behind, run into the passenger train, completely demolishing one of the cars. The passengers in the car that was stove to pieces, seeing their danger, removed to one further forward, just in time to escape with their lives.

THE SOVEREIGN OF THE SEAS.—New York, May 6.—The Sovereign of the Seas run from Honolulu to Cape Horn, 8634 miles, in 37 days; in 26 of those days consecutively she run 6489 miles, and one of those days was distinguished by an extraordinary run of 430 miles. This is the greatest sailing recorded, the nearest run to it being that of the Flying Cloud, which run in 26 consecutive days, an average of 227 miles per day,—the daily average of the Sovereign of the Seas for the same time, 249 4-13 miles, or 22 miles a day more than the Flying Cloud. The best day's run of the F. Cloud, was 374 miles. There is no doubt of the above run of the Sovereign of the Seas, as it appears from the sights and calculations entered at large on Capt. McKay's journal. A speed of 18 miles an hour, for 24 hours, is greater than was ever previously done under canvass.

MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence,

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life, broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life as a sane when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. 11j16

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglects to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S

Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,

PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.

[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]

First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriages, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

INNOVATIONS.

In an article on Conservation, the Boston Transcript gives the following anecdote as an illustration of the position, Ther's no telling whither innovations may lead, or where they may stop.

In 1714, a clergyman in the Massachusetts colony published a small work on music, entitled, "A very plain and easy introduction to the art of singing psalm tunes, etc. Price, six pence, or five shillings a dozen." Small as this book must have been to be afforded for sixpence, it was a great novelty, it being the first publication of the kind in New England, if not in America. At this period there were not more than four or five tunes known in many congregations in this country, and even these were sung altogether by rote. These tunes were York, Hackney, St. Mary's, Windsor, and Martyrs. To publish at this time, therefore, a book on music, containing the enormous number of twenty-eight tunes, was a daring innovation on the time-honored institutions and customs of the country! The attempt to teach singing by note, thus commenced by this parish clergyman, was strenuously resisted for many years by a large class of persons. A writer in the New England Chronicle, as late as 1723, thus opposed the innovation: "Truly I have a great jealousy, that if we once begin to sing by rule, the next thing will be to pray by rule, and preach by rule, and then comes Popery.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

DOCTOR ALFRED G. HALL,

AUTHOR of the New Theory of cure by the NUTRITIVE PRINCIPLE, in Physiology and Medicine, sustaining the laws of life and removing the cause of disease, confirmed as a NATURAL SCIENCE by the Nutritive Process; expelling dead and depositing living matter at the same time in the Body, increasing its weight and strength while under treatment, being the great discovery of the constitutional power resisting decease; ample proof can be given in the person of any invalid.

Dr. H. receives visits, makes examinations, ascertains the cause of disease, describes the precise condition of the patient, furnishes prescriptions, medicines and recipes for his Nutritive Fluids and cordials.

Three months' attention and treatment is requisite in all cases, with printed instructions, for diet and washing, and the use of the Alkaline Girdle for the spine and kidneys—a restorative action is produced in all parts of the system immediately by the natural laws sustained by nutrition.

He is the inventor and sole proprietor of 12 nutritive fluids; they can be made by any family—are adapted to the several temperaments, and to every form of disease. His works, "Views of the New Theory, &c.," "Womanhood," and the "Mother's Own Book," are furnished to invalids under his supervision. It is now before Congress.

Doctor Alfred G. Hall may be consulted by letter, or in person at his rooms, No. 15 Winter St., Boston, from 10 A.M. to 5 P.M. ☞ Medicines, &c. forwarded by Express to any part.

CLERGY RESERVES IN CANADA.

The Newburyport Herald gives, in few words, a clear view of this subject, which has been little understood in this country.

The British Parliament have recently made a very important concession to the Canadian Legislature, viz:—the right to sell the Reserved lands of the clergy—and the ground on which this long contested point has been granted is more remarkable still; for it was decided on the consideration, that "all internal affairs should be regulated by the Canadians themselves."

Upon the conquest of Canada from the French, all the clergy both Catholics and Protestants received tithes from the people, but the act of Parliament which sanctioned this was repealed in 1794 in regard to the Protestants, to whom was appropriated certain lands for indemnity, including about a seventh part of all the public lands. This land, which is called the "clergy reserve land," has been a subject of contention ever since. In 1827 the Canadian Legislature passed an act to sell them; but this only created new controversies; and to satisfy all parties, or attempting so, in 1840 the Legislature divided them into two portions, giving two sixths to the Church of England, one sixth to the Scotch Church, and dividing the remainder among different denominations; and this division the British Parliament ratified. But there was a discontented party still—the radicals, or liberals, who were opposed to all government patronage of the clergy, and they have strained every nerve to get the Act appropriating these lands, repealed—the pretext being, that the revenue derived from them, should be appropriated to educational purposes. Petitions and remonstrances have been presented to the home government; more or less favorably received, according as Tory or Whig principles prevailed in the Cabinet; Lord John Russell favoring the repeal, the Earl of Derby being inflexibly opposed to it.

Things were coming to a crisis; when earlier last fall, the Canadian Legislature voted, by a very respectable majority, that if leave was not granted them to dispose of these lands as they pleased, they should consider their constitutional liberties infringed upon. The present ministry has granted the repeal. The act itself, though of considerable moment, is not as important as the consequences; for the legislature being thus sustained in repealing an act of Parliament, does de facto make them independent of Great Britain, in their internal regulations, for if they have the right to repeal an Act, no other is safe. This is the greatest step that Canada has yet made towards independence, and it has been won in truly British fashion, without much noise, by determined—uniform—persevering effort. A few more such exercises, and they will be ready to enter an advanced class in our own political ethics.

A NEW BUILDING MATERIAL.—In Clarke co. Alabama, they have found large quarries of a concrete limestone, which promises to become a valuable material for building. It is a yellowish color, takes a fine polish, is of great specific gravity, and so very compact that it would require ages to disintegrate it.—When quarried, however, the blocks are split with much facility and easily wrought, but become to the air soon hardens them. A scientific gentleman who has examined it, says it only differs from the stone used for building in Paris, by being a darker shade, and of greater weight, consequently more handsome and durable. This rock can be easily procured at Gainestown, on the Alabama river, about 100 miles from Mobile.—N. Y. Evening Post.

There is said to be a surplus of twenty millions in the U. S. Treasury, and the New York Herald wouldn't be surprised if it should be forty millions on the first Monday of December.

HORSE SALES IN NEW YORK.—The annual sale of horses in New York, the "Agricultor" thinks, is not less than fifteen thousand. Few horses, says the same journal, sell here for less than a hundred dollars, and the average price falls little below one hundred and seventy-five dollars. Unusually high prices have been obtained this spring, and the average advance is at least ten per cent. One pair of horses was sold lately for two thousand dollars, and several have brought from eight hundred to fifteen hundred dollars. The weekly transactions of the New York horse market amount to sixty thousand dollars, or more than three millions a year.—Spirit of the Times.

ENTERPRISE.—In the small town of Derry, N. H., with a population of less than two thousand inhabitants, they have, the present season, invested the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars in the manufacture of boots and shoes, which will give employment to one hundred hands. Why this branch of business cannot be carried on in this city—possessing, as it does, every facility for its successful prosecution—is a question which has not yet been satisfactorily answered. A gentleman remarked, in our hearing, a day or two since, that he would willingly invest a liberal sum, gratuitously, with any competent man who would start a wholesale shoe manufactory in this city.—Newburyport Herald.

THE RACE FOR RICHES.—It is short-sighted policy to shut up religion in churches and prayer-meetings, or even in households. Religion is intended for the world; the world has need of it. Your weary, weary clanking machinery—ever going, never resting—how much will you give for this, and what wages will you work for—the edges of that huge, complex, money-making machine and sawing into your flesh and bone. If the name are spirit of Christ were poured upon your business, it would not rack you so sore and waste you so soon.—Arnot.

GARGET.—A correspondent of the Argus, writing from West Bethel, says, that the root called garget, although a valuable medicine for cows, is death to horses. Mr. Ward recently lost a very fine mare from eating a piece which had been left in the barn. We once knew a little boy to eat a very small piece of this root, which has a sweetish taste, and from its effects upon him, we should think it "enough to kill a horse," if eaten in any considerable quantity.—Portland Adv.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
THURSDAY, MAY 12, 1853.

NEW MEXICO AND THE FISHERIES.

The President has appointed Mr. Merriwether of Kentucky, to be Governor of New Mexico, thereby superseding Gen. Lane.

This movement is a rebuke of the latter functionary, and of all his brother fillibusters, and may be taken as an indication that President Pierce intends to follow, substantially, in the footsteps of Pres. Fillmore, in his policy towards Mexico.

We hope he does not intend to copy too closely, the policy of the late administration about the fisheries on the eastern coast, which policy was too justly branded, in electioneering speeches, as a do-nothing policy. It does look, however, as if that was to be the policy—for the fishing season has begun, and none of the common people "down-east" can tell whether it is safe or unsafe, to venture between capes and headlands on the British shore.

ITEMS OF THE LATE DISASTER AT NORWALK.—The physicians who have examined Tucker, the engineer, express the opinion that he will never recover.

We find the following in regard to Rev. Oliver Barr, the business agent of the Antioch College:

"Just before the reverend gentleman took his departure in the fatal train for Boston, he was asked by his friend 'If he was not afraid to travel on railroads so much?' to which he replied, 'Not at all. I have travelled on them for years, and was never on a train yet when accident occurred.' Alas, little did he then think of being so suddenly snatched away from his friends and family. He was found jammed between two of the seats of the second passenger car, with cuts and bruises about his face and forehead. His hands were uplifted toward a window, showing that he had made a desperate struggle to effect his escape. The deceased leaves a wife and eight children."

We find the following paragraph in the New York Tribune's report:

"The statement of the conductor telling the engineer to 'drive,' &c., has been contradicted. The facts are, that last fall a drunken man named Benedict, wanted to stop at Norwalk, but the train did not stop there, and the conductor refused to allow him to get off, and told the engineer not to slacken the speed of the train, as the man threatened to jump off. the same man was drunk in Norwalk yesterday, and repeated the story which has assumed this form."

An indignation meeting was held at Norwalk on Monday afternoon which was fully attended.

Hon. Clark Russell presided, and addresses were made by Messrs. Mead and Austin of Norwalk, Russell of Greenwich, Hon. S. Jerry and others, and a memorial was unanimously adopted calling on the Legislature for the immediate enactment of a law providing for the greater security of railway travelling, &c. Rev. Dr. Meade made a statement of a most remarkable character. He said:

The engineer we find, is a man who some two years or more since, was concerned in an accident that occurred not far from here—an accident that came near being as terrible in its effects as this one. We find this man was paid his whole year's salary, and left for some part unknown. When the legal investigation took place he was not to be found. Did not this show culpability on the part of the company? This same man was some time ago told by a conductor to drive faster than the regulations allowed, as the train was behind time; he remonstrated with the conductor, and finally did so very reluctantly. Why, he should have floored the man at once, who would tell him to risk the precious lives of those in his care! And the company, we find, applauded him for remonstrating only! remonstrance, when by his rash act he might have hurried a hundred human beings into eternity! This man, we find, after the matter for which he went to California was hushed up, is again in the employ of this same company, and the result is, what we are too well aware of. Is there no blame resting on any one for this?

The engineer's name is E. W. Tucker, from Cambridge,—not Tuttle as his name was printed in our account of the catastrophe. He is said to be a brother of Mr. Tucker who formerly kept the Tremont House.

COLLISION ON THE ERIE RAILROAD.—In yesterdays paper we gave a telegraphic account of the collision on the Erie Railroad, by which four men were severely injured.

The New York Times says the accident was the result of palpable carelessness, as the conductor of the emigrant train left the depot fifteen minutes before his time.

We hope soon to see some stringent laws, to apply to such cases, passed in every state in the Union. Lives enough have been lost by gross carelessness on the part of the persons running trains. It is time that legal provision should be made to guard against such accidents in future.

SUBLIME AND RIDICULOUS.—A mammoth Grizzly Bear is on exhibition at Newburyport in connection with Mrs. Pelby's Wax Statuary of "Christ's last Supper." Several other "living animals" are included in the same exhibition, among which is the "Infant Drummer Boy," five years old!

LOCAL.

PORTSMO. & CONCORD RAILROAD.

The Annual Meeting of this corporation was held in this city, yesterday. The following gentlemen were elected Directors for the ensuing year:—

Alfred W. Haven, Portsmouth;
Joshua W. Pierce, Greenland;
Arthur Fletcher, Concord;
Nathaniel Batchelder, Epping;
Horton D. Walker, Portsmouth;
Wm. Plumer, Epping;
Josiah Minot, Concord.

Brackett Hutchings was chosen Clerk.

It was stated by Mr. Emery, at the meeting, that the receipts of the road for March and April were $10,300, being an increase over previous months; also that the up freight had increased while the down freight had decreased. This fact would seem to prove that our trade with the country was increasing. The prospects of the road were considered very favorable.

The meeting adjourned to the last Monday in June, to some place hereafter to be fixed by the Directors.

NEW RIG FOR SHIPS.

We have recently examined a new invention for reefing and furling topsails on ships, by which all the labor necessary to neatly reef or furl a sail may be done on deck, thus obviating the danger of working aloft in bad weather. The plan seems simple and practicable, while the general appearance of a ship with this invention, would be but slightly changed.

Perhaps, from our ignorance of technical terms, we may not be able to explain it to the satisfaction of maratime men; but we will attempt it.

Instead of having a topsail yard to hoist with the sail bent to it, it is proposed to have the topsail yard securely hung in its proper place, by some contrivance similar to the truss of the lower yards; to have around the topmast an iron cylinder, to which the sail will be bent in the middle, up and down the mast; at the bottom of this cylinder, flush with the round top, will be a cog-wheel, which is to be operated from the deck by a spindle to which power will be applied by a small capstan and bars; it is proposed to set the sail by having sheets from each of the four corners instead of the two lower corners, as at present. When the sail is to be reefed the sheets are eased off, and a turn or two made on the cylinder, by which means the sail can be quickly reduced to any extent desired.

This arrangement will do away with buntlines, clew-lines, reef-tackle, reef-points, and all that sort of geer, which are most used in the worst weather.

In sudden squalls when it is necessary to let go everything, the sail is eased from strain by this contrivance in less time and more effectually than in the old way. By letting go the four sheets, the whole surface of the sail is released from the wind, instead of making a sort of bag, as is now the case.

This plan is proposed only for topsails, because they are the last sails taken in; the other light sails can be furled in comparatively good weather, while there is but little danger in going aloft. But when it is necessary to reef or furl topsails, it is time to remain on deck.

We hope some one will apply the invention. This method of rigging ships is the invention of Mr. Wm. H. Foster, of this city, who is making the necessary arrangements to secure a patent.

SEA BATHING.

We understand it to be a settled point that our old Portsmouth Bath House is given up, and abandoned as a public institution.

The time has come, therefore, when we must have a good salt water bathing house, where young people, of both sexes can learn to swim, in safety, and with such conveniences and regulations as will make this branch of education a pleasant pastime as well as a valuable accomplishment.

The addition of warm, cold, and shower baths, to the swimming school, would be but a trifle.

There is a good charter, belonging to the old concern, if it is best to have it a close corporation—and there are some fixtures, as good as new, which can doubtless be had on reasonable terms.

We are inclined to the belief that public swimming schools, as free to all boys and girls as the grammar schools now are, would be quite as popular as the latter institutions now are; and that they would not excite the jealousy of any sect or party.

We would not be too strenuous about the form in which the thing shall be got up. But for the thing itself we have a great desire. We have at our doors this great means of health, pleasure and cleanliness, with the best possible chances to build fixed and floating baths.

We have shut up the old bathing places on the shore, and made it a public offence to "go in a swimming on the beaches." Now let us open a proper place for bathing, free if we can, cheap if not free—but by all means let us have it.

Reported for the Chronicle.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.
DISTRICT OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Wednesday, May 11.

Case 2. Tracy vs. A. & A. J. Prescott.

The evidence in this case was closed at half past ten this morning, and the remainder of the forenoon occupied with the closing argument for the Defendants, by Mr. Bellows. The closing argument for the Plaintiff was made in the afternoon, by Judge Perley, and after a very clear charge by Mr. Justice Curtis, the case was given to the Jury at half past five o'clock. The Court then adjourned till nine o'clock to-morrow morning, when the session will probably close, as there are no more cases for trial. Judge Curtis left in the evening train for Boston.

PISCATAQUA STEAMBOAT.

We learn that some enterprising gentlemen in this city are about completing arrangements to place a steamboat permanently at the disposal of the citizens of this and the neighboring towns. The boat is now in New York, and is of sufficient size to be available when needed as a tow-boat for all common purposes. She is to be under the command of one of our most trusty Portsmouth sea-captains—a man in whom all will feel confidence; and when desirable will run in connection with the Portsmouth & Concord Railroad, for pleasure parties, etc.

This is just what is needed here—a steamer big enough for a large party to be and feel safe in, and also to take a ship to sea or round to Boston or New York, and similar service. We have no doubt that a steamer of this sort, permanently running here and rightly managed, (as this promises to be,) will do well both for its managers and the public.

SONTAG IN PORTSMOUTH.

Efforts are being made to raise steam enough in Portsmouth, to induce Madame Sontag to give us an entertainment at the Temple, similar to those announced in Portland, Concord, &c. But a limited time is allowed the projectors of the scheme, to ascertain the state of feeling in regard to the matter—and all who think it worth the while of Portsmouth to keep up in musical matters with the rest of the world, must make up their minds quickly to go. We have no doubt sufficient encouragement would be given by the citizens of this and the neighboring towns—but it must be done immediately to be of avail. We certainly ought to have a concert from this lady and her troupe—and for our own part, we say we expect to have it. See advertisement.

ACCIDENT.—A little girl who lives on Bridge street, was run over by a truck yesterday afternoon, at the head of that street, and sustained injury which rendered it necessary to amputate the fore-finger. The child being put under the influence of sulphuric ether, the operation was very dexterously performed by Drs. Oliver and Folsom. The patient slept quietly during the operation, awoke bright in a few minutes, and said her hand was better.

The driver paused not to inquire the extent of the injury he had done!

☞ Towle & Co.'s sale of flowering plants was well attended yeste rday afternoon—despite the misprint in the bills, which announced the sale on April 11. However, everybody knows that Capt. Towle is never "behind the times"—so it wasn't so much matter.

N. H. PATRIOT.—John M. Hill, Esq., the junior proprietor of the New Hampshire Patriot, closed his connection with that paper with this week's issue. The state of his health, which has not been good for several years, has caused him to leave the establishment. Mr. Hill has been the business partner of the concern for six years, and the paper never had better prospects than at the present time. It is our sincere hope that this release from business will restore him to vigorous health.

Mr. Butterfield, the senior partner, takes the whole charge of the establishment hereafter.

For the Chronicle.

ST. PETER'S CHAIR.

Messrs. Editors:—Having read a paragraph in your paper, headed St. Peter's Chair, I hope you will be so kind as to make room in your spicy daily or weekly for a few remarks relative to the above mentioned Chair.

Lady Morgan stated some five years ago, which statement I have never known to be contradicted, that during a tour through Italy she visited the eternal city, and curiosity led her to visit that far famed chair, and to her no small surprise, when the dust was removed from the everlasting Chair, she saw the words on the back of "There is but one God, and Mahomet is his Prophet."

Pius the 9th was not seated in that Chair of the Blessed Prince of the Apostles which he boasts so much of now, when he was making his escape in 1848, out of Rome, disguised as a Porter, behind a carriage.

AN ONLY CONCERT, AT THE TEMPLE,

In this city, provided sufficient encouragement be given.

In order to secure this Concert a certain amount must be previously pledged. Those wishing tickets must enter their names the present week.

Should it be decided to have this Concert (which will be sometime the last of this month, or the first of next) a plan of the Temple will be drawn, with every seat numbered, for each of which, tickets with corresponding numbers will be sold, so that every purchaser will have a secured seat.

The prices to be $1.50 and $1, according to location.

THE NORWALK TRAGEDY—Verdict of the Coroner's Jury.—Norwalk, May 11.—The Coroner's jury brought in their verdict at 10 o'clock last night. After detailing all the facts in the case, they come to the conclusion that the immediate cause of the disaster was the criminal recklessness of the Engineer in charge of the train, though they do not think the entire responsibility rests upon him.

In relation to the rumors in circulation in regard to the directions given by the conductor to the Engineer, as to the rate of speed he should pass through Norwalk, the jury say that after the most careful inquiry they do not hesitate to pronounce them sheer fabrications.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT—Eleven Cars Smashed.—The Fall River freight train which left Boston at five o'clock Wednesday morning, ran off the track at North Braintree, in consequence of the misplacing of a switch. Eleven cars were badly smashed, and the running gear of the engine was completely used up. One of the firemen was slightly injured, but no other person was hurt. The morning train of cars were therefore delayed about an hour and a half. The track was cleared of obstructions so as to be passable, at about twelve o'clock.

It is a remarkable fact in the family history of the late Dr. Peirson, that he and his four brothers, who were all the sons his father had by his first wife, have died accidental deaths; viz: two were drowned, when quite young, in Saco River; a third was drowned at sea; a fourth was killed on board the ship Putnam, of this port, while manfully defending the ship against the attacks of the Maylays; and now the last of the brothers has had his life sacrificed to the reckless conduct of Rail Road operators.—Salem Gazette.

MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT!

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.

Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.

What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, in cases simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.

In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S

Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,

PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

One Hundreth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.

[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]

First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.

It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriages, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

LYON'S KATHAIRON,

For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,

CAUSING it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.

AS A TOILET ARTICLE,

For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. It imparts the fragrance of the most delightful and exotic flowers, and is free from all minera properties, or any substance which can color the skin, or stain a lady's hat.

FOR BALD OR GREY HEADS

It is pre-eminently beneficial. "The Kathairon restored my hair after a baldness of 12 years. A. J. COURTRIGHT, 76 Bond-st. N.Y." This admirable preparation can be had of all reputable dealers, throughout North and South America, and the Islands of the Ocean, in large bottles, for 25 cents.

Sold to the trade at a liberal discount, but commissioned in no instance.

FUNNY TO THE LAST.—Some of the whig office holders decease in a very jolly manner. A decapitated 'route agent' on the mail line between Boston and Burlington, via Vermont Central Railroad, who temporarily fills the place of his democratic successor, now adds "ed" to the word "route" whenever he signs his name to a way-bill. It is not a bad head that jokes so cleverly after it's off.—Boston Post.

THE MAINE LAW ABROAD.—A note has been received in Maine, from the official representative to the U. S. government of the King of Sweden, asking for information in relation to the operation of the Maine Law upon poverty, pauperism and crime—and the general interests of Maine. He was instructed by his sovereign to procure this information to be transmitted to Sweden.—Temperance Watchman.

There is a good deal of truth in the following aphorism which we find in the New York Mirror :—

"Self-sacrifice often invites unkindness. A man who shows any desire to do good is at once made a packhorse; and those who cannot use him call him a hypocrite."

"If you don't go to school, my son, who teaches you what is right or wrong?"
"I don't get teached, I finds it out."
"And how do you find it out?"
"By observing that right works for a shilling a day, while wrong lives on it."
No: much made by that witness.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. The upper part, as a Dwelling House, has never been without a tenant, and pays a good rent. The building is thoroughly and handsomely finished, with double board roof and well slated. The adjoining buildings on the west are of brick, and this building is situated near the corner of High street, nearly fronting Market Square. This is one of the best stands for business in the city, and affords one of the best offers for a permanent investment which has been presented to the public for many years.

BALANCING THE LAW WITH A GRINDSTONE.

Just on the outskirts of a fine old village, in the southwestern part of New Hampshire, on what, before the building of Railroads, was the main road for teamsters from Vermont, through Nashua and Lowell, to Boston, resided, in a very beautiful residence, a distinguished Lawyer, who within a few months has paid the great debt of nature. Near his mansion, under the shadow of a company of ancestral elms and a row of stiff Lombardy Poplars, was his tidy, square, one-story, flat-roofed office. The tall, gentlemanly, silver-haired "Squire A.," was no pettifogger. If you solicited his opinion—you should be prepared to pay for it. His charges were always of the most respectable character. Now, Joe Clark was an honest, broad-shouldered six-footer, who, from the up-country, had for years, driven his fat, sleek, six horse team, by Lawyer A.'s, on his way to and from Boston, and often was the time, in the dusty days of midsummer, he had let his team stop to breathe under Lawyer A.'s nice shade, for Joe was kind to his horses, while he and the civil Attorney chatted of the weather, the news "up-country," &c., at the little office-door. One morning, as Joe was assisting the hostler in hitching-on his team, at the tavern in Lawyer A.'s adjoining town, he did that which he had rarely before done in his life, accepted a banter to swap horses. As he was whistling along by the side of his team that morning, some "law-question" in connection with his swapping, started into being in his mind, and though it was on a point of little consequence, yet he resolved that when he reached Squire A.'s, he would let his team breathe for a minute, while he should get the Squire's opinion. The few miles were soon passed—the Squire found in his office—the case stated—the opinion given, by the utterance of the single word "YES." As a polite way of taking leave, but without the most distant thought of anything of the kind being required—Joe asked what was to pay? "Five dollars," with one of the Squire's blandest smiles, was the reply. Without a word the money was paid. Joe continued for months to travel that road, a thoughtful man. How was he to get square with his old friend? One day, as he was approaching Nashua, he met the Squire, who told him that he had purchased a Grindstone for his farmers, at a certain store in Nashua, which was a famous store in those days, and he wished him, on his return from Boston, to call and take this grindstone along with him. Joe very readily acceded to the request—and never before had Joe Clark's team come into Nashua, in such a sweat as they did that morning.

Without stopping to see that the hostler looked after their wants, he hurried to the store, and rolling the purchased Grindstone through the premises into an out-of-the-way-from-sight corner, and carefully covering up the same, he left orders that on no condition was that stone to be delivered to any other teamster.

The week came round, and Joe with a happier face than he had worn for months, called for his freight. Never did a Grindstone before fall so pleasantly upon Joe's sight. He lifted it to his wagon with the pleasure that he would have tossed there one of his white headed boys. Through the eleven miles of pine plain, that separated Nashua from Lawyer A.'s home, Joe's team went that day with an unwonted speed. The old gentleman, as the team came to a halt, soon made his gentlemanly and good natured appearance. The stone was carefully rolled to the side of the fence—never was a Grindstone handled more carefully—Joe almost seemed to touch it with an air of affection. "How much to pay?" graciously asked the old Lawyer. "Five dollars," was the cool response. "O, the freight, I wish to pay you, Mr. Clark; the stone I paid for, at the time of purchase." "Five dollars, sir, is my charge for the freight."—The money was paid without another word—and ever after, Joe thought himself square with the Squire—having balanced the Law with the Grindstone.—Eastern Journal.

SINGULAR PRESENTIMENT.—Dr. Josiah Bartlett, of N. H., one of the victims of the recent accident on the N. H. R. R., was visited a few weeks ago at his residence by a friend from this city, who invited him to spend a few days in New York, at the then approaching Medical Convention. Mr. B. replied that it would afford him much pleasure to spend some time in our city, but that he had great apprehension of danger in traveling to and fro, augmented by the fact that when he last visited N. Y., he had engaged his passage in the steamer Lexington, for the fatal trip on which she was burned, when almost every passenger perished,—but did not reach the wharf in season to get on board. He subsequently overcame his reluctance to travel, attending the Convention in this city, and met with the fate he dreaded in the New Haven cars.—Boston Herald.

Judge Potter's commission as district Judge of the United States for North Carolina bears date 9th May, 1801; and Mr. Haywood's commission as clerk of the circuit court for that state bears date 20th December, 1802.

GREAT SHOOTING.—The "Farmersville (Union parish) Enquirer" says that Mr. B. FULLER a few days ago killed four deer, in a drove, with a rifle ball, at one shot. This will do, until somebody beats it.—"Spirit."

RINGS AND RAGS.—We saw a female rag-picker yesterday morning, with her smeared fingers decorated with no fewer than six gold rings. We didn't object to it at all, but it seemed to us very like running gentility into the ashes.—Boston Post.

As they who for the first slight infirmity take physic to repair their health, do rather impair it, so they who for every trifle are eager to vindicate their character, do rather weaken it.

"My brethren," said Swift, in a sermon, "there are three sorts of pride: of birth, of riches, and of talents. I shall not now speak of the latter, none of you being liable to that abominable vice."

When a witty English government defaulter, after his recall, was asked, on his arrival home, if he left India, on account of his health, he replied, "They do say there's something wrong in the chest."

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
FRIDAY, MAY 13, 1853.

MASSACHUSETTS LIQUOR LAW.—In the House of Representatives, on Wednesday, there was a long discussion on the liquor bill, which resulted in the rejection of the bill brought forward by Mr. Lord of Salem. The Boston Courier says, the bill was certainly stringent enough, and infinitely more practical than the "Maine Law." But it originated with the "enemies of temperance," as Mr. Plumb styles all those who are not ready to vote with him for a law that cannot be enforced, and hence the "friends of temperance," to a man, voted against it. The Boston delegation voted for Mr. Lord's bill, in a solid body.

SOUTHERN CONVENTION.—The commercial convention to meet at Memphis on the first Monday of June will consider the establishment of a continental depot for cotton in opposition to Liverpool; and a southern importing market in opposition to New York; a line of steamers to Europe; the direct exportation of cotton by the planter; immigration to southern ports, and the education of southern youth at home.

There is no reason why they might not do all these things—except that the plantation system, combined with slavery, renders their accomplishment almost hopeless, if not absolutely impossible.

The keeper of a protective union store in Nashua, N. H., was fined $100 last Saturday for passing fractional bills, contrary to the laws of the state.

The above paragraph is going the rounds of the papers. The statement is incorrect.—Nothing of the kind has occurred. It is true, however, that it is contrary to the law of this State to pass fractional bills.—Nashua Gazette.

Then some simpleton fabricated the statement as a scarecrow; but that law has never yet been enforced, and probably never will be. It certainly never ought to be.

THE MINERS' ADVOCATE.—From a copy of the "Miners' Advocate" newspaper, printed at Coloma, El Dorado County, California, we learn that Mr. Daniel G. Waldron of this city, is connected with that paper in a business capacity. Well, where hasn't Portsmouth got representatives? We only wish she had more at home.

The Advocate is a passable-looking sheet for that region, and appears to devote considerable attention to local affairs—wherein the conductors exhibit their wisdom. Among other items, we notice that "Mr. George M. Weaver, an excellent scenic painter, is getting up a panorama of a trip across the Plains. It will cover twenty-seven thousand feet of canvas, and will be ready for exhibition in about three months."

A MISTAKE.—The driver of the truck, which crushed the little girl's finger on Wednesday, desires us to say that he did not see the child till after the accident, and could not leave his frightened or restive horse in the crowd that gathered; but that he sent a boy for the doctor immediately, and went to see the injured child as soon as he got his horse secured. He wishes us to say this, to relieve him from the charge of inhumanity, which does not belong to him.

THE PIGGERY!—A cotemporary makes a vigorous onslaught upon the pigs, or rather on that "outrageous nuisance, the piggery on Market Square." We thought the pigs, as they lay there in the sun on Thursday morning, were a fine specimen of the otium cum dignitate. They were fat and sleek, and appeared as much at home as if they had always enjoyed the freedom of the city. We suppose that they are as legally allowable on the square as any other live stock for sale.—Animals under the care of a keeper are not said to be at large, but in his custody.

Nevertheless, pigs and waste water in the streets, are anything but ornaments to the city; not to mention the "fragrance," as Mrs. Partington has it, which they waste on the desert air.

COLOR AT THE OPERA.—Justice Russell in the Police Court at Boston, has fined Mr. Palmer one dollar and costs, and Mr. Philbrick one dollar, for assaulting a colored woman by ejecting her from the dress circle of the Howard Athenæum on the night of the 3d inst.

The Justice held that an officer at any place of public entertainment, or amusement, was as much bound to protect the visitor as he was to protect the manager; and that in the present case the officer was not bound to obey the order of Mr. Palmer to eject the complainant.

THE LATEST FASHION!—The latest number of punch contains a pictorial illustration of the spring fashions for pantaloons. The cloth in vogue is represented to be of so large a figure that it takes two men to show the pattern!

LOCAL.

THE CHARTER OF NEW CASTLE.

There is no obscurity resting on the origin of this ancient town. It was settled early, and was a part of Portsmouth, or rather the present township of Portsmouth was a part, and New Castle another part of the old Portsmouth, which extended from Hampton to the Piscataqua, and from the Ocean to Great Bay.

Belknap and Adams inform us, in the words of the latter, that in the year 1693, "the inhabitants of Great Island, on the 10th of March, petitioned the Lieutenant Governor and Council to be made a township by themselves. It was ordered that the selectmen of Portsmouth be served with a copy of said petition, and that they be notified to attend on Friday next, to shew cause why the petition should not be granted, and likewise that they come prepared to shew how they came to be a town, and what their rights and immunities are.

The selectmen appeared before the Governor and Council on the 17th day of March, and said, "The town has been reputed so—believe there may be a grant constituting Portsmouth a town, but they know not where it is. The bounds were laid out by the Massachusetts, and as having enjoyed it many years, pray it may still be continued as a town." The Council determined that Great Island should be a township and divided from the Bank, provided it is able to support itself. On the question that Sandy Beach and Little Harbour be added, yeas 3, nays 3, and Peter Coffin yea if all parties consent. The Lieutenant Governor then declared it should be a town, and that he would make it so, separate from the Bank.

On the 30th of May the grant to make Great Island a town was prepared and engrossed, and read in Council, none making any objection why the same should not be signed and sealed, save Major Vaughan, who desired his dissent might be entered against the passing the same, for that he thinks the King's commission gives liberty to the Lieutenant Governor to make towns, but not to divide towns; whereupon the Lieutenant Governor in Council signed and executed the same grant. The township thus granted was called New Castle."

We have now before us, in tolerable preservation, the original parchment charter, from which, unfortunately, some meddler has cut the royal seal; but of the genuineness of which no doubt is entertained. We copy it for the benefit of the curious in such matters; and state for their further benefit, that there are a number of interesting relics of antiquity on the island, of which this charter is not the least. It is written throughout in black letter, or old English.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.
DISTRICT OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Thursday, May 12.

In the case, Tracy vs. A. & A. J. Prescott—The Jury agreed about midnight, and at the coming in of the Court at 9 o'clock, rendered their verdict, that Tracy's Patent was infringed as alleged in his declaration, and assessed damages at $1021.44.

The Defts.' counsel then moved to set aside the verdict, on the ground of improper conduct of the Pltf., in regard to some of the Jurors, and the Court adjourned till afternoon to give time to produce affidavits in support of the motion.

Affidavits were then read tending to show that the Pltf. talked and exhibited his instrument in presence of some of the Jurors. Counter affidavits of the Pltf. and Jurors, tending to show that the Pltf. did not converse or exhibit his instrument in presence of any whom he knew to be Jurors, were read. The motion was overruled by the Court.

A Bill of exceptions was then filed by the Defts.' counsel.

Court adjourned at 5 o'clock, P.M., sine die.

City Council—May 12.

In Board of Aldermen, a petition was received from N. Dennett and others, asking repairs of the northerly part of Dennett street and of the common sewer—referred to Street Commissioner to make examination and report thereon.

A petition was presented to relay and widen sidewalk on east side of Market street, in front of Nos. 86 and 87—granted.

The Catholic Priest petitioned for a sidewalk near the Catholic church—granted.

A communication was read, stating that Company 6 had been enrolled according to law, the number being 75—accepted.

An order from the Judge of Probate was received, requiring the Mayor and Aldermen to examine a person said to be non compos.—Saturday next was appointed for the examination.

The Police Justice made his quarterly report, which stated that he held $28.78 in his hands after paying witnesses, &c.—accepted.

The report represents that many fines remain uncollected, and the City Clerk was directed to notify all delinquents that the amounts against them must be paid forthwith.

Application was made for a license to exhibit a Diorama of the Burning of Moscow, &c. for 3 nights—granted, on payment of $10.

The committee on the setting of awning posts reported that they had waited on Messrs. Fisher, respecting their posts; they at first consented to reduce them to a common height, but now decline altering the same, and will disregard the request of the city authorities on this subject, and abide the consequences.—The subject was laid on the table.

The committee on Streets, &c., in the case of Willey vs. Thompson, report that the Surveyor is justified; but that he should have notified Willey of the obstructions.—Accepted.

Common Council not in session.

Within about a year, eight steamers valued at near a million and a quarter of dollars, have been lost on the Pacific Coast.

NEW MILITARY ASYLUM.—The board of army officers, at Washington, has decided in favor of Harrodsburg Springs, in Kentucky, as the site for the Western Military Asylum. Blue Licks is equally celebrated for the healthful qualities of its waters, but is inferior to Harodsburg in respect to certain local advantages.

She brings dates from San Francisco of the 18th of April. The P. connected with the Brother Jonathan, which left San Francisco April 17, with 650 passengers and $200,000 in dust on freight.

The Isthmus was healthy.

The steamer Northerner for Panama, left San Francisco on the morning of the 17th, full of passengers.

The Golden Gate, from Panama, arrived on the 15th.

An attempt was made on the night of the 14th of April to burn the steamer Winfield Scott, while lying at her wharf. Three trains of combustibles were laid and set fire to, but were discovered in season.

THREE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

The steamer Canada has arrived from Liverpool, which she left 30th ult.

The Hermann, from Southampton, sailed at 2 P. M. on the 29th, with 125 passengers—among them Madame Rutgay (Kossuth's sister) and family, and 500 tons cargo.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The business in Parliament was of little interest. They were discussing details of financial schemes. On Thursday the Canada clergy reserves bill was read a third time in the House of Lords and passed after some opposition.

In the House of Commons, the adjourned debate on the income tax was resumed on Thursday and Friday, and adjourned till Monday. Lord Palmerston stated that there was no prosecution against Kossuth respecting rockets.

The Jewish disabilities bill was thrown out on a second reading in the House of Lords.

Messrs. Fail, ostensible proprietors of the rocket factory, at London, were tried before the Bow street Police Court, for having on their premises more than fifty pounds of gunpowder, and were fined about £6 and costs. They were afterwards put on trial for illegally manufacturing war rockets with a view of connecting Kossuth in the affair. The evidence against Kossuth was very flimsy, being mainly supported on the evidence of a Hungarian, formerly in Maidslane Jail for theft and recently discharged from a factory. The case is to go before a jury.

In the meantime, Messrs. Fail refuse to be bailed, and are confined in Horsemonger Lane Jail. We notice that the Prussian police recently sent to London, give full proof that Kossuth rented the house through Fail, the ammunition was making to Kossuth's order, and 300 Grenades were to order of Kossuth's agent.

FRANCE.—Almost no news, except the Emperor's severe indisposition.

The Emperor has granted a large tract of land in Algeria, for settlement by a Swiss Whaling Company, formed at Havre.

HOLLAND.—The Second Chamber of the States General is dissolved by order of the King, election fixed for May 17th. Chambers open June 18th. Ministers have published their programme. They will not introduce any changes in the present Constitution. Religious freedom is not to be curtailed, but will be closely watched. Various local ameliorations are to be made, and executive powers of the King are to be extended. The programme concludes with an appeal for the support of the nation.

GERMANY.—The Federal Diet has admitted Austria's claim for one hundred and seven millions for its quota for the Hungarian and Italian wars, which Austria views as protecting German frontiers.

SWITZERLAND.—There is intelligence of insurrection at Friburg by 300 armed peasants, under a Colonel, and its suppression, with some bloodshed.

THE CHINA MAIL, Feb. 25th, has important intelligence. The rebels threatened Shanghai with a force of 50,000 men.

Kuying, an imperial Commander-in-Chief, had been defeated and killed. The Emperor had issued a proclamation and calls on the people for help. The Friend of China says if Great Britain, America and France offer the Emperor assistance to keep his throne, they might bind him to open China to commerce again.

There were rumors of a powerful force being sent to watch the Japan expedition.

The Emperor has legal zed the sale of opium at 40 taels duty per chest.

COTTON IN WESTERN AFRICA.—Thirty varieties of cotton have been found growing spontaneously in Africa. A missionary says he has stood erect under the branches of a cotton tree in a Goulah village, so heavily laden with bolls that it was propped up with forked sticks to prevent it from breaking down under its own weight. The cotton was equal to that of any country. The natives manufacture cotton goods extensively.

The report that Mrs. Hunt of Northampton, had recovered from insanity caused by the rapping delusion, was false. She is in a water-cure establishment at Worcester, imagines that she holds immediate communication with God, and refuses to eat because she says he feeds her with spiritual food.

MARRIAGE

Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT!

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.
Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps in her girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.
What would we no often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.
In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,
PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.
One Hundreth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.
[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]
First published in 1847, and it is not
SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.
It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be ignorant.

☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding,) "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (mailed free) to any part of the United States. All letters must be post-paid, and addressed to Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Box 1224, New York City. Publishing Office, No. 129 Liberty Street, New York.

HOW TO ADVANCE THE CAUSE OF TEMPERANCE.

It is the reproach of politics that they afford a ready means of notoriety to men who would not otherwise be introduced to public notice, except in the reports of a police court. In this respect, however, even politics must yield to what are styled in philanthropic slang, the "great moral enterprises of the day." No political organization, uncontrolled by fanaticism, has ever been infested by a viler band of promiscuous libellers than the present Maine law banditti. With hardly an exception, all the able and respectable papers have opposed this law. It has been sustained, on the other hand, by papers whose support is a damage; whose applause is a scandal; whose recognition, like that of a prostitute in a public concourse, brings to its unfortunate object only shame and confusion of face. With these are united all those wretches who are to our social system what the bully and the common stabber are to people whose manners are less severe, wretches who measure their claims to morality by the perfection to which they have carried the arts of hypocrisy, denunciation and slander. And yet these base, fierce, narrow-minded, bad-hearted men have contrived to frighten our pulpits, surprise our people, and corrupt our legislature into a tyrannical sumptuary law, as foreign to all our habits and principles, as any decree of the shereef or czar.

The manner in which all this has been accomplished is full of instruction to liberal men. The difficulty is not, as has often been supposed, with the fanatics who honestly believe that a man who drinks a glass of beer, drinks damnation to himself; nor with the hypocrites who urge the fanatics to every excess in public, and quietly get drunk in private; nor with the two or three hungry clergymen who strive to eke out a slender stock of topics with temperance anecdotes, and a slender salary with the proceeds of temperance lectures. It is with the people of Massachusetts—the great body of our "fore-handed" farmers, thriving mechanics, prosperous tradesmen and shopkeepers. For thirty years and more, a faction, with whom they have no one feeling in common, has repeatedly deluded and betrayed them, with a furious teetotal cry. By an activity, an earnestness and a perseverance to which the friends of freedom and law have opposed nothing but good intentions, that faction has obtained their ear. It has confounded together in their eyes, the use of liquor and the worst consequences of its extreme abuse. Ingenious fanaticism has exhausted the terms in which the lowest blackguards are accustomed to express their hatred and contempt, to characterize an entire class of business men.

Against all this no steady effort has been made. The men who choose to drink liquor for the same reason that they choose to eat mustard, have been afraid to acknowledge it boldly. They have palliated and equivocated and quibbled, while the very scum of the earth have called them drunkards to their teeth. How can the people be expected to take a cause of which all its advocates seem ashamed? How can they understand the tricks of the fanatic and the hypocrite, if the sensible and the honest men are afraid to expose them? How can they help thinking, as the most enlightened men thought fifty years ago, if no effort is made to tell them what all the rest of the world thinks now? How long do our indolent friends suppose that fanaticism would last in Massachusetts, if the people could be made to understand that it was the badge of ignorance and stupidity—and that it had grown almost as disgraceful as sheep-stealing.

The aversion of our people to the liquor trade is an honest and a just aversion, so far as their knowledge extends. They have adopted the fanatical opinion on this subject, not from want of sense, or from want of honesty, but from want of information and reflection. Their prejudices may be reasoned down, and will be reasoned down. The war should be carried on everywhere. No quarter must be given to the fanatics. If a nonsensical tract be published, full of lying statistics, it should at once be met by an exposition. If a fanatical society sends out lecturers, they should be watched and refuted. Above all, there should be no backing out or shuffling by the friends of freedom. They should reflect that though there may be danger in avowing, there is no safety in equivocating. They should consider that where they meet with one fanatic who is crazy enough to be sincere in his denunciations, they meet with ten hypocrites who will get drunk privately, and who use teetotal slang as other hypocrites use cant, to gain a reputation. Not a lie should escape—not a liar should go unmasked. Particular slanders might be met by the law. Wholesale slanders might be victoriously retorted by the press.—All who hate fanaticism in its principle, and all who hate it in its effects; all who detest an irresponsible social despotism, and all who simply detest the hypocrites, might be organized. Public opinion would thus speedily be enlightened, and it would soon be as rare to see a sham teetotaller as it now is to see an Indian. ***

FROM HAVANA.—Charleston, May 11.—The United States Mail steamship Isabel arrived at this port to-day from Havana, which port she left on the 8th inst. There had been a disagreement between the authorities, and Lavalette, the second in command on the island, and another officer high in rank, were going to Spain in disgust. The troops in the interior were showing symptoms of discontent; everything else was quiet.

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.

PORTSMOUTH:
SATURDAY, MAY 14, 1853.

CITY CEMETERY.

We have already shown, to the satisfaction we believe of every reader, that our present burial grounds are not adequate to the present wants of all the citizens, and by no means adequate to their prospective wants. We have also shown that the scanty provision recently made by the city to supply these wants, and the more abundant provision, made for the same purpose by the enterprising Proprietors, afford no sufficient reasons against the establishment of a City Cemetery. We promised to give some reasons in favor of the project.

We do not propose, however, to give these reasons in the present article—but rather to tell what we ought to have, than why we ought to have it.

We ought to have, as City property, under control of the city government, a Cemetery of forty or fifty acres, not less than two or three miles from the Court House, easily accessible by railroad, and so situated with regard to it that a receiving tomb can be constructed on the line of it; and also contiguous to a carriage road.

The soil and subsoil should be suitable for the purpose—diversified hill and dale, wood and glen and rivulet, are desirable, as in the beautiful rural cemetery at Manchester, N. H.

The land should be purchased by the city, which can be done cheaply: and the money procured on a long loan. After suitable surveys and plans, the necessary and ornamental avenues being made, the family lots should be sold at a low price, within the reach of all but the very poorest;—and every twentieth or fiftieth lot reserved for the poor and the stranger.

We were going on to state some further particulars,—when, on opening the Portland Advertiser, we observed the following article on the Greenwood Cemetery, which is exactly to our purpose—at once affording a precedent for a city cemetery four miles out of town; and at the same time furnishing the outlines of a pattern to make it by. We copy almost the whole article, and commend it to our City Fathers, and also to all citizens who think that an old city of 10,000 inhabitants ought to own a respectable public Cemetery, good enough for the burial of the best, and cheap enough for the purse of the poorest.

It is understood that the city government contemplate laying out the avenues and paths of the new rural cemetery at Westbrooke, with the purpose of using the ground as soon as practicable. Indeed this has become a matter of necessity, as the burial grounds of the city are almost entirely taken up, so that the Superintendent is frequently at a loss where to dispose of the dead.

The new grounds are at Stevens Plains, adjoining the secluded and beautiful cemetery of Westbrook, in the rear of the academy, and comprise about fifty-five acres. They are for the most part covered with a growth of pine, spruce, and fir, sparsely intermixed with oak, maple and other deciduous trees; and the logging roads and cattle paths were so contrived by the former owners of the land that they now form delightful labyrinthine walks, where one may wander in the shade of overhanging branches for hours. These will probably be taken for some of the main avenues, as it would be difficult to lay out paths more advantageously.

The original plan was to lay out the wooded portions of the grounds in plats of suitable size, number them, and have them recorded in a book kept for the purpose, and charge a small price, say ten dollars, for the choice of these plats, and give a deed of them, subject to such regulations as the city shall from time to time make. From this plan will probably accrue a fund sufficient to build a small gothic chapel, and to pay the expense of a suitable gate-way, and fencing and grading.

The entrance from the street, which is about fifty-five feet wide, is overhung by two noble elms. This is the only part of the ground that bounds on the street, and it is to be hoped that the city will erect here a handsome stone gateway—such as shall designate to the passer by, the character of the grounds, and be worthy of the principal burial place of Portland.

Let this be done, and the grounds be handsomely laid out at once, and the plats will be sought after in sufficient numbers to meet the expense in a very short time, if the plan alluded to, of charging for a choice, is adopted. Already many citizens are inquiring for lots.

The more open parts of the ground can be appropriated for those who do not feel able or willing to pay for a choice of lots, and thus all could be accommodated.

CLERICAL CHANGE.

Rev. Lyman Beecher, D. D., is engaged to preach for the present, commencing to-morrow, in the Second Evangelical Congregational Church at Cambridgeport; Rev. Mr. Lovejoy of that place having resigned his office. Rev. Mr. Lovejoy has been a conspicuous abolitionist of the free soil cast, and is a brother of the "martyred Lovejoy" who was shot down by a mob. Latterly he has been a co-worker with Rev. Matthew Hale Smith, and others, in opposing the Maine Law, and has lectured somewhat extensively against it. As the venerable Dr. Beecher is known to be a thorough and ardent advocate of temperance and of the law in question, the change is somewhat significant.

HOW TO ADVANCE TEMPERANCE.

Our attention was arrested by this title at the head of a piece in the Boston Daily Chronicle, May 10. It stands first under the editorial head; and yet is not exactly editorial, as it bears a signature. It is evidently published with approbation. The reading of the piece disappointed us; presently, we will tell the reader why. And yet we were interested in it; for it contains many truths, happily expressed, yet mingled with many errors and misapprehensions. We copy it entire on our first page to-day, that our comments may be understood,—and that misrepresentation may be impossible—at the same time that we give our readers, few of whom see the Boston Chronicle, the benefit of its Plan for Advancing Temperance.

The article is easily analyzed.

The first paragraph is merely a denunciation of the "Maine law banditti," who are branded as "promiscuous libellers, wretches," and hypocrites, base, fierce and bad hearted men, who are no better than the "bully and the stabber." To whom these libels are applied, we are not informed; "the paper don't say." If it did, a suit might follow. We suppose, however, the real authors of the original Maine Law, and its principal movers every where, are meant.

The second paragraph excuses honest fanatics, hypocrites, and poor clergymen — but charges the great body of the people with being either duped or frightened into a support of the law.

And the third and last paragraph contains the Chronicle's plan for Advancing Temperance, which is nothing more nor less, than "organizing the friends of freedom," "the men who choose to drink liquor"—publishing tracts and papers against the fanatics—and using the law against them, whenever it will answer.

And herein is our disappointment: not that the "sham teetotaler," the hypocrite or fanatic are to be exposed:—this is well: but we see no plan for making real teetotalers, or real temperance men of any sort, or for doing any thing to promote temperance. We suspect the writer forgot his headline before he got to the bottom of his piece,—exactly as some rambling preachers lose sight of the text before they close the sermon.

Nevertheless, we think the article will indirectly aid the cause of temperance.

MASSACHUSETTS LIQUOR LAW.—On Thursday, in the House, the Liquor bill came up, when a motion was made to substitute the minority report—repealing the law of 1852—for the majority report. The yeas and nays were taken, when the motion was rejected by a majority of 46—103 voting yea and 149 nay.—There were 34 absentees. Of the Boston delegation, Mr. Chilson voted nay, and one absent. The question was then taken on passing the bill of the majority to a third reading, and the bill was rejected—yeas 129, nays 129. An effort to secure the vote of the Speaker failed, it being unnecessary for him to decide the question. We presume no motion to reconsider can be made, as in fact there is no majority, as there is no minority. The result leaves the law of last year, just as it is. We suppose no further attempt will be made to modify that act at the present session.

FIRE IN SOUTH BRIDGEWATER, MASS.—The large steam rolling mill belonging to Lazell, Perkins & Co., at South Bridgewater, was entirely destroyed by fire on the night of May 9. Loss very heavy. The cost of the mill and machinery was upwards of $60,000, on which there is but about $20,000 insurance.

COWHIDED.—Thursday morning considerable excitement was occasioned in Newburyport by Rev. Ira M'Quillan's being cowhided by Mr. Edward Smith. M'Quillan had complained of Smith for a violation of the liquor law. Complaint was made at the Police Court, and Smith was fined $10 and costs.

☞ The Newburyport ship-builders are making extensive improvements in their yards —their business having increased to such an extent that their present limits are inadequate for their operations.

☞ The body of Mr. Timothy Mansfield, who it will be recollected, fell out of his boat, on his way to Salisbury, some ten days since, was washed ashore at Plum Island, Newburyport, Thursday morning.

U. S. MARSHAL.—Samuel Swasey, Esq., of Haverhill, it is understood, has the offer of this office, or of Inspector in Portsmouth Custom House. It is said he prefers the latter.

An attempt was made to smuggle a quantity of liquor into Cheshire, Mass., by marking the barre with the name of "A. P. Dean," a prominent temperance man. Mr. D. happened to be at the depot when the barrel arrived, and seeing his name on the head, asked for the freight bill, which was found to be charged to "Diamond D." Grasping an axe that stood at hand, he dashed in the head, and old Mother Earth, who has seemed more than ever disposed to "take a drop" since the advent of the Maine Law, soon swallowed the contents!

LOCAL.

COURT AT EXETER.—An adjourned term of the Court of Common Pleas for Rockingham County, commences at Exeter on Monday next,—for the trial of "the flowage cases." We certainly hope they will be settled this time.

A special train of cars on the P. & C. road, leave our depot at a quarter before 7 o'clock, Monday mornings, during the session.

For the Chronicle.

"THE RINGING OF THE BELLS."—Messrs. Editors:—Who gets a salary for ringing the Old North bell at five in the morning, about half the time?

For several years past there have been increasing omissions of this duty. Once, some times twice or even more a week, we hear no bell now-a-days, in the morning—not to speak of evenings at nine, occasionally. The City should not pay for duties left undone. We want the regular five and nine o'clock.

AURORA.

We have missed the bell, sometimes, but thought we had dropped asleep while watching it, as watchmen are apt to do. We should rather be taxed ninepence a year, than not to be entertained by the music of the morning bell. The number of its hearers should be greater.

MADAM SONTAG.—The prospect at present is said to be favorable for her giving a Concert in this city. Those desirous to hear her would do well to send in their names as soon as possible.

FOURTH OF JULY.—The Journal would like to have no appropriation made by the city "for once," and to leave the celebration to "the patriotism of individuals." There are some disadvantages in making a public appropriation—but we should have a sorry exhibition without such aid. Let us have something attractive, to keep our own citizens at home, and draw our neighbors in to witness. We have no objection to private individuals doing all they can, but let the city do, at least, as much as usual.

ASSOCIATED MECHANICS' LYCEUM.—We understand that this Association at its last regular meeting voted to have a course of popular lectures the coming winter, and chose a committee to carry the vote into effect. We learn that the services of Rev. T. Starr King have been secured for the opening and perhaps one other lecture, and that invitations have been extended to some of the most distinguished lecturers in the neighboring States, and also in New York. We are informed that the lectures will be given in the Temple, and the tickets for the course of 14 to 18 lectures will be $1 each. This course we hope will not interrupt the lectures before the Portsmouth Lyceum; the lectures can be given on different evenings, and enable the lovers of this most interesting evening exercise of the winter, to attend both courses.—Journal.

CINCINNATI POLICE.—We have already noticed the excitement against the Mayor, for breaking up a street preacher's audience. In the following particulars we see a reason for the popular indignation.

A Protestant preacher, the Rev. Mr. Kirkland, who had taken a prominent side against the Catholic view of the question, announced his intention to speak in Market Square on Sunday. A Roman Catholic procession, through the same square, was announced the same day, for the purpose of laying the corner stone of a new church. A collision was apprehended in the excited state of the populace on both sides. The mayor appealed to the Bishop to postpone the procession, but the Bishop refused, whereupon the mayor went to the square and ordered Mr. Kirkland, who had commenced speaking, to desist, which he did, and left the place. Great indignation followed this act of the mayor, which was regarded as an invasion of the freedom of speech. He issued a card in vindication of his course, but the general opinion seems to be that it was quite as incumbent upon him to stop Bishop Purcell's processsion, as Mr. Kirkland's preaching.

FROM MANCHESTER TO HAMPTON BEACH. The Cheapest and Best Route.—When the scorching sun rides high in the heavens, and the weary dwellers in the city betake themseles to the mountains and the cool sea-beach, it is prudent to look out a convenient way of so doing. Manchester people may not be aware that Hampton Beach is reached in a more expeditious manner, via the Portsmouth & Concord Railroad than by any other route Stage fare from here to Candia Centre, Cass Crossing, is fifty cents; from thence to the New Market junction 65 cents, and to Exeter 10 cents. Whole fare to Exeter $1,25—which is about 25 cents cheaper than by Lawrence, besides being a pleasanter country to travel through. To Portsmouth, by this route, is only $1,40. We have no doubt but if the contemplated branch was constructed, to strike the Portsmouth and Concord Railroad, at any point in Candia from this place, especially at Cass' Crossing, which is by far the best place, that it would take all the summer travel to the sea side, which is getting to be not a little.

So says the Manchester Mirror. Make your road, and send along your passengers.

The Count de Chambord has addressed what his friends call a very energetic letter to Pius IX., remonstrating against his holiness's sanctioning, by officiating at the coronation of Louis Napoleon, a government originating in revolution, and diametrically opposed to the law of divine right.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

Washington, May 12.—The Cabinet held a protracted session to-day upon the diplomatic appointments.

Henry A. Wise will probably be minister to Chili.

The evidence in the Gardiner case was irrevocably closed to-day, and the counsel for the defence offered to submit the case to the jury without argument, but the other side objected.

Philadelphia, 12th.—John Rogers, a native of Belfast, Me, fell overboard yesterday from the barque Levant and was drowned.

Washington, May 13th.—The report that the Hawaiian Government had made a proposition to the United States for annexation is true. The proposition is now before the Administration.

PAPAL MISTAKE.—The faith of the French nation in the infallibility of the Pope has been much lessened since the report from Rome has tended to the abandonment of all hope of the visit of the supreme head of the church to the gay capital, at the Imperial coronation. But we hardly thought that this decision would by any French journalist be characterized as a mistake. Such is, however, evidently the opinion of M. Gaillardet, who, in alluding to the regret expressed by the "Univers," because of the great gain it hoped for the Romish Church from the hospitalities of the Tuileries, says "the sacred college has perhaps committed a serious blunder "une grande faute," in not profiting by this occasion, the like of which most assuredly can never return.

The gallican clergy, nevertheless, with the Archbishop of Paris at their head, are as joyous as the "Univers" is sad. It is looked upon as a victory gained over Rome, since it will now be the Archbishop, and not Pius IX, who will consecrate the Emperor.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—The official return of the votes for members of Congress at the recent election in New Hampshire is as follows:

District No. 1. Whole number of votes returned, 19,148; estimated as scattering, 118; Amos Tuck, Free Soil and Whig, had 8862; George W. Kittredge, Democrat, (elected) 10,148.

District No. 2. Whole number of votes returned, 14,851; estimated as scattering, 35; John Preston, Free Soil, had 1742; Aaron P. Hughes, Whig, 4353; George W. Morrison, Democrat, (elected) 9050.

District No. 3. Whole number of votes returned, 17,197; estimated as scattering, 6; Jared Perkins, Free Soil and Whig, had 7556; Harry Hibbard, Democrat, (elected) 9635.

THE NORWALK TRAGEDY.—Gen. Harvey's wife died at Norwalk on Wednesday, and was conveyed to New York for burial. A few hours before her death the doctors had pronounced her to be out of danger.

The last Liberia Herald received in this country contains a proclamation from President Roberts implicating the British government in the slave trade, by buying emigrants for her West India apprentice system!

The New Haven railroad company have settled with one of the sufferers by the casualty. Mary Jane Williams, the Irish woman, on her way to Cabotville, who went down in the broken car, and lost her gold, amounting to $250, (not $750,) had the sum restored to her by the Company at New Haven, before it was found, and $500 in addition—for which she gave a receipt in full for all damages. Miss Williams passed through Springfield on Tuesday night.

An Irishman named Sullivan had his leg broken and his toes cut off by the cars, on Wednesday evening, while walking on the Worcester Railroad track, between the Harrison avenue and Washington street bridges.

Judge Jesse B. Thomas, in a fit of insanity, committed suicide at his residence in Mount Vernon, Knox county, Ohio, on the 3d inst. he was once delegate in congress for the north western territory, and is said to have been the author of the Missouri compromise.

MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.
Many of the causes of these sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.
What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.
In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglects every still in herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,
PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.
One Hundreth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.
[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]
First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.
It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriages, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary improvement.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.
To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no controllable and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge, to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.
When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be ignorant.
☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding,) "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (mailed free) to any part of the United States. All letters must be postpaid, and addressed to Dr. A. M. MAURICEAU, Box 1224, New York City. Publishing Office, No. 129 Liberty Street, New York.

LYON'S KATHAIRON,

For Preserving, Restoring & Beautifying the Hair,
CAUSES it to grow luxuriantly, and giving it a soft and curling appearance, of the most delightful character. The KATHAIRON neutralises the effects of disease, climate, and old age, in preserving and restoring the Human Hair, even after a Baldness of many years,—cleanses the scalp from Dandruff, and its natural impurities,—immediately relieves sympathetic attacks of Nervous Headache, and cures all cutaneous diseases of the skin, such as Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Itch, &c.
AS A TOILET ARTICLE,
For giving the Hair a rich, soft, glossy and curling appearance, nothing has been discovered to compare with its incontested—its incontestible virtues. It imparts the fragrance of the most delightful and exotic flowers, and is free from all minera properties, or any substance which can color the skin, or stain a lady's hat.

The following singular case, from a French paper, occurred recently in Paris—"A gentleman, feeling a slight itching in his ear, took up a friction match in order to dispel it. In the ardor of a conversation he was sustaining he introduced the sulphureus end; the contact soon produced ignition, and the downy lining of the ear caught fire; a portion of the sulphur adhered to the flesh, and burnt there persistently. The unfortunate man never spoke again. His sufferings were so agonizing that his tongue became powerless; and after two days torment and unavailing efforts of the surgeons, he died."

It is said that a young lady of fashion in Paris, Mdlle. Virginia de T——, having died very suddenly, her friends decided upon a post mortem examination. It was found that three of the ribs had encroached upon the liver to such an extent as to produce death. The young lady perished of tight lacing.

Dr. James H. Gray, of Springfield, a victim of the late terrible accident at Norwalk, was insured in the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, of this city, for $5000 Dr. A. L. Pierson, of Salem, whose death was also recorded among the list, a few months since surrendered a life policy in the New England Company. The late Manlius S. Clarke Esq. of this city, a gentleman very extensively known in practice of law, was also insured in the same Company, and the amount of the policy. $3000, was on Saturday last paid to his widow.—Boston Courier.

A FIGHT WITH A CAYMAN.

We take the following interesting extract from a work entitled "Twenty years in the Phillippine Islands." The scene of the combat with the cayman is in the interior of one of the Philippine Islands, where the author had taken up his abode.

"At the period at which I first occupied my habitation and began to colonise the village of Jala-Jala, caymans abounded upon that side of the lake. From my windows I saw them gambolling in the water, and waylaying and snapping at the dogs that ventured too near the brink. One day a female servant of my wife's, having been so imprudent as to bathe at the edge of the lake, was surprised by one of them, a monster of enormous size. One of our guards came up at the very moment she was being carried off, he fired his carbine at the brute, and hit it under the fore leg, (the armpit) which is the only vulnerable place.—But the wound was insufficient to check the cayman's progress, and it disappeared with its prey. Nevertheless, this little bullet was the cause of its death; and here it is to be noticed that the slightest wound received by the cayman is incurable. The shrimps which abound in the lake, get into the hurt; little by little their number increases, until at last they penetrate deep into the solid flesh, and into the very interior of the body. This is what happened to the one that devoured my wife's maid. A month after that accident, the monster was found dead upon the bank, five or six leagues from my house. Indians brought me back the unfortunate woman's ear rings, which they had found in its stomach.

Upon another occasion, a Chinese was riding before me. We reached a river, and I let him go on alone, in order to ascertain whether the river was very deep or not. On a sudden three or four caymans which lay in waiting under the water, threw themselves upon him; horse and Chinese disappeared, and for some minutes the water was tinged with blood.

M. de la Gironiere was very curious to obtain a near sight of out of these voracious monsters. "At the time that they frequented the vicinity of my house," he quietly says, (pleasant fellows to have walking about the poultry yard, or looking in at the pantry window,) "I made several attempts to attain that end." One night he baited a huge hook, secured by a chain and a strong cord, with an entire sheep. Next morning sheep and chain had disappeared. He lay in wait for the creatures with a gun, but the bullets rebounded from their scales. A large dog belonging to him, (of a race peculiar to the Phillippines, and exceeding in size any European dog,) happened to die; he had his carcase dragged to the shore of the lake, and hid himself in a little thicket, where he presently fell asleep.—Caymans came and carried off the dog, fortunately overlooking the dog's master. When the colony of Jala-Jala had been for a few years founded, the caymans disappeared from its neighborhood. Out one morning with his shepherds, at a few leagues from his house, M. de la Gironiere came to a river which must be swum across. One of the shepherds advised him to ascend it to a shallow place, because it was full of caymans; and the advice was about to be followed, when another man, rasher than his companions, spurred his horse into the stream. Midway a monstrous cayman advanced to meet him. His companions uttered a warning shout. The Indian himself perceiving the danger, threw himself from his horse, and made for the bank. On reaching it, he immediately paused behind a fallen tree trunk where he had water to his knees, and where, believing himself in perfect safety, he drew his cutlass and waited.

Meanwhile the cayman reared his enormous head out of the water, threw himself upon the horse, and seized him by the saddle. The horse made an effort, the girths broke, and whilst the cayman crushed the leather, the steed reached the shore. Percieving the saddle was not what he wanted, the cayman dropped it, and advanced upon the Indian, whose master and comrades shouted to him to run. The poor fellow would not stir, but waited calmly, cutlass in hand, and on the aligator's near approach, dealt him a blow upon the head. He might as well have tapped upon an anvil. The next instant he was writhing in the monster's jaws. "For more than a minute we beheld my poor shepherd, his body erect above the surface of the water, (the cayman had seized him by the thigh,) his hands joined, his eyes turned to heaven, in the attitude of a man imploring divine mercy, dragged in the direction of the lake. He soon disappeared—the the drama was over—the cayman's stomach was his tomb."

Unable to save the Indian, the spectators of his horrible end swore at least to avenge him. The account of the measures they took, and of the fight with the cayman, is one of the most startling passages in the book, and we give the translation without abridgment:

"I had made," says M. de la Gironiere, "three nets of strong cords, each of which nets was large enough to form a complete barrier across the river. I also had a hut built, and put an Indian to live in it, whose duty was to keep constant watch, and to let me know as soon as the cayman returned to the river.

He watched in vain for upwards of two months; but at the end of that time he came and told me that the monster had seized a horse, and had dragged it into the river to devour it at leisure. I immediately repaired to the spot, accompanied by my guards, by my priest," (by this time M de la Gironiere had built a church, and got a priest from Manilla,) "who positively would see a cayman hunt, and by an American friend of mine, Mr. Russell, of the house of Russell & Sturgess, who was then staying with me. I had the nets spread at intervals so that the cayman could not escape back into the lake.

This operation was not effected without some acts of imprudence; thus, for instance, when the nets were arranged, an Indian dived to make sure that they reached the bottom, and that our enemy could not escape by passing below them. But it might very well have happened that the cayman was, in the interval, between the nets, and so have gobbled up my Indian. Fortunately everything passed as we wished. When all was ready, I launched three pirogues, strongly fastened together, side by side, with some Indians in the centre, armed with lances, and with tall bamboos with which they could touch bottom. At last all measures having been taken to attain my end without risk of accident, my Indians began to explore the river with their long bamboos.

Concluded to-morrow.

PORTSMOUTH:
MONDAY, MAY 16, 1853.

LIBERIA AND THE SLAVE TRADE.

Attention is invited to the following Proclamation of President Roberts, of Liberia, which relates to a new species of slave trade which has been commenced by the British Government on the African coast.

By the description furnished in this proclamation, (says the Boston Courier,) it appears that the British, being in want of laborers for their West India Islands, have resorted to their old practice of procuring them from Africa, with only this difference: that they are now called emigrants and apprentices instead of slaves.

PROCLAMATION.—Whereas, Messrs. Hyde, Hodge & Co., of London, contractors with Her Britannic Majesty's government, to furnish laborers from the African coast for the West Indies, have sent some of their ships to the coast of the republic, offering an advance of ten dollars for every person who may be induced to emigrate; and whereas, the extinction of the slave trade has left large numbers of predial and other laborers in the possession of the chiefs and principal men of the country; while the offer of ten dollars each is nearly equivalent to the amount formerly paid for slaves, during the prevalence of the slave trade, and which operated mainly in producing and sustaining the wars, by which the country was distracted; and whereas, certain refractory chiefs are reported to have engaged with the agents of said Company to furnish a number of laborers, and are further known to have in concealement, near Grand Cape Mountain, a number of unhappy victims of their predatory excursions; and whereas, complaint has been made to the government that persons are held to be sent off without their voluntary consent, or the consent of their natural guardians; therefore, to prevent the abuses and evils which might otherwise result from the enterprise:

Be it known by this proclamaton, to all whom it may concern, that the law regulating passports must be strictly observed—that vessels carrying or intending to carry away emigrants must come to this port with their emigrants on board, to obtain passports, in order that an opportunity may be presented to the government to ascertain whether the emigration be free or constrained. Every violation of the law regulating passports will be visited with the utmost penalty of the law in that case made and provided.

Done at Monrovia, this twenty-sixth day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-three, and of the Republic the fifth. J. J. ROBERTS.

The above proclamation, for which we doubt not there is abundant cause, discloses the existence of some startling facts. It would seem that some of the Liberians must be implicated in these plots for the slave-trade, or else President Roberts would not exert himself on the subject. And the conduct of the English government or its agents, (however cloaked,) cannot be defended successfully, if President Roberts is correct in his statements.

"What matters it to the African marauder, (asks the Courier,) whether the Englishman who buys his prisoners calls them slaves or emigrants? It appears that the emigrants are carried off by the British purchaser against their will like slaves, and are paid for like slaves. The British government, we trust, will be called to account for this transaction, which might furnish materials for a supplementary chapter to Uncle Tom's Cabin, adapted to the meridian of Great Britain."

We hope not only that the British government will be called to account, but that our government will do the calling. If governments could blush, both ought to be suffused with shame for their gross inconsistency. The hint about Uncle Tom suits as exactly. Mrs. Stowe, or somebody else, will have to build a new Cabin, large enough to hold specimens of all sorts of slave traders, the foreign as well as the domestic—and all sorts of scoundrels too, the crowned heads as well as the woolly.

One of the best features of the present time, is that rapid intercourse, which enables the British and American press to criticise, not only the acts, but the obvious intentions of each other's governments, in season to have some good effect.

We are glad to see our papers expose every act of British oppression, fraud or cruelty. And of course their papers will turn round and bestow similar favors on us. Both nations are guilty of avarice, fraud and oppression: and both deserve reproof. Why should they not have it?

FISHING IN THE BAY.—The British are making preparations to guard the Province fisheries even more carefully than last year; and no progress is making to adjust the difficulties in that quarter.—Newburyport Union.

We have already expressed our dissatisfaction with the do-nothing policy about the matter. Every fishing town in New England suffers by it.

THE LIVERPOOL EUROPEAN TIMES.—This paper is written in dreadfully bad English. In an article praising the English delegation to the New York Fair, the Times speaks of "ransacking the peerage to find a person the most suitable"—and calls the delegation a "complete batch of able persons, &c.

WORLD'S FAIR AT NEW YORK.—One of the most interesting items of intelligence in the English newspapers received by a late arrival relates to the appointment of a Commissoion by the British Government to attend the opening of the New York Exhibition on the 1st of June next.

At the head of it stands the Earl of Ellesmere,—a nobleman distinguished for his fine taste, wealth, and refined liberality.

With Lord Ellesmere have been associated five other gentlemen, all of them eminent in their respective spheres. Sir Charles Lyell, the distinguished geologist, and Mr. Dike, who contributed so essentially to the success of the Great London Exhibition, are men especially fitted, by their attainments and their habits of observation, to represent the industrial interests of England on so interesting an occasion. Professor Wilson, will personify agricultural science, as far as it has hitherto been developed in this country; Mr. Wallis, a gentleman long before the public in connection with textile fabrics, and with efforts to educate the artistic eye of operatives, is another happy selection; and the celebrated tool manufacturer, Mr. Whitworth, of Manchester, are as able persons as ever left the shores of England on a scientific mission, and as worthy a delegation, probably, as ever came for any purpose.

DEATH BY A FALLING BUILDING.—A despatch of the 13th, from Buffalo, N. Y., states that on that day a building on Main street, occupied as a banking house by Robinson & Co., and Robert Codd, while undergoing repairs, suddenly caved in, the roof and every story being carried through to the ground.

The front of the shop had been taken out for repairs, and the building left without proper support.

Five men have been taken out of the ruins living; one with his leg badly crushed, and others seriously injured. Three dead bodies have also been recovered. While digging in the rear, a man felt his hand tightly clasped by one beneath the ruins, and, after clearing away, a boy was discovered jammed in between the timbers. After more than an hour's work he was released, much injured, but it is hoped will recover.

It is supposed there are fifteen bodies beneath the building, all of whom are doubtless dead, as the ruins are piled up thick and solid from the cellar to the second story.

COLOR AT THE OPERA.—The decision in Boston, in regard to the rights of colored people to seats at public amusements, (which we gave a few days ago) was stated as we found it, but was so incomplete as to give a false impression.

Justice Russell, in his decision, did not admit the plea of custom in excluding persons of color from the house, but held that the manager, in failing to state in his advertisements that they would be excluded, was bound to furnish them with seats.

This decision clearly admits the right of a manager to make his house as exclusive as he pleases, by giving adequate public notice of the same; but failing to give such notice, he was fined for being illegally exclusive.

The Boston Atlas of Saturday states that Mr. Palmer, agent of Madame Sontag, has been arrested on a civil suit, brought by Miss Remond, of Salem, for damages in ejecting her from the Howard Athenæum. Damages are laid in the sum of $500, and the case will be tried in Essex county. Mr. Palmer gave bail.

☞ A horse which was put up at the stable connected with the Merrimac House, Newburyport, on Thursday night last, by a pedlar, pushed his head through an aperture in the stall, and in his attempts to extricate himself, broke his hind legs, but did not succeed in freeing his head. The horse was valued at $125.

☞ Large numbers of bass have recently taken up their abode in the Merrimack river. The catching of shad, some miles up the river, which is usually a lucrative business, has somewhat diminished the present season.

AN "IRISH" DEFENCE.—In Newburyport Police Court on Friday, Mary Henderson, a fine looking Irish lady, bearing a child upon her arms, appeared to answer to the charge of beating her neighbor's child. Mary plead guilty to the whipping, but excused herself on the ground that the "little slut" had thrown dirt in the eyes of her daughter. She was quite loquacious, and made a very good defence, though, coming after the verdict, it might be considered rather ill-timed. She was fined 50 cents and costs, amounting to about $4, but through fear of "plazing the trollop" refused to pay, and was committed to the Alms-house.

AN OMNIBUS ON FIRE.—In Washington street, Boston, on Friday evening, the top of one of King's omnibuses was suddenly covered with a sheet of flame, which was caused by the explosion of the driver's camphene lamp. The coach was proceeding at a rapid rate at the time; but the driver hauled up, allowed the passengers to alight, and extinguished the fire. The omnibus was slightly disfigured, but the passengers escaped uninjured.

LOCAL.

CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.

The New England Christian Convention will hold its Annual Meeting at the Pleasant Street Church, on Wednesday next, the 17th of May, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

The New England Home & Foreign Christian Missionary Society will hold its annual meeting in connection with the Convention, at the same time and place.

It is expected that fifty ministers, at least, will be present; and that the meetings above mentioned, with other services in connexion, will continue two or three days.

THAT BELL.—The ringer of the Old North bell wishes us to say that he has missed his five o'clock chimes but twice this season—and that during the last six summers, it has not failed more than four mornings in any one season, except when omitted by request of some persons having sick friends in the vicinity—and that the nine o'clock bell never fails except for this reason or the holding of some service in the church. He thinks "Aurora" must make a long night of it, to be asleep both at 9 and 5—and hopes that if he or any one else can do the ringing more faithfully than the present employee, they will get the job.

GREAT FALLS AND PORTSMOUTH.—The Dover Gazette is informed that the Great Falls and Conway Railroad Company, have decided to extend their road to Portsmouth; that the additional stock necessary for its construction is all taken up, and that the friends of the enterprise predict its early completion.

☞ The Newburyport Union has received the first number of the Journal of Commerce, published at Portland, Oregon, by Mr. Alfred M. Berry, formerly of Greenland. It is small in size, but of the right stamp, adopting as its motto—"Some things can be done as well as others." There will be room in the new territory for our friend Berry to grow and spread.

INSTALLATION.—Rev. John G. Adams, late of Malden, and a native of this city, was installed pastor of the Universalist Church in Worcester, Mass., on Thursday, May 12.

PATENTS—Issued May 10, 1853.—Jonathan W. Morrill of Hampton Falls, N. H., for improved ditching machine. John Mee of Lowell, Mass., (assignor to John Mee and John Rourke of same place,) and Gilbert Mackennon of Portsmouth, N. H., for improvement in knitting looms—also for improvement in warp net fabrics.

A BEAUTIFUL HAT.—In the window of Knight & Co.'s store in Market street, is a beautiful Hat of beaver drab, in shape nearly resembling the Cavalier's Hat of old England. Such a hat is always beautiful which cannot be truly said of stove-funnel hats, whether of high crowns or low. Gentlemen of taste will look at it.

PAUPERS AND CRIMINALS IN BOSTON.—We learn from the Boston Journal, that the annual Report of the Directors of the Houses of Industry and Reformation for the year 1852-3, showing the expenditures and receipts, and the number, condition and employment of the inmates, for the year ending with the 31st day of March last,—was laid before the Common Council, May 11th.

The number of inmates remaining at that date in the House of Industry at South Boston and Deer Island, and at the House of Reformation, was 1471. The expenditure the past year for the House of Industry, including the House of Reformation, was $39,596.56.—The receipts on account of the same institutions for the year were $3,762.45. The expenditures for the Deer Island department of the House of Industry for the year were $50,083.67. The receipts on account of the same department for the year, were $3,340.74. The number of inmates on March 31st, 1852, was 662; admitted by directors 1196; committed by Court, 58; born in House, 78; discharged and eloped, 1091; died 185; remaining, 718. Number of males, 409; females, 309.

The number of inmates at Deer Island on 31st of March 1852, was 643; admitted from the city, 1209; from vessels, 14; committed by Police Court, 416; born, 26; died 110; discharged 1551; eloped, 12; pardoned, 21; remaining 659. Number of males 349, females 310. Of the 1337 inmates in the institutions at South Boston and Deer Island, only 253 were born of American parents; 381 were born in America of foreign parents; and 743, or more than half of the whole number, were born in Ireland and other foreign countries.—The number of boys in the House of Reformation at last report was 93; committed since by court, 62; returned, 3; apprenticed, 25; discharged by court, 23; by expiration of sentence, 11; sent to sea, 5; remaining, 94. Of the whole number, 158—140, or 88 48-79 per cent, were born of foreign parents, and only 18, or 11 31-79 per cent. were born of American parents.

We deem the proportion of pauperism and crime, as divided between boys of American and foreign parentage, worthy of mature consideration.

NOVEL STRIKE.—We learn from the English papers that the oysters in that country have struck, and refuse to be eatable. The proprietors of oyster beds at Sheerness have suffered a loss of upwards of £90,000 by the unmarketable quality of their "bivalvular" subjects.

MAD. HENRIETTA SONTAG.
THIS LADY, accompanied by her principal artists, proposes to give Concerts in several of the cities of New England after the close of her opera Concerts at Boston, (prior to her departure from America,) and will give AN ONLY CONCERT, AT THE TEMPLE, in this city, provided sufficient encouragement be given.

In order to secure this Concert a certain amount must be previously pledged. With a view of ascertaining whether our citizens desire such a rich treat (the richest one probably that they have ever had,) a subscription paper may be found at the store of Dr. Preston, where those favorable to the project will please call and enter their names for tickets.

Those wishing tickets must enter their names the present week.

Should it be decided to have this Concert (which will be sometime the last of this month, or the first of next) a plan of the Temple will be drawn, with every seat numbered, for each of which, tickets with corresponding numbers will be sold, so that every purchaser will have a secured seat.

The prices to be $1.50 and $1, according to location.

Due notice will be given of the time and place when and where tickets can be procured.

LATEST NEWS!

BY MAIL, EXPRESS & TELEGRAPH.

FOUR DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE ATLANTIC.

New York, May 14.

The steamship Atlantic, which left Liverpool on the morning of the 4th inst. arrived at this port at 8 o'clock this morning, with 120 passengers.

In the English Parliament the debate on financial Budget continued, and a motion repudiating the continuance of the Income tax, was negatived by 71 majority.

Mrs. Stowe is now the Duchess of Sutherland's guest, and had dined with a distinguished party of Judges, &c., at the Lord Mayor's.

Alex. Humboldt and 1000 citizens of Berlin have petitioned the King of Prussia to remove the Jewish disabilities.

At Birmingham, the Roman Catholic Bishops, Ulathorne and Moore, have been imprisoned for debt, consequent on a bank failing with trust funds.

The empress of France miscarried on the 19th of April, having been two months enciente.

The Emperor Napoleon I. bequeathed half the domain of Prive to soldiers' widows and children, who are now claiming as legatees. A commission under the presidency of Col. Valault had been appointed to consider the matter.

No Christians had been massacred at Broussa, but a religious conspiracy against Christians had been discovered among some young priests, of whom 150 had been banished to Asia.

FROM ST. DOMINGO.

New York, May 14.—Advices from St. Domingo state that a difficulty had occured there between the Archbishop of St. Domingo and the Government, in consequence of the refusal of the former to take the oath of fidelity to the new constitution, which he pronounced accursed and heretical. The Archbishop expressed a determination to leave the country, when his passport was immediately presented to him, and a Government vessel placed at his service. The Bishop subsequently reconsidered his course and took the oath.

A correspondent of the Herald states that a conspiracy had been afoot between Ex-President Baez and the clergy to surrender the country to France, of which fact President Santa Anna had full knowledge.

GOLD IN TEXAS.—Advices just received from Galveston fully confirm the previous accounts of the discovery of gold in Texas. A party of citizens, just returned from an exploring expedition, had found gold in the mountains seventy miles north-west of the town, both on and under the surface. They brought back some lumps valued at $6000.—The Austin Gazette, hitherto incredulous, fully endorses the most favorable reports, and soon expects to hear of discoveries equalling the mines of California. The deeper the diggings the more abundant and richer the gold. The principal gold region is inclosed by the Colorado on the east, the San Saba on the north, and the Slano on the south.

AN ILL-FATED TRAIN.—We mentioned on Wednesday the occurrence of an accident to a freight train on the Old Colony Railroad, by which a number of cars were demolished at Braintree. The remnant of the train, after a long delay, started again for Fall River.—Near Bridgewater, a car loaded with coal was thrown from the track. Four or five of the rear cars followed, and were made to turn a series of somersets, quite destructive to wood and iron. Two or three of the cars were completely demolished, and the coal scattered in all directions. For the distance of a hundred yards the track bore witness to the resistless force with which the cars were propelled. Deep furrows were made in the ground; rails were bent and torn up, and huge pieces of iron broken as if they had been pipe-stems. Fortunately no person was hurt.—Boston Trav.

VERY SNAKY.—The San Francisco Transcript, just received, has the following paragraph:

"The immense volume of water that has come down from above, spreading itself in places back to the very bases of the mountains, and submerging almost the entire surface of the earth in its course, has had the effect of 'drowning out' thousands of snakes from their holes, bearing them headlong with the current. The levee fronting the city, has been literally lined with them in the last few days—so much so, that many persons passing close along by the water's edge, stick in hand, have made a pastime of killing them and throwing their bodies on the embankment, where they are encountered at every few paces.

Mr. Macaulay's health is so seriously affected that his physicians have prescribed a removal to a more genial climate. His return to Parliament from his literary studies was a great mistake. The consequence will probably be that we shall have no more of his History of England.

PERSONAL DAMAGES.—At New York, Mr. Amos Wade, who suffered personal injury on a Fulton ferry-boat, has recovered $6000 from the company; Titus Hutchinson recovered $772 of Cornelius Vanderbilt, for damages in not performing a contract on a through ticket for California.

FROM LIBERIA.—A private letter from Liberia states that Boombo, the marauding chief, had been taken by President Roberts, together with fifty of his followers, and brought to Monrovia.

Hon. John P. Hale has taken an office in Wall street, New York, for the practice of his profession.

SICK.—We are sorry to learn that Elizur Wright, Esq., of Boston, is dangerously sick of lung fever.

A chap out west was invited to take a hand at a game of "poker"—a fashionable game with gamblers on the Mississippi—but he refused, saying—"No I thankee. I played poker all one summer, and I had to wear nankeen pants all the next winter. I have had no taste for that amusement since."

MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence.

WHY IS IT?

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.
Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefitted by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.
What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied or better still—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.
In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S

First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.
It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own posterity dear to him.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispensable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

A Trap to Catch a Polar Bear.—We quote from "A Narrative of the Voyage of the Herald," by Berthold Seemann, just published in England, the following anecdote, which, for its finished picturesqueness and for its pervading and many-tongued moral is worthy to keep company with the best "homeh fable in Æsop."

"A thick and strong piece of whalebone, about four inches broad and two feet long, is bent double. While in this state, some pieces of blubber are wrapped around it, and the contrivance placed in the open air, where a low temperature renders it hard and compact; it is now ready for use. The natives being armed with bows and arrows, and, taking the frozen mass with them, depart in quest of their prey, and, as soon as the animal is seen, one of them deliberately charges an arrow at it. The bear, feeling the insult, pursues the party, now in full retreat; but meeting with the frozen blubber, dropped expressly for it, swallows the lump. The chase, the exercise of running, and the natural heat of the inside, soon cause the dissolution of the blubber: the whalebone, thus freed from incumbrance, springs back to its old position, and makes such havoc with the intestines, that the beast discontinues the chase and soon dies."

A FIGHT WITH A CAYMAN.

(Concluded.)

"An animal of such formidable size as the one we sought cannot very easily hide himself, and soon we beheld him upon the surface of the river, lashing the water with his long tail, snapping and clattering with his jaws, and endeavoring to get at those who dared to disturb him in his retreat. A universal shout of joy greeted his appearance; the Indians in the pirogues hurled their lances at him, while we, upon either shore of the river, fired a volley. The bullets rebounded from the monster's scales, which they were unable to penetrate; the keener lances made their way between the scales, and entered the cayman's body some eight or ten inches. Thereupon he disapeared, swimming with incredible rapidity, and reached the first net. The resistance it opposed turned him back; he re-ascended the river, and again appeared on the top of the water. This violent movement broke the staves of the lances which the Indians had stuck into him, and the iron alone remained in the wounds. Each time that he re-appeared the firing recommenced, and fresh lances were plunged into his enormous body. Perceiving, however, how ineffectual firearms were to pierce his cuirass of invulnerable scales, I excited him by my shouts and gestures, and when he came to the edge of the water, opening his enormous jaws all ready to devour me, I approached the muzzle of my gun to within a few inches, and fired both barrels in the hope that both bullets would find something softer than scales in the interior of that formidable cavern, and that they would penetrate to his brain. All was in vain. The jaws closed with a terrible noise, seizing only the fire and smoke that issued from my gun, and the balls flattened against his bones without injuring them.

"The animal now become furious, and made inconceivable efforts to seize one of his enemies; his strength seemed to increase instead of diminishing, whilst our resources were nearly exhausted. Almost all our lances were sticking in his body, and our ammunition drew to an end. The fight had lasted more than six hours without any result that could make us hope its speedy termination, when an Indian struck the cayman, whilst at the bottom of the water, with a lance of unusual strength and size. Another Indian, at his comrade's request, struck two vigorous blows with a mace upon the butt-end of the lance. The iron entered deeply into the animal's body, and immediately, with a movement as quick as lightning, he darted towards the net and disappeared. The lance-pole, detached from the iron head, returned to the surface of the water; for some minutes we waited in vain for the monster's reappearance; we thought that his last effort had enabled him to reach the lake, and that our chase was perfectly fruitless. We hauled in the first net, a large hole in which convinced us that our supposition was correct. The second net was in the same condition as the first. Disheartened by our failure, we were hauling in the third, when we felt a strong resistance. Several Indians began to drag it towards the bank, and presently, to our great joy, we saw the cayman upon the surface of the water. He was expiring.—We threw over him several lassos of strong cords, and when he was well secured we drew him to land.

"It was no easy matter to haul him up on the bank. The strength of forty Indians hardly sufficed. When at last we had got him completely out of the water, and had him before our eyes, we stood stupified with astonishment, for a very different thing was it to see his body thus, and to see him swimming when he was fighting against us. Mr. Russell, a very competent person, was charged with his measurement. From the extremity of his nostrils to the tip of his tail, he was found to be twenty-seven feet long, and his circumference was eleven feet measured under the arm-pits. His belly was much more voluminous; but we thought it useless to measure him there, judging that the horse upon which he had breakfasted must considerably have increased his bulk.

"The first process at an end, we took counsel as to what we should do with the dead cayman. Every one gave his opinion. My wish was to convey it bodily, to my residence; but that was impossible; it would have required a vessel of five or six tons burden, and we could not procure such a craft. One man wanted the skin; the Indians begged the flesh, to dry it and use it as a specific against asthma. They affirm that any asthmatic person who nourishes himself for a certain time with this flesh, is infallibly cured. Somebody else desired to have the fat as an antidote to rheumatic pains; and finally my worthy priest demanded that the stomach should be opened, in order to ascertain how many Christians the monster had devoured. Every time, he said, that a cayman eats a Christian, he swallows a large pebble; thus the number of pebbles we should find in him would positively indicate the number of faithful to whom his enormous stomach had given sepulture. To satisfy everybody, I sent for an axe, wherewith to cut open his head, which I reserved for myself, abandoning the rest of the carcass to all who had taken part in the capture. It was no easy matter to decapitate the monster. The axe buried itself in the flesh to half-way up the handle, without reaching the bone; at last, after many effort we succeeded in getting the head off. Then we opened the stomach and took out of it, by fragments, the horse which had been devoured that morning. The cayman does not masticate; he cuts off a huge lump with his enormous teeth, and bolts it entire. Thus we found the whole of the horse divided only in seven or eight pieces.—Then we came to about one hundred and fifty pounds' weight of pebbles, varying from the size of a fist to that of a walnut. When my priest saw this great quantity of stone—'It is a mere tale,' he could not help saying; 'it is impossible that this animal should have devoured so many Christians.' It was eight at night when we completed the cutting up. I left the body to our assistants, and had the head placed in a boat to convey it to my house. I very much desired to preserve this monstrous caput as nearly as possible in the state in which it then was; but that would have required a great deal of arsenical soap, and I was out of that. So I made up my mind to dissect it and preserve the skeleton. I weighed it before detaching the ligaments; its weight was four hundred and thirty pounds; its length from the nose to the first vertebra, five feet (about 5 ft. 6 in. English measure.)

"I found all my bullets, which had flattened themselves against the bones of the jaw and palate as they would have done against a plate of iron. The lance-thrust which had slain the cayman was a chance, a sort of miracle.—When the Indian struck with his mace upon the butt of the pole, the iron pierced through the nape into the vertebral marrow, the only vulnerable part.

"When this formidable head was well prepared, and the bones dried and whitened, I had the pleasure of presenting it to my friend Russell, who has since deposited it in the museum at Boston."

DAILY
Morning Chronicle.
PORTSMOUTH:
TUESDAY, MAY 17, 1853.

CHINA.

In the general and great changes going on among the nations of the earth, China, celestial as she calls herself, eternal as she seems, is yet included.

The English papers published in China have the following remarks in relation to the rebellion now agitating that empire:—

A perusal of the Emperor's edict is calculated to excite the sympathy of Western powers; and if, with united will, England, France, and America tendered to His Majesty assistance enough to secure to him his throne, stipulating that in return he should bring his country into the great family of nations, no doubt now their wishes would be complied with, and the cause of civilization become the gainer.

Whatever may be the immediate issue of the present struggle in China, it is evident that the old exclusive and bigoted system of that nation has received a shock from which it is not likely to recover. Our success in China destroyed the prestige of the empire, at least in the provinces on the coast, and the rapidly increasing communication with California and Australia, and the tens of thousands of Chinamen now annually returning from the former, with the savings and experiences of three or four years' residence in the most "go ahead" country in the world, cannot fail to have effect in a country where printing is so cheap and education so general as in China. Were the present dynasty subverted, and a state of anarchy to ensue, the preservation of quiet on her frontier would afford Russia plausible grounds for interference, if not for annexation. 40,000 Russian troops could probably hold China proper more easily than the same number of English hold Hindostan. There is no class of military adventurers, as is the case in India, and the great extent of the internal canal and river navigation, by which the country is traversed, would greatly facilitate the occupation of any European power making use of steam.

MEXICO.

Alas for that ill, fated, miscalled Republic. She looks to Priests and Generals for help;—but they plunge her into difficulty, deeper and deeper.

Santa Anna has proclaimed a new and arbitrary law in regard to the press, requiring all papers to be licensed by the government, the proprietors to deposit large sums of money as security, and submit copies of every article to government officers before publication. They are also forbidden to discuss political matters or to publish any matter deemed scandalous, immoral, &c., under severe penalties. From these severe regulations, several of the most prominent journals of Mexico, including the Monitor, have been discontinued.

BUY MY CHILDREN.

Most of the Boston Daily papers contain the following notice:

"To Friends of Humanity.—Subscriptions are respectfully solicited to complete the purchase of the wife and three children of Henry Williams. The husband has bought his freedom, and is anxious to free his family, who are held in Virginia. One thousand dollars is asked; he already has five hundred subscribed. He is a most worthy man, and in great anguish at the separation from his family, who, he fears, may be sold before he can realize the balance necessary for their purchase. Subscriptions received by John A. Andrew, 4 Court street, who will satisfy any one that Williams is really deserving of sympathy and assistance. He is now, and has been for a long time, in the employ of Mr. Young of the Cornhill Coffee House."

Really, this business of buying slaves, begins to look serious. Our exchange papers are rarely free from such notices. Where is it to end? Will it pay? We remember very well the talk in Boston, when Shadrach was rescued, that it would hurt the Southern trade of the city. And when Thomas Sims was sent back, the talk was, that it would help trade.

But we fancy that all the profits of the trade which that transaction brought into the city, must have gone out again, in the shape of ransom money, to buy off slaves to bring to the North as free negroes. Nevertheless, we are glad to see some money spent in that way, and to see it come from the class of men who commonly subscribe the most of it; for it shows that the donors have souls, and consciences, and that they do reverence some principle, or law, or impulse, which is superior to parchment or mammon, in spite of their professions to the contrary. It shows that they do regard Henry Williams as a man and a brother, and that they do have some sympathy with him as a husband and a father.

Man is not so debased as he sometimes seems. "There is some flesh in his obdurate heart."

Cape Cod Fishermen.—Notwithstanding the unfavorable state of affairs respecting the liberty of fishing on the Banks, Cape Cod seems bound to fit out her full fleet this season. In Plymouth alone, last year fifteen vessels were added to the number from that flourishing town, and this year twenty more—making in all, eighty vessels for that one port engaged in the Bank cod fishery.

PORTSMOUTH SUBURBS.

It is supposed that to find anything worth rambling to see, and especially to find aught worth noting in such perigrinations, it is necessary to go away from one's home, and after many days at Niagara, Trenton Falls, or at some of the many beautiful but threadbare scenes, where everybody has been, or intends to be soon, to find something worthy of being repeated; whilst the beautiful things in our own immediate vicinity, equally worthy of the admiration of all, are neglected, or appreciated only by a very few of our admirers of nature's loveliness.

Our beautiful sparkling, "steel colored" river Piscataqua is of itself a pleasing sight, as it pours its tide of cooling waters every six hours, into and out of the great salt water bay at its head; gliding in its rapid course through green fields and wooded banks,—now by a succession of fine farms, and now by a wall of precipitous rock, surmounted by a fine growth of pines. Upon any of the numerous swelling greens that raise themselves upon the southern or Newington side of the river, one may stand and revel in the beauty of the tide and its surroundings; but there is a point of view which surpasses all others for its extent and variety: it is from a hill that rises on a now unfrequented road leading from the main Newington road to "Knight's ferry," and also to a place upon the banks of the river called "Bloody Point," the former having been the landing and embarking place of travellers before the building of Piscataqua Bridge; the latter receiving its name from some tradition of bloodshed* in the days of aboriginal warfare.

From this hill, (which must be known to all who have once stood upon it,) is presented a "Pisgah view," as beautiful as it is extensive; looking down into the valley immediately below, all that is picturesque in an adjacent landscape is presented, in one of the most fertile and varied regions of New England.—Here the eye may rest with fond delight upon the windings of the river below. It divides immediately before you at Dover Point, the right fork dwindling away in the distance, is lost among verdant woods, and the left mingles itself with the beautiful bay. Looking beyond the immediate valley, over hill and meadow green, the eye rests upon the beautiful blue mountains in the more northern part of our Granite State, which stretch away dimmer and dimmer, until upon the horizon, with faint but beautifully distinct outline, rises the lofty point of fair Mount Washington, lifting the vision to the clouds; in the early spring it is white with the snow upon its summit.

Turning to the eastward and following the course of the river, the view is limited only by the blue Atlantic; and all this beautiful Panorama of nature may be seen by any one who will take the trouble to walk three miles out upon a clear spring day. The hill commanding this surpassing view, the beauties of which no attempt of mine can describe, has, I learn no particular name, and it is humbly suggested by a friend that it be dubbed "Prospect Hill." To the lovers of the beautiful in nature, with a slight mingling of the grand, a walk or ride to this beautiful Prospect Hill is recommended, and my word for it, there will be no disappointment.

From this point, taking a course across the country within a stone's throw from the river, may be marked the course of the proposed Dover Railroad, staked out by the recent survey. There seems to be but little grading necessary; the hillocks will easily fill up the hollocks. Should this road be built, the value of the farms along the western bank of our river would be greatly enhanced. There are places along its path where nature has almost completed wharves, and with a short branch of a few rods, switched from the main track, merchandise cars could be brought to the river's brink, to take in their loads and transport them into the upper and interior parts of our State. A little more thought and attention by our capitalists, would convince them of the great quantity of business that this ten miles of road from Dover to Portsmouth would give to our merchants and traders, and would induce them speedily to take up the stock and lay the track.

A railroad engine puffing and tearing, with its loaded trains, it is true, would not add much to the picturesqueness of our river; it seems to say "drive business, drive business;" and has a tendency to destroy the sweet languor that steals over the senses when contemplating the serenity of nature undisturbed. But there is this consideration to compensate for the rumble-tumble of the train; one may take a seat in the cars, and in as many minutes as it now requires to walk to our favorite Prospect hill, he is transported on the wings of the wind, and alights on the borders of our Lake Winnipisseogee, and in the immediate vicinity of those mountains which stretch away so beautifully blue in the now distant horizon. Moreover we must submit to sacrifice a little of our romantic love of nature, to this same producer of cultivation and business; otherwise the grass will grow rank in our streets, and we shall enjoy a rural scene on Market Square, "'mid fields of living green."

Rambler.

*No blood was shed there, however: it was only apprehended (once on a time) that there might be. But the name is well established, and has given rise to fears and foolish stories among the credulous. An old sign-board, with B. P. Ferry painted on it, remained at the fork of the roads, till within a few years. Ed. Chronicle.

COTTON'S BURIAL GROUND.

A Correspondent wishes us to suggest, in answer to what has been said in the Chronicle, on the subject of a City Cemetery, that our city authorities are about to add, or have added, some more ground, to Cotton's burial yard.

We have already stated this; and will now repeat the dimensions of that addition, viz. a piece of ground 70 feet wide, running back 298 feet or thereabouts, from the street to the marsh.

We would also suggest, to whom it may concern, that when the city authorities begin to grade and fence the additional ground, they would obtain consent of the Proprietors' Corporation, and take away the wooden fence between that ground and Cotton's,—putting in their place a row of Stone Posts, as a boundary, after the same manner as the Harmony Grove Cemetery is now divided from the Proprietors'.

This would make all three accessible each from the other, and make the small yard (Cotton's) seem a part of the whole.

CHRISTIAN CONVENTION.

☞ The Meetings of the Christian Convention will begin this day, Tuesday, at 10 o'clock A. M. at Pleasant Street Church, and will continue three days.

A sermon every evening during the session.

All the meetings are open for public attendance.

WARD TWO.

☞ Remember the Town Meeting to-day at 10 of the clock, all ye voters in Ward Two, —to see "who's who." Take care and do every thing according to law, this time.

☞ We learn that Samuel E. Coues, Esq., of this city, has been appointed Librarian of the Congressional Library, by President Pierce.

☞ We understand Mr. Isaiah Hanscom, of Kittery, has been appointed Dock Master at the Navy Yard. This is a very suitable appointment, as he was a Superintendent in the building of the Dock, and a skilful mechanic in theory and practice.

Weather.—We have had two delightfully summerlike days, Sunday and Monday; but the dust was not so delightful. The Spring has been cool, but it is, nevertheless, sufficiently forward.

Monday closed with a copious shower of rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning.

A farmer told us, last week, that he was 61 years of age, and had planted corn ever since he could remember; but had never before planted it so early as he has this year.

☞ Real Estate for sale at Auction, this day. See Auction head.

Court of Common Pleas—Adj. Term.

Exeter, May 16.

The Court opened at 10 o'clock this morning.

Present, Hon. James Pickering, & Hon. James H. Butler, Justices.

Hon. Charles H. Morrison, Pres. Justice, has not yet arrived.

The following named gentlemen were empanelled as Jurors:

Geo. O. Hilton, Foreman, So. Newmarket;
Joseph T. Porter, Exeter;
James Pike, "
Zebulon G. Thing, "
Wm. O. Smith, "
Henry Lowd, Greenland;
Cyrus G. Smith, Newmarket;
Horatio D. Page, Raymond;
Geo. P. Abbott, Portsmouth;
Benj. Akerman, " Samuel Spinney, " Supply Ham, "

Horton D. Walker and Littleton M. Laighton of Portsmouth were excused.

Case 25,—Bassett vs. Salisbury Manufacturing Co.,—was begun, and the Jury were sent out to view the premises, located in Kingston. This is an action on the case for damage to land of Dr. Bassett of Kingston, by flowage caused by the dam of said Company. The Court adjourned at 11 o'clock till Tuesday at the same hour.

A Dangerous Place.—The point in the vicinity of Boston, at which trains most frequently pass, is near the State Prison, where the Boston & Maine and Fitchburg roads cross each other. At the present time a train passes this place every four minutes and eight seconds upon the average, during about sixteen hours each day. This is nearly fifteen trains an hour.

We believe no accident has ever yet happened at that particular place. Yet it would seem that the public travel, across the tracks, demand a bridge.

LOSS OF AN AMERICAN SHIP

And more than Two Hundred Lives!

New York, May 16.—The brig Reuben Carver, of Rockland, which arrived here this morning, brought Capt. Stimson, mate, second mate, and six of the crew of the ship William & Mary, of Bath, lost at sea. The W. & M. left Liverpool with a cargo of railroad iron, and 208 passengers, nearly all of whom, together with the steward and two of the seamen, went down in the ship.

Capt. S. reports that the William & Mary struck on a sunken rock near the Great Isaacs, on the evening of the 3d of May, at half past 8 o'clock, thumping heavily for fifteen minutes. She then fell off and struck another rock within a few rods of the first. Here she thumped a few times, and then fell off again into deep water, when she commenced filling. After laboring at the pumps till 7 o'clock in the morning without avail, and finding the ship with ten feet of water in her hold, and fast sinking, the captain, mate and crew, with a few passengers, took to the boats and left her. In a few minutes she went down, carrying with her nearly all the passengers.

LATER FROM CALIFORNIA.

NEW YORK, April 15.—The steamer Illinois from Aspinwall May 5th, arrived this morning at 2 o'clock. She brings the California mails of April 17th, $2,300,000 on freight, and over four hundred passengers.

Lola Montes had arrived at Panama en route for California.

A Carthagenian charged with setting fire to the town of Gorgona had been arrested and carried to Panama.

The Legislature of New Grenada was discussing the constitutional reform bill; the most absorbing questions were the abolition of capital punishment, the separation of Church and State, and the election of Governors by the people, instead of being appointed by the President.

FALL OF ANOTHER BUILDING.—New York, May 16.—Part of a building in the course of demolition, at the corner of Wall and New streets, fell this morning, carrying with it two workmen to the cellar, where they are now buried beneath the ruins. Both are supposed to be dead.

RIOT AND LOSS OF LIFE.—A riot broke out on Wednesday of last week, in Blair county, Penn., among some Irish laborers on the public works. It originated from the old feud between the Leinster and Connaught men.—The former, armed with guns attacked the shanties of the latter, fired into them, and finally burned them. One man was consumed with his house. About forty engaged in the riot have been lodged in jail.

NEW YORK ANNIVERSARIES.—Receipts of the N. Y. State Colonization Society, $17,000; sent 728 emigrants to Liberia.—American, Foreign and Christian Union—year's receipts $67,507, expenditures $65,742, being $10,000 more than 1852. Father Gavazzi made an address warning us against the Jesuits.—New York Sunday School Union—77 schools, 1973 teachers, 15,009 scholars.—American Tract Society; receipts $385,286, expenditures $385,075 07; new publications 157, in ten languages; circulated during the year 9,173,640 publications, and 187,893,480 since the formation of the society.—American Female Guardian Society and Home for the Friendless; receipts for the year $12,772, balance in treasury $1934.

JAMACIA.—The El Paraguay, from Charleston, arrived at Kingston on the 24th April with two slaves on board, who has been secreted by the steward. Great excitement was afterwards raised by a report that another slave had been found on board by the captain, and put in irons; a mob of negroes was collected, who became so threatening that the magistrates were forced to search the ship in order to pacify them. In the meantime, however, parties of negroes had gone off in boats, and began stoning the steamer, while another party proceeded to Port Royal, and tried to induce the Commodore to stop the steamer at that place, and subject her to another search. This was refused; quiet was finally restored, and the El Paraguay proceeded, leaving her steward, a colored man, who had been induced by the rioters to remain at Kingston.

Political and commercial affairs were in an unsettled state in Jamacia, in consequence of a difficulty in the legislature, which resulted in the throwing out the import duty bill, and the subsequent prorogation of the legislature until the 17th of May. All articles are now admitted without any duty, none being legally collectable; in consequence of which speculators were busy and orders for large cargoes had been forwarded to the United States.

THE NORWALK CATASTROPHE.—The engine and tender were raised Wednesday, and thorough search of the river revealed no more bodies. The cow-catcher was uninjured, which shows that it did not strike the abutment on the opposite side of the chasm, as has been stated. Miss Griswold remains in a critical condition.

When the body of Miss Griswold was rescued from the water at the late accident at Norwalk, physicians present pronounced her lifeless, and passed on to attend to the case of others. A plain, unknown individual applied his ear to the chest of the lady, and thought he detected a faint pulsation of the heart. He commenced chafing the body, and continued his efforts unremittingly until the gasps of returning life rewarded his exertions. The lady is now restored to her friends.

The man who was thus the means of saving her life, is said to be a stage driver. His name is reported Lynus Benedict. He ought to receive the medal of some Humane Society, and to be liberally paid for making public his process of recovery in a minute description.

POSTMASTER OF BOSTON.—The Boston Times learns that C. Levi Woodbury, Esq., has accepted the office of Postmaster of Boston, and that he will probably enter upon his duties on the first of July.

MARRIAGE,

Happiness and Competence,

WHY IS IT!

That we behold many females, scarce in the meridian of life broken in health and spirits with a complication of diseases and ailments, depriving them of the power for the enjoyment of life at an age when physical health, buoyancy of spirits, and happy serenity of mind, arising from a condition of health, should be predominant.
Many of the causes of her sufferings at first—perhaps years before, perhaps during girlhood, or the first years of marriage—were in their origin so light as to pass unnoticed, and of course neglected.

IN AFTER YEARS,

When too late to be benefited by our knowledge, we look back and mourn, and regret the full consequences of our ignorance.
What would we not often give to possess, in early life, the knowledge we obtain in after years! And what days and nights of anguish we might not have been spared, if the knowledge was timely possessed. It is

MELANCHOLY AND STARTLING

To behold the sickness and suffering endured by many a wife for many years, from causes simple and controllable, easily remedied—or better still,—not incurred, if every

WIFE AND MOTHER

Possessed the information contained in a little volume, (within the reach of all) which would spare to herself

YEARS OF MISERY,

And to her husband the constant toil and anxiety of mind, necessarily devolving upon him from sickness of the wife, without giving him the opportunity of acquiring that competence which his exertions are entitled, and the possession of which would secure the happiness of himself, wife, and children.

SECURE THE MEANS OF HAPPINESS

By becoming in time possessed of the knowledge, the want of which has caused the sickness and poverty of thousands.
In view of such consequences, no wife or mother is excusable if she neglect to avail herself of that knowledge in respect to herself, which would spare her much suffering, be the means of happiness and prosperity to her husband, and confer upon her children that blessing above all price—healthy bodies, with healthy minds. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S
Private Medical Companion.

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,
PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.
One Hundreth Edition. 18mo., pp. 250. Price 50 Cents.
[ON FINE PAPER, EXTRA BINDING, $1 00.]
First published in 1847, and it is not

SURPRIZING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, WHETHER MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly

should have been sold.
It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage, but no female desirous of enjoying health, and that beauty, consequent upon health, which is so conducive to her own happiness, and that of her husband, but either has or will obtain it, as has or will every husband who has the love and affection of his wife at heart, or that of his own pecuniary interest.

UPWARDS OF ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES

Have been SENT BY MAIL within the last few months.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

BE NOT DEFRAUDED!

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No excuse for Ignorance, when Ignorance is Misery to those we hold near and dear, and when to dispel our Ignorance is within our reach.

To enable every one to decide upon the indispenable necessity of possessing a copy, and that no wife, or mother need remain uninformed upon the many causes, which, sooner or later, are destined to make fearful ravages upon her health, unless guarded against, and that no considerate and affectionate husband have cause to upbraid himself with neglect of the welfare of his wife—a pamphlet of thirty-six pages, containing full Title-page and Index of Contents, together with extracts from the book, will be sent free of charge to any part of the United States, by addressing, post-paid, as herein.

When Knowledge is Happiness, 'tis culpable to be ignorant.

☞ On receipt of One Dollar (for the fine Edition, extra binding), "THE MARRIED WOMAN'S PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION" is sent (mailed free) to any part of the United States. CELEBRATED TALKERS.—We remember well the disappointment of an American, as narrated by a friend, who had a most excellent idea of the merits of Coleridge. In travelling through England, he carried letters of introduction, and approached with much interest the shrine of his far off devotion. He had hardly been introduced into the presence, and had scarcely uttered a word, before the thick-set, red-faced man before him arose and proposed a turn in the garden. Now our travelling man was no poor talker, and expected the usual courtesies of civilized life; but the poet took him by the arm, and as they pursued their winding walk, deliberately inflicted on him, an essay of intermizable length, breadth and thickness. It brought to mind Lamb's sharp jest on the same prosy gentleman.

Said Coleridge, "Charley, did you ever hear me preach?" "I never heard you do anything else," was the reply of Elia, which is a by-word to this day.—Manchester Mirror.
